Plan To Revive Construction On Safeguard Project Here

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"We're on the road again," Congressman William Randall told members of the news media at a news conference Saturday afternoon. Randall's statements referred to plans to revive construction of the Safeguard missile system in Pettis County.

Though often referred to as the "Whiteman program" the crux of the local complex is located near Hughesville where a Missile Site Fadar facility is located.

Randall said interest began to rise with the publication March 3 of an article in Business Week dealing with efforts to reauthorize construction of the Safeguard system.

The system had first been authorized in 1970 when Congress was considering programs for fiscal 1971. The Pettis County project was first given the go-ahead at that time.

In fiscal 1972, Senate and House conferees met to reach a feasable agreement on Safeguard action. House conferees yielded to Senate conferees and the Safeguard project became bogged down in legislation, according to Randall. "Everyone was opposed to Safeguard," said the Fourth district Democrat.

Now Congress is dealing with fiscal 1973 and Randall sees momentum building toward completion of the Pettis County project by late 1977 or early 1978. Randall is seeking favorable action on what is in essance a fulfillment of work begun in Pettis County in 1971.

There is only one forseeable snag on which the congressman's plans might catch — the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). Randall said he does not view the talks as a major drawback to the progress of development in Pettis County. He stated sources in the military and diplomatic corp have lead him to believe the United States and Soviet Union will set a limitation of from 150 to 200 defensive missiles.

Randall said he thought the ideal talk about "a diversion of funds" from the Pettis County project to other Safeguard instilations "was more than gossip." Randall said the diversion was not underhanded, but money originally slated for the Pettis County project and one at Malstrom AFB in Montana had been grouped together.

He stated he would make an effort to clarify where money for Pettis County and other sites in the Safeguard system were headed, by listing projects and their funding on a line-item basis. The line-item would stop diversion of money from one project to another, short of special committee action.

Randall told The Democrat-Capital labor and construction problems at the Malstrom site slowed that aspect of the Safeguard program. Headaches at Malstrom were so severe that 40 million in funds Randall had thought would go to Pettis County were chanelled to the Montana site.

Randall said, "we weren't really hurt" by the loss of funds originally slated for Pettis County. Newsmen followed up on the statement and Randall admitted the slow-down of Safeguard action was the main reason the Pettis County area was not hurt by the taking away of funds.

At present funds designated for the Pettis County and Warren A.F.B. projects total $238.2 million, Randall said.

Randall told newsmen $6.8 million has been applied to all Safeguard installations building and construction materials and another $2.1 million has been obligated to the Pettis County area.

He said $800,000 has been awarded a St. Louis firm for the design of a Missile Site Radar in the area.

Randall said a Site Defense Minuteman (SDM) or "Hardsite" proposal has been advanced by the Pentagon and sympathetic members of the House to counter critics of Safeguard who say one blase properly placed could destroy the entire system. Randall said this program will feature smaller missiles and more radar spread over a larger area of the nation.

He first thought "this Hardsite was a gimmick" to discredit the Safeguard program. However, Randall now believes SDM "is a good idea."

Randall said one Missouri Senator expressed fear that other programs might suffer if too much money was chanelled into the Pettis County program. Randall said community impact funds would bring $17 million to school construction.

The Democrat-Capital referred the representative to a press conference held last Aug. at the State Fair, and asked him to comment on Sen. Symington's announcement that he planned then to introduce a Senate resolution to scrap the Pettis County project. Randall declined direct comment, saying only that his views on the matter were clear.

Randall told newsmen he "couldn't be surprised at pesimissm" in the Pettis County area about plans to step-up work on Safeguard. He said, "Once the construction begins, the project will bear fruit." He later added, "We are moving ahead, even though there is no evidence of it here in Pettis County and western Missouri."

Randall commented other variables could have an effect on his plans for the Safeguard program, such as the SALT talks and President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Moscow.

In other matters, responding to a Democrat-Capital question about the suit filed by the Environmental Defense Fund to halt construction on the Harry S. Truman reservoir, Randall said he felt the group waited too long to take action and "whoever defends it (suit) would have a good case."

Randall added "I don't know why it has become fashionable to oppose the people who built this country (Army Corp of Engineers)."

Randall said he is making an effort to investigate funding of the EDF.

Takes Full Control

Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, shown at a recent press conference, has dissolved Parliament and taken full control of Cambodia. Sources said Saturday the takeover was to avert a possible coup by members of the National Assembly. Nol's radio announcement spoke of groups in the national society "who forgot to keep their obligations in mind and have unwittingly served the enemy."

Hearings Threaten Headache

WASHINGTON (AP) — The longer the Senate committee hearings on Richard G. Kleindienst continue, the more they seem to promise a major political headache for the Nixon administration.

Most of the Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee seem perfectly content to allow the investigation of the government's settlement of an antitrust action against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., and Kleindienst's role in it, to drag on. And they appear to be getting some perhaps inadvertent help from Republicans.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said at the time Kleindienst requested the hearings that he didn't think they'd last more than a day or two. When they resume this week they'll be in their eighth day with no end in sight.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana took note Saturday of the increasingly political atmosphere surrounding the hearings, and deplored it.

"I wish they would stick to the facts and I wish the politics would be forgotten or at least toned down," Mansfield told reporters.

Mansfield specifically cited Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole's statement Friday urging an investigation of the upcoming Democratic convention.

Dole alleged that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is providing service to the Democrats preparing for their Miami Beach convention even though the party owes AT&T $1.5 million from the 1968 campaign. That violates federal law, Dole said.

The telephone company and the Democratic National Committee, however, responded that Dole had his facts wrong. The party is paying all 1972 convention telephone bills in advance, they said.

But Dole rejected this explanation and said in a statement Saturday that AT&T and the Democratic National Committee have entered into a secret deal indefinitely postponing payment of the 1968 debt.

The Kansas senator demanded that terms of this alleged agreement be made public.

One reason for uncertainty on terminating the hearing is the difficulty in getting direct testimony from a key witness, Dita Beard, an ITT lobbyist now in a Denver hospital suffering from heart trouble.

DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL SURVEY

Question: The Environmental Defense Fund is seeking to halt the Harry S. Truman Reservoir project at Warsaw because, the EDF alleges, the Army Corps of Engineers has failed to provide an environmental impact statement as required by a 1969 law. The EDF also claims a precious environmental balance would be ruined by the reservoir. Do you agree?

Forest Crews Fight Several Brush Fires

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — National and state forest crews fought a number of forest and brush fires in southern Missouri Saturday as a dangerously high level of factors made other outbursts possible.

The biggest blaze was along Missouri 125 miles southeast of Springfield within the confines of the Mark Twain National Forest. The fire, however, was on state and privately owned lands along the highway and a National Forest Service spokesman said its crews had not been asked to assist.

In another section of the Mark Twain preserve, fire on private land south of Fremont was quickly brought under control by government crews.

They acted, a spokesman said, because the blaze was a direct threat to the preserve.

On Friday night in another section of the federal preserve, crews put out two fires which were labeled as "incendiary fires", due of arson, near Willow Springs.

Damage in the Fremont and Willow Springs fires was not believed extensive because of the quick response by federal crews, placed on "red alert" in anticipation of a busy weekend.

Billie Wheeler of the National Forest Service here explained, "Our dangers are very high. In some areas we have readings of more than 100."

Mrs. Wheeler explained the readings considered all factors lending themselves to fire conditions in the forests—high temperatures, low humidity, dry ground and high winds.

"We have a reading today of 112 in the Cassville district," she said. "To give you an idea what that means — 7 to 16 is high, 17 to 49 very high and 50-plus is extreme."

Wallace Favorite In Florida Primary

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Democratic rivals in Florida's presidential primary free-for-all hunted votes at picnics, rallies and shopping centers Saturday, with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie declaring that a victory for favored Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace would be a message that "this is the state where the New South died."

The embattled Muskie, campaigning for a good showing in Tuesday's primary to prove himself as the front runner in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he doesn't believe Florida wants to send the rest of the nation that kind of message.

"I don't believe Florida wants to hear the party of John Kennedy speaking with the voice of George Wallace," he told some 200 people after a picnic in a South Miami park. Nonetheless, the major White House contenders are struggling for second place Tuesday while Wallace rides his antibusing bandwagon as the favorite in an 11-way race.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, meanwhile was telling a mock convention of high school students from around the state that as president he would create a cabinet rank office of youth affairs. He promised "the full involvement of youth in solving America's problems."

He then moved on to an apartment house for senior citizens, and told about 150 people there that he sponsored Medicare, housing for the elderly, Social Security increases and an assortment of other programs for the aging.

Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota was in Orlando, where he told the families of American prisoners in North Vietnam, that as president he would announce an immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina within 90 days, end support of the current Saigon government, and then press for release of the POWs.

He said those steps would put the United States in position to insist upon compliance with the Geneva Convention on prisoners of war, providing for repatriation without delay after the end of hostilities.

"This is not a proposed negotiating position," McGovern said. "... it is a planned course of action which I fully intend to carry out."

In Miami, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York renewed his demand that the candidates meet in debate.

"The people of Florida must serve notice on Wallace, Humphrey and Muskie that a man who won't debate will not get their votes," Lindsay said. "Floridians must say that a candidate who runs from a fight cannot run the nation."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, shaking hands at a shopping center in a black section of Miami, had a good natured encounter with Humphrey, who was about the same task.

It was learned, meanwhile, that the Muskie campaign is now trying to figure out a graceful way to change position and make public the names and contributions of its financial supporters.

McGovern has disclosed the donors who contributed $1.2 million to finance the first year of his campaign. Lindsay has made public the names of donors to his campaign since last fall, and Humphrey has said he will make such a disclosure Monday. Muskie strategists believe the issue, which McGovern has been hammering at since making his disclosure on Feb. 29, is hurting their candidate.

Release Drug Raid Arrestees on Bond

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARRENSBURG — All eight persons arrested here Friday in pre-dawn drug raids at private residences were released Saturday morning on bond. Several others, held for investigation in connection with the raids, were also released, according to a Johnson County sheriff's department spokesman.

The arrests were the result of several months of investigation of drug traffic in the Warrensburg area requested by officials of Central Missouri State College.

Officers from the Warrensburg police department, the Johnson County sheriff's office, Missouri Highway Patrol and CMSC security police worked as a team while making the raids on six residences.

A sheriff's department spokesman told The Democrat-Capital Saturday morning two warrants were "outstanding" or had not been served, but declined further comment.

Charged with the sale and distribution of varied drugs and released on $5,000 bond each were:

Danny Frost, two counts of selling cocaine; Kimble Anderson, selling marijuana; Thomas Cabanas, selling hashish; Mark Stevens, selling MDA (amphetamines); and J.B. Cohen, two counts of selling marijuana and LSD.

Charged with possession of marijuana and released on $500 bond each were William Foster, Shelly Snyder and James Carson. All those arrested live in the Warrensburg area.

A tentative preliminary hearing date of March 16 was set for those charged with selling drugs, but no preliminary hearing date had been set as of Saturday for those charged with possession of drugs, according to a Johnson County official.

Those who were released but not charged following the initial investigations may not be free from later arrest, a Johnson County sheriff's department spokesman said Saturday. According to the sheriff's office, Johnson County Prosecutor George Mitchell indicated "he would go over all the evidence and other arrests could follow."

Search for Missing Youth Turns Up Nothing

By PETE DANIELS
Managing Editor

PEKIN, Ill. — This city of about 30,000 has been turned up-side-down since Jan. 17 in search of a missing 13-year-old boy who has relatives in the Sedalia Mo., area.

Gone is Richard William Griener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Griener and the nephew of Mrs. Charles Long, Hughesville. He has several other relatives in the Pettis County area.

About 4 p.m. Jan. 17 Richard asked his mother for permission to go sledding at a school campus not far from the Griener residence. Permission was given with the understanding that he be home at 5:30 p.m.

The boy hasn't been seen since.

A spokesman for the police department here told The Democrat-Capital Saturday, "We almost have a book on him. Every lead has been checked and we've distributed bulletins to every law enforcement agency in the state. We haven't found a clue."

According to Mrs. Griener, there was some reluctance at first to believe the boy hadn't simply run away from home. "I knew as soon as he was late that something had happened to him," she said.

Perhaps the most puzzling aspect of the cast is the total absence of evidence. Relatives have been contacted, announcements and pleas for information have been published in newspapers, friends and neighbors have been asked for help and still — nothing.

"There isn't a clue. Absolutely nothing," Mrs. Griener said.

"At first the police insisted he'd run away. We never believed that. We felt he'd had an accident and went to look for him on the day he disappeared. We haven't heard anything since," she told The Democrat-Capital.

Police authorities from Peoria were called to the scene about three days after the boy vanished. They had dogs, but the area had been so heavily travelled by then that no trace was found.

Mrs. Griener said the family now believes Richard never reached the "sledding hill" where he was going. "We've found three sleds, but we couldn't positively identify any of them," she said.

She also reported that persons who were at the sledding area that day apparently didn't see Richard. "No one's come forward with information that they saw him. That's why we don't think he got there. Something's happened to him, but we don't know what."

According to Mrs. Griener, the FBI cannot enter the case since there just isn't enough evidence to go on.

She said the boy had been in good spirits, not moody and had been making good grades. She said there was absolutely no indication that he might run away. Nor was there anything that would give him reason to do so, she said.

There is no indication the youth might have been kidnapped. Mrs. Griener said no one had contacted the family concerning a ransom payment.

A reward fund of about $4,000 to $5,000 has been raised by persons in the Pekin area. Richard's father is a pattern marker machinist and his mother is a part-time registered nurse at a Peoria hospital. Since the boy vanished, neither of them has been able to devote time to their work.

Family sources said they believe foul play is involved in the disappearance, but there is no solid evidence of that.

Richard is described as small for his age. He has brown eyes, brown hair and weighs about 90 or 100 pounds.

Anyone will information concerning the missing youth may contact the family in Illinois or the following Sedalia area residents:

Mrs. Charles Long, Hughesville; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hite, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rothgebb, Otterville; Wilbur Rothgeb, Pilot Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Long, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas, all of New Lebanon; Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Straud, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Meeking, Marshall; Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Spence and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Mayfield, also of New Lebanon.

Contract Accord Reached at Globe

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Guild unit of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat agreed to a three-year contract Thursday night that will raise the salaries of top-scale reporters to $346 in the third year.

The Guild rejected a company offer last Saturday because it did not offer pay equal to a new contract at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Top scale reporters at the Post will get $360 in the third year.

The Globe's new offer included a cost-of-living clause and hospital and medical coverage for part-time employes. It was accepted by a voice vote at the Guild meeting.

Patrol Is Charged With Discrimination

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Missouri Conference of NAACP branches has charged that the state Highway Patrol discriminates in its hiring practices.

The conference said Thursday it has sent a resolution to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, which says of the patrol: "Since its inception (in 1931) it has consistently discriminated against black Missourians in its treatment and hiring policies."

The NAACP conference said the Patrol has 1,300 employes but only two black patrolmen.

Ann Landers

How Does She Tell About His Father?

Dear Ann Landers: I have read a lot of advice in your column about the adopted child and how the history of his parentage should be handled, but what does an unwed mother tell her illegitimate son about his father if she doesn't want to lie?

I love my little boy and I have no regrets, but where are the words to make a small child understand? I don't want my son to grow up feeling inferior to other children, nor do I want him to hate his father for abandoning us because I am the one who left. I'd appreciate your help. — Unwed And Uncertain

Dear U: An unwed mother who "doesn't want to lie" can tell the truth. But she should choose her words carefully, accentuating the positive and soft-peddling the negative. She can say, for example: "I decided it would be better for all of us if your daddy went away and let me raise you without his help. He was very nice about it and things are working out fine. I have enough love for both a mom and dad and I am very glad you are mine."

Dear Ann Landers: I have an aunt who is nosey. She has always rubbed me the wrong way. This aunt is the first one with the gossip and she loves to be in the know. My mother has always insisted that I be respectful to my elders or I would have told Auntie off long ago.

I've been married less than a year and every time I see this aunt she greets me with "Are you pregnant yet?" I learned just last month that I am pregnant, but we aren't announcing it for at least two months — or longer if I can keep it a secret.

I dread seeing my aunt because I know she's going to ask me that question and I'm a lousy liar. Any suggestions on how to answer? — Drawstring Dolly

Hello Dolly: Just tell your Nosey Aunt that when you're ready to make the announcement she'll be the first to know. You'll have told her no fib and this response is good for as long as you want to use it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 12 years old and I have a terrible problem. It's my dad. He gave me the wrong instructions and then got mad when I followed them. Dad told me to get a certain kind of film for the camera and when the pictures didn't come out right he blew his cool. When mom took my part he shoved her against the stove. She hit her head on the cupboard and got a two-inch gash on her forehead. Dad wasn't drunk when he did this. In fact, when he gets drunk he is very sweet and easy to get along with. I wish he'd drink more often.

Mom wants dad to go to a counselor but he refuses. The main problem is that he punches her whenever he feels like it and he feels like it quite often. There are three younger kids in our family, their ages are 10, 7 and 3. Mom is 33 and wants a divorce but she is afraid to try for one. What should we do? — Newport News, Va.

Dear N.P.N.: This is your mother's problem. If she would like me to suggest something ask her to write. Women who stay with men who knock them around have a special set of problems, even though they hate to admit it.

Confidential to Are You or Aren't You?! I am not in favor of the death penalty. The records indicate that it does nothing to deter crime. I will admit, however, that it does stop repeaters.

Conference To Revive Interest

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARRENSBURG — The Show-Me Regional Planning Commission and the Missouri Department of Community Affairs are jointly sponsoring "Goals for Missouri" conferences to determine what the people of the state want in the way of programs and priorities for state and local agencies, it was reported last week.

The two organizations plan to cover at least 12 topics in the conferences: health, welfare, education, public protection, transportation, housing, human resources, recreation and open space, government, economy, environment, and natural resources.

The first of the "Goals for Missouri" meetings will be held here at Sacred Heart School at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Frank J. Schwarzer, executive director for the Planning Commission, which serves Pettis, Lafayette and Johnson Counties, said the conferences would be "conducted in all 20 Regional Planning Commission areas in the state. The Regional Goals Committee's concerns and priorities will be communicated to the state of Missouri Goals Commission will hold hearings with the state committee in the local area. The total responses will then be presented by the state committee to the Governor and the legislature."

The basic regional committee will consist of area legislators, local government officials and representatives from other groups. The objective is to renew interest in political affairs, it was reported.

Great Decisions Program—Bridging the Gap

Discuss Foreign Policy

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Demott, Route 1, were the discussion leaders at a recent meeting of the Great Decisions program in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niemann, 1416 South Carr. It was the fifth in a series of eight weekly meetings. The topic was "Poor Nations and Rich Nations." The group to which the DeMotts belong is one of four Great Decisions groups in Sedalia. The groups discuss foreign policy and send their opinions on current issues to Washington, D.C.

By P. C. THOMAS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"Oh, East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet."

These lines were written toward the close of the 19th century by Bombay-born English writer, Rudyard Kipling. Since then east and west have not only met but continue to collide ideologically, bargain at trade meetings, exchange scholars and cultural ambassadors, and recognize each others' contribution to mankind. Today Americans no longer think only in terms of their own country. Their interest and curiosity go beyond national confines — to Saigon, Peking, Tel Aviv and the Moon.

Today, foreign policy is a live subject. Most people discuss it, but only a few get concerned enough to do some background reading and write to their elected representatives in Washington.

One such group, the Great Decisions program participants, live in more than 1,000-cities and towns across the United States. In Sedalia, nearly 60 men and women participate in the weekly Great Decisions program, which is jointly sponsored by the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and the University of Missouri Extension Center. The program was introduced here in 1967.

The Sedalia participants meet in four groups. They take turns hosting the meetings, two of which are held Sunday evenings and the others on Monday and Tuesday mornings. The program consists of eight weekly meetings in which participants discuss the background information they have read on eight selected topics in a 104-page booklet published by the Foreign Policy Association, an independent national organization.

The eight topics are "Vietnam and After," "Japan, the Common Market and the U.S.," "The Soviet Union and the U.S.," "Chile's Marxist Experiment," "Our China Policy," "Poor Nations and Rich Nations," "Guns and-or Butter," and "Our Crowded World." The booklet consists of informative, and comprehensive essays on each of these topics.

This year's program, which began Jan. 30, will conclude this month. The topic for the fifth week, "Our China Policy," was discussed by the Sedalia groups when President Nixon was in Peking.

An opinion poll among the participants revealed that 79 per cent of them felt the U.S. should continue the Nixon Administration's policy of normalizing relations with Communist China. At the same time, 33 per cent felt Washington should pursue a policy of containing Communism without isolating the Communist nations. Those who wanted Red China and Taiwan to come to an greement on the latter's future formed 76 per cent of the group. Forty-two per cent wanted the U.S. to follow a two-China policy. Six per cent said the U.S. should recognize Peking as the only legitimate government of China while another 6 per cent suggested Taiwan be given that recognition.

Each week's topic is introduced on a nationwide radio broadcast which is aired in Sedalia at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Balloting is done at the end of each weekly discussion. Each member answers an average of 10 questions which appear at the end of each chapter. At the end of the eight-week program, the ballots are tabulated and sent to Senator Stewart Symington, Representative William J. Randall and the State Department in Washington, D.C.

The Great Decisions program serves two purposes. First, it enables participants to acquaint themselves with foreign policy issues through reading the booklets, listening to radio broadcasts and participating in the weekly discussion. Second, it provides, through the balloting system, an organized channel to funnel public opinion to the nation's foreign policy makers.

The program's role in creating an interest in foreign policy was expressed by some of the participants. "It makes us more conscious of what's going on in the world," Mrs. Henry Niemann, 1416 South Carr, said. Miss Hazel Barnett, 501 West Seventh, has been a member of the Great Decisions program since its beginning in Sedalia. "It stirs you up," she said of the weekly discussion meetings. "Now I read the newspaper and listen to news with greater interest. It makes you more interested in the rest of the world."

Tom McCully, 2305 South Kentucky, who has been in the program four years, said, "The subjects are very vast. We find a depth in the educational material we use." He said as a result of studying and discussing foreign policy issues, "at least we know how complicated the problems are."

The chairman of the Great Decisions program, Mrs. Ruth Leftwich, 1423 South Beacon, finds the program a means of "gaining knowledge on world affairs and of appreciating other people's ideas."

The program's secretary, Mrs. Larry Smithson, 912 Crescent Dr., thinks sending the opinion poll to Washington carries the same weight as writing a letter, if not more.

In 1969, Randall sent a reply to the poll from Sedalia saying he was "grateful for this information and shall look forward to reviewing each of the areas discussed in light of current legislative issues coming before the Congress."

The same year, a State Department official replied to the Sedalia group and said the Great Decisions program was "an excellent medium to inform the public on world affairs."

DEATH NOTICES

Charles L. Denny

Charles L. Denny, 62, 2423 Poplar Place, died at Bothwell Hospital at 8:18 p.m. Friday. He was admitted to the hospital Friday evening after he had been stricken with an apparent heart attack.

He was born in New Hampton, Mo., Aug. 3, 1909, son of the late Arthur and Margaret Sampson Denny. He married Miss Fern Richman in Maryville, June 15, 1931. They lived in Sedalia for the past 14 years.

He received his elementary and high school education in the New Hampton schools and attended Palmer College in Albany, Mo., later transferring to Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa.

For the past 17 years Mr. Denney has been associated with the Patterson Chemical Company.

Mr. Denny was a member of the Broadway Presbyterian Church. He was an elder of the church and was the head usher.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fern Denny; one son, James A. Denny, Kansas City; one daughter, Mrs. Duane (Carolyn) Miller, Boonville; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Broadway Presbyterian Church at 1 p.m. Monday with Dr. Garner S. Odell, pastor, officiating.

Pallbearers will be William Curry, Alvin Heynen, Jack Fowler, James Callis, Robert F. Quigg and Jack Alfrey.

Burial will be in the Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

John D. Shoemaker

John D. Shoemaker, 81, 1710 South Quincy, died at Veterans Hospital in Wadsworth, Kan., Thursday evening.

Mr. Shoemaker was born in New Cambria, Mo., Nov. 8, 1890, son of the late William C. and Margaret Call Shoemaker. He married Martha Lee Morris in 1931.

He was a retired farmer and had been a Sedalia resident since 1934. He was a member of the First Christian Church and a veteran of World War I.

Mr. Shoemaker is survived by his widow, Martha, of the home; one son, Eldon Shoemaker, Independence; four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Denny, Moberly; Mrs. Frances Denny, Dallis, Ore.; Mrs. Helen Anderson, Kansas City; Mrs. Doris Wolf, Clairmont, Calif.; two brothers, James Shoemaker, Kansas City; Tucker Shoemaker, Citrus Heights, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Emma Miller, Kansas City; 16 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Magee and the Rev. Richard Leach, pastors of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Mrs. Jack Herndon will be soloist and Mrs. Keith Maynard, organist. Pallbearers will be L. J. Brown, Waldo Fuchs, Lawrence Harms, Clarence Harrell, Ben Rumsey and Rodney Shepherd.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery where the veterans of Pettis County will conduct military services.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Robert F. Parker

Robert F. Parker, 74, Broken Arrow, Okla., died there Friday.

Mr. Parker was born in Benton County, Dec. 6, 1897, son of the late Elsworth E. and Sarah E. Thomas Parker. He was married to Irene Parker and she preceded him in death in 1963.

Mr. Parker was a former resident of Sedalia and owned and operated the Hildebrandt and Parker Produce Co.

He is survived by three sons, Ralph E. Parker, Broken Arrow; Lee H. Parker, 1700 South Harrison; Eugene Parker, Kansas City; one daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Boyer, Kansas City; three brothers, Ray Parker, Route 4; John Earl Parker, Raytown; Alonzo D. Parker, Lee's Summit; one sister, Mrs. R. W. Dick, Harlingen, Tex.; and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home with the Rev. Medford E. Speaker, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Virgil Wills and Mrs. Kenneth Stockard will sing a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Del Heckart, organist.

Pallbearers will be William Lyles, Ed McMullin, Richard Parker, Charles Rusnak, Kenneth Stockard and Virgil Wills.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Issac L. (Ike) Warren

Isaac L. (Ike) Warren, 70, 1009 West Third, died at his home Friday.

Mr. Warren was born in Pettis County, Jan. 26, 1902, son of the late Jesse and Carrie M. Elliott Warren. He married Vivian E. Denny, Nov. 3, 1948.

Mr. Warren had been a resident of Sedalia all his life. He was a machinist at the Missouri-Pacific Shops, retiring in 1951. He was a member of the New Bethel Methodist Church, BPOE No. 125 and Modern Woodman.

He is survived by his widow, Vivian E., secretary to the executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, of the home.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home with Dr. Thomas D. Hall, pastor of the Wesley United Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Del Heckart will play organ selections.

Pallbearers will be F. Emory Bowman, Eddie Boysel, James Dickman, Charles K. Lawrence, Earl Thomas and Arthur Turner.

Burial will be in New Bethel Cemetery.

New, Tougher Dog Ordinance Is Approved

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — The Tipton City Council passed an ordinance earlier this week restricting dogs to owner's property or on leash when outside. According to the ordinance, stray dogs will be picked up even if they have a city tag. Failure to obey the law will result in fines.

The ordinance is the result of complaints from a group of Tipton residents who appeared before the council.

The session was presided over by Mayor Henry G. Bass.

Jerry Hartman, representing C & J Enterprises, was given permission to close the alley from Oak Greet to the south property line. Hartman, who requested this permission, will use the area for business development and will pay for moving the water line, it was reported.

Benny Hainen and Gary Buerky requested that the city either gravel Gregory Blvd. or vote to exclude it from the city limits. The council rejected the request, alleging that the owner would not install sewer.

The council accepted Southwest Heights and Meadowlark Lane owned by Mrs. Leo Kuttenkuler, who is reported ready to develop her property.

Sam Morris In Race For Sheriff's Job

(Democrat-Capital Service)

BOONVILLE — Sam Morris, former Highway Patrolman stationed in Sedalia for several years, Wednesday filed for nomination as the Democratic candidate for sheriff of Cooper County.

Morris, 29, according to available records, would be the youngest sheriff in Missouri if elected. "I am not running as a politician, but as a law enforcement officer," he told newsmen shortly after filing.

Despite his age he can lay claim to a varied career in law enforcement. In 1965 he served as an auxiliary policeman in Boonville for one year prior to becoming a member of the Highway Patrol. He served as patrolman in Kansas City and Sedalia from January, 1966, to February, 1971. He has held the position of deputy juvenile officer in Cooper County since he left the patrol.

He said he will resign as juvenile officer next Wednesday to devote full time to seeking the position of sheriff.

Morris, a native of Cooper County, is the son of Mrs. Laura Morris and the late Elliott Morris. He is married to the former Charlene Stock, and they have three children. He is a graduate of Boonville High School and Central Missouri State College. He is a deacon in the First Christian Church and is active in the Boonville Jaycees, the Masonic Lodge and the Lions Club.

Service Station Attendant Robbed

The Vicker service station at 204 North Missouri was the scene of an armed robbery at 10:36 p.m. Friday. According to police, a Negro, described only as male, tall and slim, entered the station and demanded money from Ed Jackson, the attendant on duty, at gunpoint.

After receiving an undetermined amount of money from Jackson, the man then left on foot. Jess Walthall, 2705 Southwest Boulevard, owner of the station, would say only that the money loss was a "minor" one.

Fund-raising Drive For Cystic Fibrosis

About 130 Sedalians will be involved in a fund-raising drive for research into a possible cure for Cystic Fibrosis and to purchase breathing equipment for children. The drive will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the downtown area and at each of the shopping centers.

It was reported that volunteers would stop motorists and solicit donations for the campaign.

Cystic Fibrosis is a genetic disease which occurs in one out of every 1,500 babies born. A leading cause of death among young children, the disease creates accumulations of mucus that make breathing difficult or impossible.

Pedestrian Injured

Earl I. Mullins, 62, 1108 South Ohio, was listed in good condition at Bothwell Hospital following an accident in which he was struck by a 1963 Volkswagen driven south on Ohio by Pamela Jo Monsees, 16, Route 1, at 7:44 p.m. Friday.

Mullins told police he was walking across the 13th and Ohio intersection when the accident occured. Police were unable to determine the point of impact, but said Mullins glanced off the hood of the car.

GOOD TASTE IN MEDICINES

Everyone prefers a pleasant tasting and pleasant smelling medication. For, when we are ill, we are usually more aware of these two sensations. Somehow if the prescription does taste, smell and look good, it not only helps the body to get well, but it can help to ease the mind, give a lift to the spirit and calm the emotions.

Whenever a liquid medicine is released for public use and the manufacturer has sent us our first supply, we make it a point to see what it's physical properties are like before we put it on the "new drug" shelf in our prescription department.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer, you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Question Arranging pall bearers for my father's funeral will be difficult because most of his friends have passed away. Will you be able ot help us with this problem?

Answer

Serving as pall bearer at the funeral of a friend is one of the most solemn and respectful things we do as adults in our human relations with each other. When friends are available to serve as bearers, we contact them from a list furnished to us by the family. We advise the bearers of the time and place of the funeral service and furnish their transportation to the cemetery and return. There is never a charge for these services at our chapel.

Artificial Stream Alteration Is Topic

Dr. John W. Emerson, chairman of the geology department at Central Missouri State College, discussed the beneficial and injurious effects of artificial stream alteration at a unit meeting of the Sedalia League of Women Voters at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. David G. Curry, 509 West Broadway.

A part of Emerson's presentation, which included the showing of slides, centered on the construction and effects of big dams. Emerson said he has worked closely in the past with the Environmental Defense Fund, which recently brought suit in U.S. District Court in Kansas City to block future construction of the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir project south of Warsaw.

The major purposes of big dam projects, according to Emerson, are the prevention of floods, the navigation on part of the stream's area, and the greater availability of more water for irrigation purposes.

On the other hand, the unexpected side effects of big dam operation can be the holding back of sediment in the dam's reservoir, a greater capacity for the stream to cause erosion, a lowered ground water table, higher flood peaks above the dam, and the dredging of the reservoir from time to time to clear out the sediment which can build up over a 50 to 100-year period.

The installation of smaller dams in the Blackwater-Lamine River Basin would involve a system-wide project consisting of five dams, he said. Based on a recent study, the cost of the five dams in the basin was almost $15 million in 1959. Since that time, because of inflation, the projected cost of the dams now would probably be in the neighborhood of $20 million, Emerson said.

More specifically, the cost of erecting a dam on Flat Creek was set 13 years ago at just over $4 million. This did not include an annual maintenance cost of $171,000.

When dams are considered for an area to prevent flooding, the Corps of Engineers must weigh the cost of a project against the relative benefits to the area. Emerson said that the expected benefits from a dam on Flat Creek would be about $47,000, which is less than one third of its yearly maintenance costs.

A second method of controlling flooding is channelization. This is an aritificial change in a stream's channel. This, Emerson said, can also have bad effects for residents close to the stream but not in the channelized area.

While flooding has eased in areas where channelizing has been done, points upstream get the full brunt of the natural flooding capacity of a stream. Emerson said the Sweet Springs area has been hard-hit with floods following channelization of streams further to the west.

In concluding his lecture on "The Geological Consequences of Stream Alteration," Emerson defended the actions of the Environmental Defense Fund. He said the organization, which is headquartered in Washington, D.C., is not a nation-wide power group intent on interfering with local problems.

"The EDF only goes into an area at the request of local citizens needing help to fight a bureauracy," Emerson said. There are, he added, only 20 full-time members in the organization, composed of scientists and attorneys. The other members of the group are unpaid scientists, attorneys and experts who donate their services.

Explains Alterations

Dr. John W. Emerson, a geology professor at Central Missouri State College, explained the side effects of artificial changes in streams in the Blackwater-Lamine River Basin in a speech delivered at a unit meeting of the Sedalia League of Women's Voters Thursday at the home of Mrs. David Curry, 509 West Broadway.

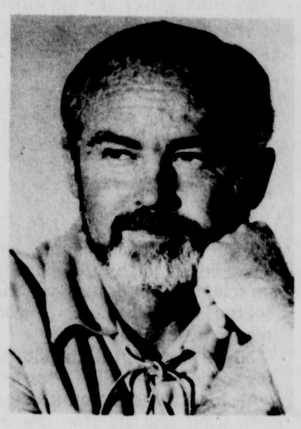
Adventure Series Will Begin Soon

Photographer-traveler John Fowler will show and narrate his film, "Mexico's Sea of Cortez," at 8 p.m. March 21, in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium. This will be the fifth program of the season on the Rotary-sponsored Travel and Adventure series.

The Sea of Cortez lies cradled between mainland Mexico and the forgotten land of Baja, Calif. Deserted beaches, pine-covered mountains and jungle estuaries make up the true wilderness for the filming of this latest presentation.



John Fowler

Fowler has been an avid fan of wildlife since his boyhood days at his Southern California home, but he and his family gave all that up to travel into primitive jungles and swamps in search of exotic birds, the filming of the wildlife and natural wonders that have a strong appeal to him.

His film will take the audience to Matanchen Bay, to hear the sounds of birds and bells of Mexico, to see the colorful flowers along the El Camino Real, to visit old ruins and plantations, to discover brilliant fish that inhabit the Sea of Cortez and to travel the back roads of Mexico.

Admission is a season ticket, or single admission tickets may be purchased at the door.

Officer Retires After 14 Years

Clarence R. Harrell, 1714 South Quincy, not only turned 65 Saturday, but wound up nearly 14 years of service with the Sedalia Police Department as records clerk, identification officer and identification technician.

When Harrell joined the police force on Aug. 1, 1958, he had just completed 25 years' employment with Missouri-Pacific Railroad as a machinist and special police officer. The decision to go on the police force here was reached because "I just liked law enforcement," he said.

For eight years, Harrell worked as a patrolman on the police force before his appointment as records clerk. From 1966 until his retirement Saturday, Harrell said the most interesting part of his record-keeping job was meeting people.

The major elements of Harrell's job involved keeping traffic and criminal records, compiling evidence, photographing prisoners and coordinating paperwork for the police department.

To illustrate his work, Harrell said that every criminal card in police files is made in triplicate. One copy goes to the Highway Patrol, another to the FBI and one copy is filed here.

Harrell said he also was responsible for all the fingerprinting done by the police deparment and had received extensive training in the necessary procedures through state and federal training courses.

Like most phases of life in Sedalia, law enforcement has gone through many changes during Harrell's career. He named the three most striking changes as communications, schooling and entrance procedures for new officers.

Ever since the police department went on the merit system nearly 10 years ago, police officers have gone through more extensive training, he said. In Harrell's case, he has attended the Highway Patrol's academy in Jefferson City, been through numerous fingerprinting courses at the University of Missouri and in 1967, became an original member of the Mid-Missouri Major Case Squad.

No More Fingerprinting

Better screening procedures for new police officers have also been initiated. Now prospective officers must take a Civil Service Examination, be approved by the Police Personnel Board and take in-department training, as well as Highway Patrol academy work to upgrade their skills.

"When I joined the force, you furnished your own equipment, they gave you a commission and you became a police officer," Harrell said.

Concerning his retirement, Harrell said he had a lot of hobbies and traveling planned. Harrell and his wife Mae have three sons and two grandchildren.

Another landmark in Harrell's life will take place in May. He and his wife will then celebrate 45 years of marriage.

Police Chief William Miller said he was sorry to lose Harrell. "He has been a good man and an asset to the police department," Miller said.

While no formal retirement ceremonies are planned, Miller said Harrell would be honored in an upcoming City Council meeting with the presentation of a retired police officer's badge and an honorary lifetime commission in the Sedalia police department.

Harrell will be replaced Monday by Henry C. Randall, 36, 220 East Boonville, as records clerk.

Prayer Day Is Attended By Big Crowd

Approximately 175 Sedalians from 12 denominations attended the World Day of Prayer observance recently at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

The theme for the special service was "All Joy Be Yours." Speakers were Mark Taylor, Miss Peggy Zink, Mrs. Myrtle Griggs, Mrs. James Callis and the Rev. Leroy Hayes.

Mrs. William Lusk was the chairman.

Other participants in the service were Mrs. P. T. Killion, Mrs. Henry Salveter, Mrs. William Boehm Jr., Major Marjorie Weber, Mrs. Bob Hartley, Mrs. Ben President, and the Rev. Vincent Hoying.

Special music was provided by students of Sacred Heart School, with Mrs. Rosalee DeLozier serving as organist.

Fewer Jobs Given Irish Immigrants

LONDON (AP) — Irish immigrants in Britain get fewer jobs and more abusive phone calls since Northern Irish guerillas began violence against British troops, but the bitterness they expected has not materialized.

One immigrant, Sean Mooney, stepped off the boat from Ireland two months ago and made straight for London, where he now works as a carpenter.

He left because of bad work prospects and a pressing need to earn more money.

Sean is one of an estimated million Irish-born immigrants living in Britain.

Because of fighting between British troops and the extremists of the Irish Republican Army in Northern Ireland, Sean and his countrymen are having to tread a delicate line in their relations with the British.

Except for a British boycott of vacations in Ireland, there has been no noticeable backlash against the Irish. However, the deaths of British soldiers in Ireland and an IRA bombing at the Aldershot barracks 35 miles from London, in which 7 persons were killed, have produced coolness and distrust between the two communities.

Sean said: "There's no doubt that it's harder now for an Irishman to get a job with an English firm than it used to be.

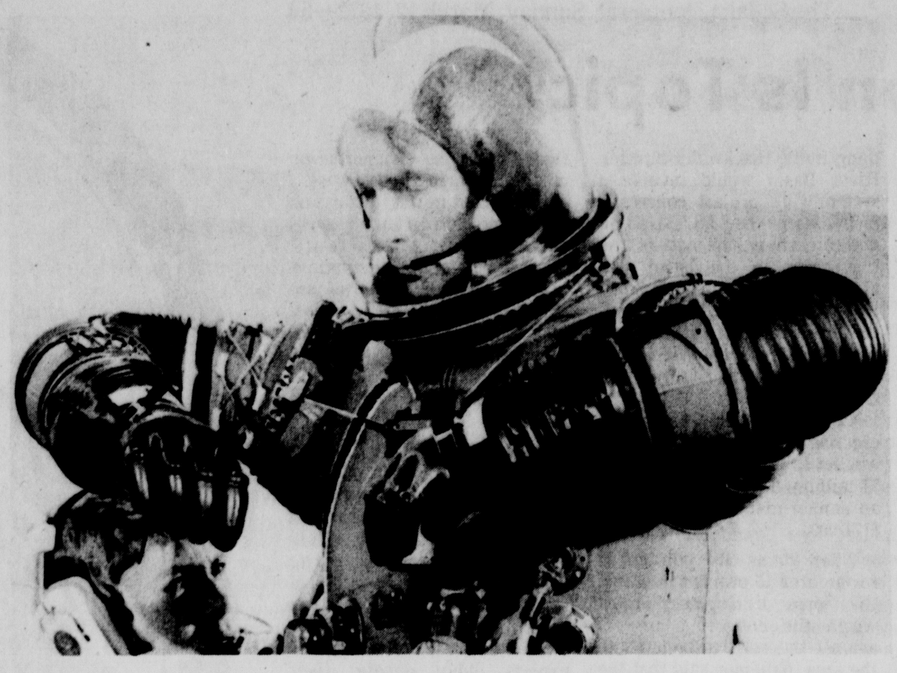
"After the Aldershot bombing there was a noticeable coolness in the relations between the English and Irish where I work. One man I used to get on well with just cut me cold. He refused to talk to me."

His workmates agreed that they had had similar experiences.

The Rev. Patrick Sheridan, a Roman Catholic priest, said, "From the experience of the people here it is obvious that it is virtually impossible for an Irishman to get a job in a sensitive area like an airport, because employers fear a security risk. The same applies to other delicate areas like the hotel industry."

Other Irish centers in Birmingham and Liverpool, two major provincial cities with large Irish communities, report similar difficulties and also an increase in abusive telephone calls.

But at the same time they admit that they were prepared for a more extreme reaction from the British public.



Dress Rehearsal

Vague Ad Brought Unexpected Results

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The ad was too good to be true. It offered a "moonlight job" with a starting salary of $38.40 for a weekend's work.

Job seekers flooded the listed number to apply. The number was that of the Army Reserve Headquarters here.

Lt Col. Joel Wallis, headquarters commandant, said Friday, "The ad was a little erroneous. There should have been a notation that you have to sign up with the reserve."

Suit Against County Officials Dismissed

STEELVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Two men were bound over to circuit court Friday for trial on a charge of kidnaping.

They are Joseph Martin Delaney, 40, and Dennis G. Smith, 22, of Leasburg, Mo. Delaney also is charged with felonious assault.

The two are accused of taking a 16-year-old Leasburg youth from his home Christmas Eve, driving him to a country road and shooting him in the back when he tried to escape

Official Word On Pandas Is Received

WASHINGTON (AP) — The panda is the Greta Garbo of the animal world and the White House is about as communicative as Garbo on the subject of pandas.

After evading for weeks all questions about a pair of pandas promised President Nixon by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, the White House announced Friday that the animals are expected in the United States about April 1.

"That's all the information we have," said a White House spokesman, refusing to say how the pandas will come or where they will go.

Pandemonium was touched off by the news that Nixon had been promised two pandas in exchange for the two North American musk oxen he presented to the Chinese.

The White House has been beseiged with pleas for the pandas from zoos across the country. But Washington's National zoo, part of the Smithsonian Institution, thinks it has the inside track.

Dr. Theodore H. Reed, the zoo's director, is to take the two musk oxen to China. He was to have left Feb. 22 but the trip was postponed when the male caught a cold. Now, the cold is cured and Dr. Reid is packed and ready to go, Mrs. Billie Hamlet, the zoo's information director said Friday.

"To put the pandas anywhere else would be to break a tradition that goes back to 1904," she said.

That year President Theodore Roosevelt, during an Abyssinian safari, hinted to his hosts that he could use a few animals for the National zoo. He collected two ostriches, a zebra, a lion and two baboons. And the zoo has been getting presidential animals ever since.

Pandas, which are found only in a remote highland area of western China, are very antisocial animals. "They don't even like to be around other pandas," said Mrs. Hamlet.

The last panda seen in the United States was Mei-lan, who died in 1953 in Chicago's Brookfield zoo. She was 14 years old and has set a longevity record for captive pandas.

Today there are only four pandas outside China, Mrs. Hamlet said. Two are in Korea, one in Moscow and one in London.

'Godfather' To Show In Empty Theater

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A spokesman for the Italian-American Unification Council of Greater Kansas City says the motion picture "The Godfather" opens at two theaters here March 22, but in at least one theater the film will be shown to an empty house.

The spokesman said the organization has bought all tickets for the opening day showing at the Empire Theater at a cost estimated at $2,500. An IAUC representative will check periodically at the time of the scheduled showing to be sure the film is being run despite the absence of an audience.

Marion Trozzolo, the spokesman, said his group also tried to buy out the Glenwood Theater for the same night but tickets for the opening had already been sold to another group.

Injuries Are Fatal For Young K.C. Girl

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joyce Hontz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hontz of (1116 Forest) Kansas City, died Friday of injuries she suffered when she was struck by a car Thursday while crossing I-70 highway at Locust.

The girl died about 1:20 p.m. Friday in Children's Mercy Hospital.

A Missouri Highway Patrol spokesman said the girl, her brother, Sammy Hontz, 8, and a half brother, George allen, 9, were running across the highway and ran in front of a westbound car driven by Robert Hosford 28, of Overland Park.

The car struck all three children. George Allen was treated at Children's Mercy Hospital and Sammy Hontz was held overnight and released Friday.

Car-Truck Accident Fatal to One Driver

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Michael Bird, 20, was killed early Saturday when the car he was driving was struck by a semi-trailer truck at an intersection, St. Louis County police said.

Bird's northbound car, according to police, went through a flashing red light into the path of the eastbound truck. The other driver, not identified, was not charged.

Busing Policy Is on Agenda For President

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon planned to draw up his forthcoming policy on school busing Saturday in the solitude of his Camp David retreat near here.

Nixon flew to the mountaintop lodge Friday after a session with his Cabinet committee on education and its five lawyer consultants.

The committee and the attorneys have prepared material for Nixon's study as he drafts his busing policy.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would spend the weekend drawing up general principles of the policy and will announce it very soon.

Nixon has stated his opposition to busing as a tool for achieving racial balance in schools, but hasn't indicated whether he favors legislation, a constitutional amendment or some other means to end its use.

Chairman of Board Dies at Age of 82

Kidnaping Charges Filed Against Two

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A $125,000 civil suit against five Phelps County officials was dismissed in U.S. District Court Thursday by Judge William Webster.

David Porter Jr., 25, of St. Louis, filed the suit in January. He alleged his civil rights were violated by Emory Allison, Phelps County circuit judge; prosecutor Zane White, Magistrate Judge Llyn Bradford, sheriff Oliver Lambiel and Albert Light, Rolla police chief.

Porter accused them of forcing him to plead guilty to illegal possession of money orders last July.

Presidential Candidate Withdraws From Contest

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Maverick Republican Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., who failed to get more than 20 per cent of the GOP primary vote in New Hampshire, has withdrawn from the presidential race and, with important GOP opposition, filed again for Congress.

McCloskey signed here Friday as a GOP candidate for the newly drawn 17th Congressional District. In the June 6 primary, he will face two Republican opponents who attack his opposition to President Nixon's policy in Vietnam.

"I won't support Nixon under any circumstances if he continues this bombing," McCloskey said.

He told a news conference he will allow his name to remain on the presidential primary ballots in 10 states and that his 20 per cent showing in New Hampshire demonstrates there is "a substantial number of Republicans that would oppose the continuation of bombing in Southeast Asis."

He said the issues in New Hampshire were obscured by Nixon's visit to China.

McCloskey said he has a $45,000 campaign deficit after New Hampshire and that his decision recognizes the "harsh reality" that "you cannot run a creditable presidential campaign without large sums of money."

He said his congressional campaign probably would cost about $75,000.

McCloskey was elected from the 11th Congressional District, which the Democratic-controlled state legislature has redrawn and put his home community of Portola Valley in the 17th.

BUSINESS NEWS

Not A Routine Lot

Ben Richardson gives customers at the Baltimore parking lot he manages an impromptu serenade with banjo accompaniment. The shoeless song-and-dance, often the warmup to a rousing speech, is an uncharacteristic interlude in the stern discipline he usually maintains over his lot. Anyone who infringes one of his rules goes on his black list, with no second chance. The implacable Richardson doesn't accept excuses. (AP)

In Baltimore Lot

You Can Park By Banjo

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Ben Richardson is a parking lot despot with an unbending devotion to rules and a penchant for patriotic campaigns.

One mistake—a wheel nudged over the yellow parking line or a cigarette butt dropped on the lot—and another name goes on Richard's lengthy black list.

The wiry 67-year-old parking lot manager keeps copious notes on those he has banned from his downtown lot.

"The guy in the green Ford, the one with the big dent in the back," one entry reads. "He parked his car at least a foot over the line. This is not the first time he has done this. He says he is sorry. That is too bad. Get that car off this lot."

Richardson usually does not give second chances. He doesn't accept excuses.

"You park here, you accept the rules. You want to park in a dump, that's your business," Richardson said.

Parking lot customers accept this philosophy, as well as Richardson's "crusades," because he takes good care of their automobiles and his location is convenient.

"He always has something going," said a Gas and Electric Company executive who parks on a monthly basis at the lot. "One month he wants the flag pole on top of the Gas and Electric Company building painted and the next he is after us to fly the flag every day, rain or shine."

Richardson's biggest project, however, was a beautification campaign which began last summer. He started by planting marigolds around the parking area. To draw attention to the campaign he hung beer cans, pop bottles, candy wrappers and other debris on the fence and trees around the lot.

About mid-summer he started regular weekday broadcasts from a loudspeaker system hooked up to his car.

"Your attention please," his voice would boom. "This is Ben with an important message. Throw your garbage in a garbage can. Do not throw it in the street. This ain't no pigsty. This is America. This is your country. Be proud of it. And don't let me catch you throwing anything on this parking lot. That is all."

Company officials and a number of customers have complained about Richardson's maverick tactics over the years.

"I don't care," he said, "because every time the owner fires me he has to give me a $5 raise to get me back. There ain't no one who can run this parking lot like me."

Tax Consultants' Answers Different

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Six tax consultants here came up with six different results when asked for help in filling out a federal income tax return.

The maximum difference was $454. One consultant said the taxpayer owed $77. Another said a refund of $377 was due.

An Associated Press writer and his wife went to the consultants for advice on filling out their joint return with itemized deductions. The couple pretended to know little about possible deductions but gave the same information to each consultant when asked for it.

Some of the consultants found legitimate deductions, such as damage to the family car that was not covered by collision insurance.

Others listed deductions such as ordinary sunglasses, which the Internal Revenue Service says are only deductible if worn on jobs where they are an absolute necessity.

Some of the consultants say in their advertising that they will appear with the taxpayer if he has to go to court over his return.

David Kestler, chief tax auditor for the IRS office here, noted in an interview that "the person who signs the return is responsible for everything that's in it."

One consultant failed to suggest many legitimate deductions that the couple was entitled to, such as the husband's alimony payments.

Only one of the consultants went beyond the usual question about doctor bills and medicine costs to discover that the newsman was entitled to a deduction for the cost of crutches and special shoe supports needed because of a broken leg.

The deductions and the final figures weren't the only places where the tax experts differed. The fees ranged from $27 to $50.

One firm of a national chain charged $50, while another office of the same chain a mile away charged $35.

One IRS consultant was stumped by a question of whether the newsman's education expenses to better qualify him for his job were deductible.

"Gee," said the consultant. "That's a tough one. Let me ask someone else."

After 14 minutes of reading the IRS instructions and much debate among three consultants, it was decided that the education expenses might be deductible.

The newsman was sent to see the IRS' Kestler, who apologized because he would have to take time to consult with another auditor before giving an answer the next day.

Kestler later said the eduation expenses probably would be deductible.

He went on to say that illegal deductions weren't the only errors committed by some tax consultants. Sometimes there is just plain poor arithmetic.

None of the six consultants figuring the taxes for the newsman and his wife came up with the same figure on capital gains from stock sales.

And one consultant, instead of subjecting the full 100 per cent of the income from stocks held less than six months, figured only 50 per cent. The 50 per cent figure is legally used only for long-term stocks or those held more than six months.

At last report, the couple who took their returns to the six were still figuring their own taxes and had made it to line 50, which requires use of schedule X, Y or Z, or alternative schedule D, or schedule G, or

Seek Gandhi Political Embarrassment

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's opponents are trying to transform India's victory over Pakistan into political embarrassment for Mrs. Gandhi by claiming she called off the army too soon.

The issue is unlikely to sway enough votes in this week's state elections to damage her party. But controversy is potentially troublesome for the government and particularly to Mrs. Gandhi, hailed as a national heroine after the war.

Opposition politicians, primarily from the right-wing Hindu nationalist Jana Sangh party, have criticized the prime minister for declaring a unilateral cease-fire that ended the war the day after East Pakistan fell to the Indian Army and Bangladesh guerrilla forces.

The critics argue that Mrs. Gandhi should have permitted the war to continue for several more days to give numerically superior Indian forces time to cripple the Pakistani armed forces in West Pakistan.

As it is, they say, the Pakistani military is still formidable, though deprived of 94,000 soldiers held prisoner by India since the war. Pakistan still fields about 230,000 men, compared to India's estimated 930,000.

Mrs. Gandhi herself has fueled the controversy by frequently warning that another war with Pakistan is possible. She has reiterated the warning several times since publication of the communique issued after President Nixon's China visit.

Authoritative sources say some senior officials and officers in the Indian Defense Ministry had, from a strictly military view, hoped the Indian forces would get the opportunity to deal a severe blow to the Pakistani forces on the western front.

"We did not count on the unilateral cease-fire on the western front," one senior official said soon after the war. "Another 10 days would have insured there would be no future wars between India and Pakistan. But Mrs. Gandhi did what is considered an act of statesmanship in declaring the cease-fire. Only time will tell if she was right."

Economic Adviser Enthused About Wage-Price Success

By STERLING F. GREEN and
BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's chief economic adviser says he is now more encouraged that wage-price controls will succeed than he was a few months ago, but doesn't foresee substantial decontrol of the economy this year.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Dr. Herbert Stein said he has been "surprised at the encouraging direction" of the controls. When Nixon imposed controls after the wage-price freeze expired last November, Stein told newsmen that they had a "fighting chance" to succeed.

He said more moves may be made to exempt some areas of the economy from controls this year but added that he doesn't see a "very large part of the economy by volume" decontrolled.

Questions and answers:

Q. Mr. Chairman, should we be encouraged enough by the dip in unemployment to 5.7 per cent in January to believe that strong recovery is finally starting?

A. I think you have to take that along with a lot of other evidence. If that was the only thing that was happening, you couldn't be so sure. But we see several other things. We see the new survey of plant and equipment expenditures which shows the expectation of a 10.5 per cent increase from 1971 to 1972 whereas our previous estimate had been 9 per cent.

We see the big increase in manufacturers' new orders in January, the biggest monthly increase since August 1956. We see the enormous housing starts in January. Thus, we see a number of things combined to provide encouragement, along with the unemployment rate.

Q. A year ago in this winter season from December to February we had a three-tenths of one per cent decrease in unemployment, the same amount as we've shown in the past three months. In March of last year the rate started up again. Do you think the other bases for recovery are such that this won't happen?

A. I wouldn't say we won't have another month in which the rate will go up again. I would assume that the decline in the unemployment rate, since it is expected to be fairly moderate over the whole year, would be somewhat saw-toothed. We would have some months in which it was down, and some months in which it was up, but the net would be down.

After all, we've had a decline of three-tenths of a percentage point in two months. If that continued without interruption, then over a period of 12 months we'd have a decline of 1.8 percentage points. We don't forecast that much of a decline.

Q. There's much talk, and much criticism, in fact, that the administration is backing away from 4 per cent as the standard of full employment. Do you feel that 4 per cent is a realistic standard, attainable without inflationary overheating?

A. I don't think we really know much about that and I don't think it's very operational question. That is, I think we have every reason to expect that during the course of this year we can get down to the neighborhood of 5 per cent without a revival of inflation. During the course of this year, we will see how the economy responds to the expansion of demand and what is likely to be the consequence of pushing the unemployment rate further by that means.

Also, as we have indicated, we want to be continuously seeking to improve manpower programs, which will help. At the moment I do not believe that we are in a position to say that 4 per cent is or is not the likely achievement in any specified period of time. Of course, we don't know that it ever was.

Q. It has been said that the unemployment rate cannot be reduced below 5 per cent without pumping up the economy. The administration is now looking at ways to tackle this structural unemployment problem. What can you do that hasn't already been done?

A. The possibility of getting below 5 per cent will depend increasingly on our ability to solve these structural problems. It may be that as we go through 1972 we will find that inflationary pressure subsides rather markedly, that inflationary expectations subside as wage pressure subsides, and that you can then safely push the economy down to much lower unemployment rates without reviving the inflation.

You asked what can you do beyond the present manpower programs, if you wanted to do something of a structural character. All of these things have to be evaluated case by case and in some detail, but I would think that one of the most hopeful areas is in the area of transition of young people from school to work. I have in mind such things as improving vocational preparation and training in the schools and adapting it more realistically to the kinds of jobs for which there will be a market.

Also, as we've indicated, we think that the minimum wage rate as it stands is an obstacle to the employment of young people. But you have to admit that increasing effort has been devoted to this problem in the United States for about 10 years and we're not quite sure of its success.

Q. Is it possible that we should be training people for more kinds of employment, that the technological changes are coming rapidly and we're not adjusting to that kind of escalation in technology?

A. I believe that we're still far short of giving a good proportion of the young people a really basic education in the way of literacy, including mathematical literacy, and other preparation that would enable the employer to train them or make the employer willing to try to train them. It seems to me that is the first hurdle to get over.

Q. Does it look to you like a genuine possibility that we will really have a strong recovery this year?

A. We have indicated what we think the probable magnitude is. I would call it strong and steady. But I have said it's not exuberant, it's not a runaway recovery. It's not a recovery which threatens to revive the inflation, or to create such an excess of demand that the price and wage control system would break down.

Q. How do you account for comments, both from a panel of economists from the Business Council and the recent report of the National Planning Association, that suggest that the price controls are going to have to be stiffened if we are going to get down to the 2 or 3 per cent goal by the end of the year?

A. I think that there is kind of a cultural lag. Six weeks ago there was much more skepticism about the wage-price control system than there is now. There was a much more common idea that the Pay Board was giving everything away, that it had no rules that it was willing to stick with, and that this would either force an intolerable squeeze on business or force the prices to rise more rapidly.

Since the first of the year we've seen a lot of evidence that the Pay Board is handling its affairs quite reasonably, that the average pay increase that goes by them is less than the standard of 5.5 per cent. The results look more satisfactory than they did to many people two months ago.

Q. At the end of this month a lot of the companies whose fiscal years ended on Dec. 31 will be submitting their first quarterly price reports. These are the second-tier companies which are reporting what they have done. I've heard a lot of speculation that these are going to show a lot of rather shocking increases. Have you had any indication yet what these reports will mean to the price-wage control system?

A. If they had shown shocking increases, I think they would have shown up the price statistics, the wholesale and consumer price statistics. While they haven't had to report to the Price Commission, they have been reflected in the usual statistics. So I don't look for any shocking results there.

Q. At the start of Phase 2, there was a lot of speculation that early decontrol might be possible and that by this spring we could see a large part of the price regulation lifted and more as the year went on. Does substantial decontrol seem to be in the cards now?

A. We never were very clear about all this. And I've participated in the turgidity. But we always wanted to keep all possibilities open. We talked about the possibility of decontrol as we went through 1972, I think that we had in mind something like what has happened.

That is, we made a first step and took out all the retailers whose sales are less than $100,000 a year. That's a million and a half or so economic units. That's a big thing in terms of number of businesses exempted from the controls, even though the volume of business that they do has been small.

And we took out a certain layer of rental units. And I can imagine something like this happening again as part of an effort to concentrate the resources of the system on the more important cases. But I don't see the very large part of the economy by volume exempted from the controls, say, in this year.

Q. Do you believe public sentiment is strongly behind controls?

A. Yes. Public sentiment, as far as we can tell—and there are lots of polls, not ours but other people's polls—some to be strongly behind controls. That's a different thing from saying that they're strongly behind just what we have done in the way of controls. But the idea that there should be price and wage controls has very strong support still.

Q. Do you still believe that controls have a fighting chance to succeed as you said in November.

A. Well, I have indicated I have been surprised at the encouraging direction. I think they have a good chance of success.

Thank You!

Promotion For Former Sedalia Man

James Cooper, a former Sedalian, has been promoted from assistant superintendent of Sam A. Baker State Park, near Patterson, to superintendent of Fort Zumwalt State Historical Site near O'Fallon, Mo.

John Martin, former superintendent of Knob Noster State Park, has been transferred to St. Francois State Park near Bonne Terre.

Martin joined the park system in 1956 at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park in 1956. Cooper joined the system at the same park in 1970.

The announcement of the transfer and the promotion was made Thursday by Joseph Jaeger Jr., director of Missouri State Parks.

Environment Group Relaxes Injunction

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Pemiscot County officials were told Thursday by an Environmental Protection Agency team they could begin again next week using a 10-acre dump near the Mississippi River for garbage and trash.

The action by the EPA team was in the form of relaxing an injunction imposed by the federal agency last Friday for violation of the Rivers and Harbors Act.

City officials from Caruthersville, Hayti and Steele were told the county could resume using the dump for refuse providing none of the material is spilled into the river.

A spokesman for Caruthersville Mayor Bill Inman said the county hopes to have a sanitary landfill at another site ready in four months.

Department Gets Dalmation Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Engine Company 2 has its Dalmation watchdog back after the mascot was picked up three weeks ago by some Massachusetts youths.

Fire Capt. John Downs and fireman Michael Andreachi drove to Methuen, Mass. to retrieve the dog, named Avis, after he was traced to the community through license plates on the youths' car.

A fireman said the dog is called Avis because the engine house is No. 2.

No charges were placed against the youths who said they found the dog wandering. Firemen said the pet was "only inspecting the neighborhood."

Symbol With A Smile

The 1972 Easter Seal Child is Jo Anne Schaffer of Northampton, Pa., pictured here: a bright-faced little 4-year-old who was born with cerebral palsy and wears braces on her legs. An Easter Seal Child has been chosen annually since 1947 to symbolize all those helped by the National Easter Seal Society. Jo Ann will take part in the Society's fund-raising campaign this year. It runs from Feb. 28 to April 2 and the goal is $50 million. (AP)

Easter Seal Child Vital Symbol

By EDWARD S. KITCH
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The 1972 National Easter Seal Child is radiant Jo Ann Schaffer, 4, of Northampton, Pa.

The Easter Seal Child has been chosen annually since 1949 to symbolize the thousands of handicapped children and adults who receive rehabilitation and other services from Easter Seal funds.

The month of March traditionally is the time when the National Easter Seal Society tours the nation with its handicapped child who is selected from candidates nominated by local societies.

Jo Ann was born with cerebral palsy and needs braces on her legs.

Her story is similar to many of the children who have represented the society in its fund-raising campaigns.

The 1971 campaign raised an estimated $46.4 million. The society is hoping to raise $50 million in 1972, despite the lag in the economy.

During the campaign, the Easter Seal Child meets the President, appears on television programs and competes with platform dignitaries to get the message for aid to the handicapped across to the contributors.

The society contacted several former Easter Child representatives and discovered that the handicapped have a zest for conquering their physical problems and enjoying life.

For example, Russell G. Miller, 28, of Marysville, Ohio, was the society's child in 1950. Russell was 6 months old when his mother first realized that he lacked muscular control and coordination.

At age 2½, he entered the newly-opened Franklin County (Ohio) Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center in Columbus.

As a teen-ager, Miller had two operations to replace his kneecaps, which had slipped out of their sockets. The surgery lengthened his leg tendons, permitting him to straighten his legs.

When he left high school, Russell worked on his parent's farm and helped his father, who taught him to drive a tractor. Miller also learned to operate other farm machinery.

Russell landed his first job at 18; he sanded and buffed telephone instruments at home so they could be painted. He also taught others how to do the job.

His father died in 1968, leaving Russell and his mother to manage the 16-acre farm.

He now has a job as night watchman for the Franklin County Water Department in Columbus. He drives the 75-mile roundtrip to his job daily.

As the 1950 Easter Seal Child, Russell had a favorite motto which he has expressed to thousands of other handicapped children: "Keep trying!"

Miller said he still is doing just that.

John D. Kemp, 22, born a quadruple amputee, was the society's child in 1960.

He now is a law student at Washburn University, Topeka, Kan. He is a member of the Easter Seal Society's board of directors and chairman of its National Youth Action Committee.

Compromise Would Fund Campaign on Drug Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional compromise calls for investing $1 billion in a nationwide three-year campaign to curb drug abuse and treat thousands trapped by their habit.

Senate-House conferees agreed Thursday night on a plan for uniting federal antidrug efforts under a special White House office until mid-1975. Then, a new national institute would take over control of drug-fighting activities.

A chief compromise-seeker, Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., head of the House public health subcommittee, told reporters he believes the Nixon administration is pleased with the final terms of the bill.

President Nixon had urged creation of the special-action office. It would bring together scattered federal antidrug programs and set uniform policy.

The House voted 380 to 0 last month for a $411-million, three-year program. It contained several conflicts with a version—calling for $1.5 billion over five years—that the Senate passed by 92 to 0 last December.

The compromise's main features include creation of a center for training on techniques of drug-abuse prevention and a wide range of programs for treatment; use of 350 existing community mental-health centers linked in a national network of treatment facilities, and funds for finding a new non-addicting agent as a substitute for methadone in fighting heroin addiction.

In addition, the compromise would assign $350 million to an extensive string of special programs and project grants ranging from prevention activities in state and local prisons to assistance in vocational rehabilitation.

The conferees retained the House stance in a controversy involving handling of drug-treatment programs for veterans. The House had rejected a bid to strip reference to Veterans Administration drug-treatment programs from the legislation that would bring all federal antidrug activities under the special-action office.

Suit Filed Against Cooperatives

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Ewald Bros. Dairies of minneapolis is seeking $7.8 million in damages from five dairy cooperatives in three states it has accused of attempting to monopolize the Midwest milk market and control prices.

Defendants in the suit are Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., Kansas; Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minnesota; Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Kansas; Farmers Cooperative Creamery Co., Wisconsin, and Minnesota Milk Co., owned by the Wisconsin firm.

The suit, filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis, charges that the defendants depressed the price that competitors could get for their milk.

The action asks for a permanent injunction from continuing the alleged practice as well as the monetary damages.

ITT Case Dominates Activities

By JOHN HENRY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Senate hearings continued this past week into the controversy over settlement of a Justice Department antitrust case against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., the country's eighth biggest manufacturer.

An aide to columnist Jack Anderson said ITT lobbyist Mrs. Dita Beard related to him a conversation with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in which Mitchell said President Nixon had told Mitchell to go easy in the ITT suit.

Mitchell denied the report from Anderson aide Brit Hume, saying the President had "never, repeat never, made any request to me directly or indirectly concerning the settlement of the ITT case and I took no part in that settlement."

The ITT controversy emerged earlier this month when Anderson published a purported memo by Mrs. Beard linking the out-of-court settlement of the antitrust suit to a pledge that ITT's Sheraton hotel subsidiary would contribute money to the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Another columnist, political writer Victor Zorza, put ITT into the news this past week. Zorza said in a copyrighted column Wednesday that ITT had been secretly negotiating a trade deal with the Soviet Union.

After the column appeared, ITT denied there was a secret trade deal in the works, but disclosed that it was sending a delegation to the Soviet Union next month to describe its products and services.

The wholesale price index climbed an over-all nine-tenths of 1 per cent last month for its sharpest advance in a year, the Labor Department reported. The index rose 0.7 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis. The department blamed the large increase on a sharp rise in the prices of farm products, processed foods and feeds.

Dr. Herbert Stein, President Nixon's chief economic adviser, said moves may be made to exempt some areas of the economy from wage and price controls this year but added that he doesn't see a "very large part of the economy by volume" decontrolled.

In other news, the government reported that business plans this year to invest $89.8 billion in new plant and equipment, nearly $1 billion more than projected in a survey three months ago. If spending reaches the projected new level, it would be an increase of 10½ per cent over 1971, when business investment climbed by only 1.9 per cent.

Diabetes Association Will Meet Monday

The Sedalia Pettis County Diabetes Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the REA Building, North Highway 65, according to Mrs. Carl Goist, Route 2, chairman.

See Elderly in Need of Help

By PETER WEAVER

"There is something wrong with the system when a family cannot save enough after 45 years of continuous work to pay the mounting cost of caring for a bedridden or senile elder citizen."

So writes a reader whose husband is 74 and is incapable of caring for himself. He's not legally "sick enough" to stay in a hospital where Medicare would pay most of the bills; and he's not wealthy enough to pay for maid service to help his wife with the overwhelming chores.

If you're sick enough, Medicare can help. If you're poor enough, local welfare agencies can help through Medicaid. But, millions of elder Americans who need long-term care don't fit the rigid Medicare or Medicaid molds.

The tragedy is magnified by the fact that help is often available for some of these Medicare-Medicaid misfits but they don't know where to look. According to Dr. Robert N. Butler, board member, National Council on Aging, "many doctors are not making full use of Medicare; Medicaid or other benefits provided by private institutions."

For example, any person under Medicare is allowed to get up to 100 home health-care visits by a nurse or home health aid. The benefits are available after confinement in a hospital or convalescent nursing home. Yet, according to Dr. Butler, "many doctors don't take advantage of these benefits." They either don't know about them, he says, or they don't want to become bogged down with the paperwork.

If you are an elder citizen who faces a long-term care problem, or you have a member of your family in this situation, here are some good places to check to make sure you get all the help your community has to offer (most phone numbers are in the Yellow Pages under Social Service Organizations):

VISITING NURSE SERVICE is a good place to start. This organization knows how to cut through the Medicare-Medicaid maze and knows how you might qualify for special assistance. A VNS nurse or caseworker can make an exploratory visit to see what's needed, how much you can pay and what special benefits are available.

HOMEMAKER SERVICE is another excellent source. Homemaker aides can come in to help an elder citizen stay at home and out of an institution. Homemakers do such things as make meals, clean, supervise medicines and shop for necessities.

The elder consumer pays whatever he or she can. A local welfare agency or private charity pays the rest when necessary. For example, some cancer societies help out if the patient is a cancer victim.

MEALS ON WHEELS is an expanding home care service for elders. A hot meal and cold meal are brought in daily at noon. The cold meal is saved to go with coffee or soup at night. The cost is modest, the meals are home-cooked and, for those with limited funds, local agencies or charities pick up all or some of the tab. Congress just provided $250 million for this type of program.

FAMILY SERVICE associations provide elderly shut-ins with "protective services" such as picking them up when Social Security checks arrive so they can go to the bank and shop afterwards. In the Washington, D.C., area, Family Service works through a model cities housing project to provide a "senior center." The center is training "geriatric aides" to take care of elders confined to their apartments.

OTHER HELP can be found through local United Fund charity or organizations, local Jewish, Catholic and Protestant charity organizations and senior citizens clubs. Churches often have excellent homes for the aged but they usually have long waiting lists.

The main thing is to get a caseworker from one of the above organizations to guide you through the incredible bureaucracy that surrounds most assistance programs for the elderly.

'Mixed' Family Conquers Stares

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Artie and Rosemary Wells don't notice the stares anymore when they go out with their two young sons.

The Wells are among a growing number of white couples who have adopted black children.

They expect stares—and some questions—from both whites and blacks.

"It's curiosity, I guess," says Mrs. Wells. "You can almost see their minds working, asking the question, 'I wonder what happened there?'"

The Wells children are light-skinned Negroes, David, 4, and John, 15 months.

Mrs. Wells, 29, says that stares, questions and the knowledge that some people are uncomfortable around them are a small price to pay for having children.

She feels fortunate to have had only those problems. As a member of a group encouraging interracial adoptions, she has heard of white couples who encountered insults and threats after adopting a black child.

The Wells have had no such problem in their racially mixed, working-class neighborhood here. Neither, says Mrs. Wells, did they meet any hostility on vacations in the South.

In fact, says Mrs. Wells, one problem is people who are overly friendly. She says she resents it when someone becomes "gushy" about what she and her husband are doing for integration.

They didn't adopt the youngsters for that reason.

In 1968, when the Wells decided to adopt, they were told they would have to wait a year for a white child. They were impatient, and when a doctor suggested they adopt a black child, they decided to do it.

"Our main concern was in getting a child," she said.

The decision the Wells faced is one increasingly confronting white couples seeking to adopt. The number of white children available has been reduced by improved birth control methods, liberalized abortion laws and new social standards which encourage unwed mothers to keep their children.

Most important, said Wells, is the couple's own prejudice.

Motherhood Grounds Hialeah Flamingoes

MIAMI (AP) — Hialeah Park's famed pink flamingoes, who traditionally fly in poetic formation over the horse track's infield, have been grounded by motherhood.

Hialeah is the only place where the birds are hatched in captivity with 75 to 100 births in the spring.

Florida's unusually warm winter encouraged an earlier mating season and the race meeting is later than usual this year. Many female flamingoes are heavy with eggs and track officials decided Thursday to ground their flock for the first time in 35 years.

"Since you can't tell the boys from the girls among flamingoes," said W. C. Fisher, the track's general manager, "the only humane thing to do is to cancel our flights."

The track had kept the birds grounded by clipping their wings before 1957.

Farm Roundup

Increase in Income Is Reported

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government study of farmers who borrowed from the Farmers Home Administration to help pay operating expenses shows a steady increase in their net income and share of investment or net worth.

The study, published Saturday, was based on surveys of 2,039 FHA operating loan borrowers covering a five-year span, 1966 through 1970.

A profile of the average borrowers shows him to be 44 years old, married and with a five-member household. In 1970 he borrowed $21,980 from FHA for operating expenses, compared with $16,310 in 1966.

In 1970 his cash receipts from all sources was $19,570 compared with a gross of $11,910 in 1966. Net income was up to $8,550 from $5,330 earlier.

But nearly one-third, $2,580 was from a non-farm job. In 1966 moonlighting brought in $1,980.

In 1970 the typical borrower, according to the study, owned $49,570 worth of property including: real estate $24,740; livestock $9,400; machinery and equipment $9,870; and personal property $5,560.

That compared with a total of $30,070 for all categories in 1966, which included real estate $14,910; livestock $4,970; machinery and equipment $6,310; and personal property $3,890.

Total debts in 1970 of $29,420 left the average borrower with a net worth of $20,150 compared with 1966 debts of $17,860 and a net of $12,220.

The surveys also showed a boost in quality of living for farm families involved in the FHA program. During 1966-70 nearly one-fifth of them moved from "dilapidated or deteriorating homes" to new or improved housing, the report said.

Dairy Price Support Increase Is Ignored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has decided not to raise dairy price supports, but producer spokesmen and milk-state members of Congress are gearing up to fight the decision.

Butz announced Thursday the current support price of $4.93 per hundredweight for manufacturing-grade milk will continue in effect for the new marketing year beginning April 1.

The decision drew immediate fire from the National Milk Producers Federation, which has pushed for an increase to $5.28 per hundredweight.

"It is astounding that the administration, in reaching such a decision, completely overlooked the economic necessity of adjusting prices paid dairy farmers so that they could keep pace with increased production costs," Patrick B. Healy, federation secretary said.

Healy said his organization will ask Congress "to rectify this injustice to dairymen" by raising the support price.

Butz has the legal authority to set milk price supports at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, the formula used to relate farm costs with prices.

Last year, then-Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin set the 1971-72 rate at $4.93 after pressure from dairy groups and milk-state lawmakers was brought against the Nixon administration.

Hardin, only two weeks earlier, had announced that no change would be made from the $4.66 rate in effect for the 1970-71 marketing year.

A year ago, the bonus $4.93 price support was equal to 85 per cent of parity. But now, since production costs have risen, it is less than 80 per cent.

In announcing that the support would remain the same, Butz said: "This level of support should provide assurance against the resumption of a downward trend in milk production and provide a supply of milk adequate for our commercial needs ..."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., called Butz' announcement "a slap in the face to every farmer" in the country and pledged to push his own plan which would set the support at 90 per cent, about $5.61 per hundredweight.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A seven per cent hike in meat imports for 1972 was announced Thursday by the Nixon administration, but livestock products may be far from pleased.

For this year, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said, most imports are estimated at 1.24 billion pounds, based on "voluntary restraint" agreements being negotiated with foreign countries.

That is 80 million pounds more than the 1971 restraint level, but is far short of the 15 per cent or more boost sought by importers and some consumer groups who wanted the lid removed completely.

C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said the increase is a potential threat to cattlemen in the futures.

"The threat of more imports in itself tends to be a form of price control," he said.

"Second, in future years, when the cattle industry is not as favorably blessed economically, these foreign countries and U.S. importers might use 1972 as a vehicle to get more beef into the country."

McMillan said the immediate effect may be a "psychological reaction" on the cattle market which could mean lower prices to producers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration issued another warning Friday to livestock producers that if they do not hold strictly to seven-day withdrawal requirements for DES the government will be prepared to ban the growth hormone entirely.

The latest warning came in an announcement by FDA that it is considering a ban on liquid formulations of DES in feed. If finally approved, that would prohibit liquid DES additions to feed rations. It would not ban over-all use of the hormone in dry forms.

Officials say the liquid preparations have caused problems when put through mixing machinery at feedlots. Left-over residues in the machinery then can taint food being mixed later for animals being fed during the seven-day withdrawal.

Four samples of cattle and lamb livers have shown DES residues since Jan. 8 when a federal order went into effect requiring producers to certify DES had not been fed or had been withdrawn seven days prior to slaughter.

In each case, according to the Agriculture Department, producers of the livestock in question had certified DES had been withdrawn according to the rule.

The agency said Friday that if violations of the certification order continue a total ban of DES will be considered.

Manufacturers were given 30 days to comment on the proposed ban of liquid use of the hormone.

New Learning Plan Launched By School

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Adults with an eight grade education and an understanding of the problems of semiliterates will be hired here to help educate other adults who haven't reached the fourth grade reading level.

"It's not like the sick trying to heal the sick; it's more like the recently cured trying to heal the sick," said Robert M. Latimer, supervisor of adult education for city schools.

Latimer announced Friday that his department will receive about $100,000 from the federal government to finance a year of the experimental program, which begins June 30.

No Immediate Decision In School Case Foreseen

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP) — It will be at least a week before any rulings are made in the legal dispute between the National Education Association and the Liberal school board, says Judge L. L. Morgan.

The judge took a stack of exhibits under study late Friday after hearing daylong arguments and testimony about the right of the Liberal chapter of NEA to represent the teachers in contract negotiations.

Regarded as a test case, the proceeding is being closely watched by educators and school boards throughout Kansas.

The state NEA has joined the Liberal chapter in suing for recognition, negotiating rights, freedom of teachers to join the NEA, and against allowing the school board to negotiate with what the NEA calls "rump" groups. Involved are a mandamus order, declaratory judgments and injunctive relief.

Jerry Wormhoudt of Wichita, school board attorney, presented a motion Friday to quash all of the NEA requests.

Judge Morgan reserved ruling on the motion until he heard all other arguments and testimony in the case.

The board recognized the Liberal NEA as bargaining agent for the teachers in October, 1970, and negotiated with it for one school year.

In December, 1971, the board voted against further recognition of NEA for the 1971-72 school year, saying the group did not represent a majority of teachers.

The board later refused to renew the contracts of two teachers — Mrs. Oleta Peters, president of Liberal NEA, and Mrs. Lila Epperson, president elect.

Testifying Friday were Mrs. Peters, Dr. J. L. Smalling, superintendent of Liberal schools, and Mrs. JoAnn Sharp, school board president.

Smalling said the list of NEA memberships, kept in his office for dues deduction purposes, showed only 106 members out of the total force of 233 teachers last November.

However, Mrs. Peters testified that 22 non-members had given signed, written requests for the NEA to represent them in negotiations.

Mrs. Peters was questioned by Ward Martin of Topeka, chief counsel for the state association. She produced records which she said proves that more than a majority of teachers are NEA members now.

Record Budget Is Presented to City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — City Manager John Taylor presented a record city budget of $135,739,119 for the fiscal year beginning May 1 to the city council at a meeting Friday.

The budget, up more than $12 million from last year, reflects the new one-half cent sales tax for the Area Transportation Authority that accounts for $6,907,000 of the total.

Insurance Rate Hikes Are Approved By Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has approved several insurance rate increases ranging from 3.1 per cent to 27.6 per cent.

At the same time, it received a flock of new requests from other insurance firms also seeking rate boosts, and promised to act on them later.

The commission approved the 27.6 per cent increase for automobile liability insurance in West Virginia for Kemper Insurance's Federal Mutual Insurance Co.

Also approved were increases in automobile insurance rates for policy holders in Arkansas applying to policies written by Farmers Insurance Group, Farmers Insurance Exchange. Bodily injury and property damage insurance would go up 3.94 per cent; protection against uninsured motorists, 17.43 per cent; comprehensive, 8.81 per cent; and collision, 13.98 per cent.

Prudential Insurance Co. of America won approval for a 4.5 per cent increase for health insurance premiums for Alabama dry dock workers; 14 per cent for premiums for Holiday Inns Inc.; and 11.5 per cent for health insurance at Purdue University.

Travelers Insurance Co. got approval to raise premiums paid by employes for group health insurance in five cases—Coca Cola Corp., 18.8 per cent; Burroughs Corp., 3.1 per cent; National Presto Industries Inc., 5.3 per cent; Rapid-American Corp., 9.1 per cent; and Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., 5.4 per cent.

Kansas Legislature Ends 60 Days of Work

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas Legislature concluded 60 days of work Friday night with a whoop and a holler from House members who had plodded virtually nonstop through 16 hours of debate, recessing for 10 days until the 1972 session adjourns Monday, March 20.

The good spirits with which both houses wound up the last regular day of the session was in stark contrast to 11 months ago, when the 1971 session shut down amid bitterness and disappointment.

"It was a good, hard-working session," said Speaker Cal Storwig, whose tight rein in the chair most of Friday kept the House driving to clear a backlog of legislation dumped on it when the Senate earlier this week began shoveling a raft of bills to the lower chamber.

"This session has an exceptionally good record of accomplishment — one of the best in recent years," said Glee Smith, president pro tem, whose Senate had nothing more to do in the final hours than to consider amendments to bills already passed.

Work was completed on the major items of revnue, appropriations and reapportionment — pending Gov. Robert Docking's consideration and possible veto of revamped senate and house reapportionment plans sent to the governor on the last night.

The session left hanging such issues as whether to extend the property tax lid law or its local sales tax provision, an omnibus pay raise bill, lowering the age of majority from 21 to 18 and which major constitutional amendments to be added to those to be submitted to the voters this year.

The legislture earlier this week had passed a revenue bill to raise $24.45 million, which most legislators agreed was sufficient to fund the fiscal 1973 budget, and Friday night completed action on the major appropriations bills — totaling $988.9 million.

That figure is $1.6 million below what Gov. Docking recommended to the legislature two months ago for the fiscal 1973 budget.

Yet to come is the omnibus appropriations bill cleaning up the odds and ends missed in the big appropriations bills, including the money to provide the pay raises being proposed for legislators and state officials other than the governor.

Nine conference committees will report back on March 20 and the Joint Ways and Means Committee will meet on March 19 to put the omnibus appropriations bill together.

The House killed 27 bills remaining on its calendar before quitting work Friday at 11:54 p.m. — nine minutes after the senate had recessed for 10 days.

Biggest snag in the waning hours came in the House over whether to extend the local sales tax provision in the property tax lid law of 1970. House members defeated following lengthy debate a motion to reconsider a bill the House had killed Thursday night to make the local sales tax authorization permanent.

The tax lid law expires Dec. 31, 1972, and with it the provision under which Topeka, Lawrence and Manhattan had enacted local half-cent sales taxes to fund local government.

Officials of those cities lobbied furiously Friday to get the house to reconsider and vote extension of the local sales tax provision — after the Senate Assessment and Taxation Committee earlier in the day tabled a bill which would have extended the property tax lid law for six months, to July 31, 1973.

The Property Tax Lid Law is expected to come up again when the legislators return a week from Monday to finish the session — with more pressure to accede to Docking's wishes and extend the lid.

Reapportionment bills sent to Docking face possible new vetoes by the governor. The House's revised plan cut down on the number of divisions within counties in the way districts are drawn, but still has a population deviation of about 12 per cent which may bring a veto.

Democrats claimed the house remap plan was adjusted just enough to woo four more votes for an override. The House failed by just four votes Thursday to override a Docking veto of its first remap plan.

The Senate plan — which came out of conference committee with the Senate dropping its "policy statement" to have the House reduced in size from 125 to 80 members, and the House giving up on its change to include Iola in the district of Sen. Tom Van Sickle, R-Fort Scott — faces a more likely veto than the House plan. The Senate retained at-large representation in Sedgwick and Johnson counties — to which Docking strongly objects.

Also sent to Docking were bills creating the first two reorganized departments of state government — revenue and administration.

Expanded homestead property tax relief also reached Docking's desk as the session drew to a close.

That bill, expected to provide a total of $6 million in benefits to the elderly and disabled, is $2 million more than what Docking recommended.

Don Ferguson

Ferguson Will Speak For Club

The Sedalia Knife and Fork Club will observe its 25th anniversary at its meeting at 7 p.m. Saturday at Bothwell Hotel. The evening is also "guest night" for the club.

J. Don Ferguson, general manager of a radio station in Savannah, Ga., and known for his collection of "bloopers" or "Spoonerisms," will be the guest speaker.

He is regarded as an outstanding advertising man and has served as the 1969-70 president of The Georgia Association of Broadcasters. He is listed in the 1967 edition of "Outstanding Personalities of the South" and the 1969 edition of "Community Leaders of America."

Ferguson has collected more than 5,000 "bloopers," or radio and television announcing errors.

Reservations for the meeting should be made before Wednesday. All charter members, past presidents and members are asked to attend.

School Board Race Has 11 Candidates

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SMITHTON — A slate of 11 candidates has filed for positions on the Smithton R-VI School District Board of Education. Five have filed for the two two-year posts and six have declared their candidacy for the two three-year terms.

Seeking two year terms are: Gary L. Griffin, Ralph R. Thomas, Lendal J. Harpin, Gerald E. Hancock and George H. Page.

Seeking the two three-year directorships are: B. L. Boatright, Kenneth L. Gary, Donald Eldenburg, Matt O. Green III, Joe W. Davis and Wilma W. Carver.

The election will be held April 4 at City Hall here.

U.S., China Implement Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China have acted to implement part of the agreement worked out during President Nixon's trip to Peking, agreeing on Paris as the site of continuing diplomatic contacts.

The "primary purposes of this channel," presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Friday, will be to handle travel and trade matters.

The contacts will be in the hands of the nations' ambassadors to France, Arthur K. Watson for the United States and Huang Chen for China.

The State Department said Friday no date has been set for the first meeting in Paris "nor is there a speculative time frame." Ziegler added the ambassadors "will meet whenever there is significant business to be conducted."

The choice of the French capital was something of a surprise since most speculation by administration officials was on Ottawa, Canada.

State Department officials indicated Peking may have vetoed the Canadian city because its embassy there is not equipped for the volume of work the contacts are expected to generate.

"We understand they (the Chinese) are already inundated with correspondence and inquiries from people in the United States," one State Department official said.

He added that Paris "is fine with us and one of several cities we would have accepted." The presence of several Asian experts on the U.S. staff in Paris may have been a factor in the American acceptance of the French city.

The official said other possibilities had included Warsaw.

According to Ziegler, Paris was discussed by Nixon with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai during the President's mainland tour, but the selection was not made until after the chief executive's Feb. 28 return.

A third-country site was one of the few tangible agreements worked out between Chinese and U.S. officials during Nixon's seven-day trip to the mainland and the success of the arrangement is expected to key any further diplomatic relations between the two nations.

Killed in Accident

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Anthony H. Bradley, 55, Kansas City, was killed early today when his car went off Interstate 435 near the Snibar underpass and struck an unoccupied parked car, the highway patrol said.

Dr. John W. Richards

Richards On State Committee

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LIBERTY — Dr. John W. Richards, an optometrist and a former Sedalian, has been appointed a member of the Medical Advisory Committee to the State Division of Welfare by Proctor N. Carter, director, it was reported last week.

Dr. Richards will replace Robert C. Cable, Joplin.

Born in Sedalia, Dr. Richards graduated from Smith-Cotton High School. He attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and received his Doctor of Optometry degree in 1966 from the Southern College of Optometry, Memphis, Tenn., where he was a clinical instructor until August, 1967, when he entered the armed forces.

He is on the board of directors of the Greater Kansas City Optometric Society; secretary of the Lions Optometric Clinic of Kansas City; chairman of the Urban Optometry Committee of the Missouri Optometric Association; a Boy Scout counselor and a member of the Jaycees here.

Dr. Richards and his wife Lucy have a two-year-old son, Bryan Scott.

Filing Deadline Is Set In Knob Noster

KNOB NOSTER — It was announced at a city-wide mass meeting here Thursday that the deadline for filing for the April 4 election would be March 23.

Candidates who have already filed are Elmer Eckhoff, incumbent alderman from Ward No. 1, opposed by Elmer Rehkop and Everett Miller; Bill Schouten, incumbent alderman from Ward No. 2, opposed by James W. Walz, Delbert Bearce and George Taraba.

An alternate will be elected for a two-year term for each ward, it was reported.

Disputed Bill Is Settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service and U.S. Postal Service have settled a disputed bill over mailing of about 78 million tax returns to taxpayers.

Under terms of the settlement, IRS agreed to pay the Postal Service an additional $1.5 million, a spokesman for IRS said.

The dispute began earlier this year when IRS, because of late passage of the 1971 Revenue Act, found that the tax changes would make delivery of tax returns about two to three weeks late.

To speed up the process, it sent the tax returns through the mail first class instead of the usual third class.

The shock came when the Postal Service handed over a bigger bill than IRS officials expected. Just how much is not known for sure, but the figure was variously estimated between $3 million and $8 million.

In reaching the settlement, an IRS spokesman said, both agencies now have begun discussions that "will lead to a clear understanding" of what level of service IRS will need in the fiscal year that starts July 1.

"The Postal Service has emphasized that the future relationship between the two agencies would have to be grounded on a firm business basis that relates payments to the level of services provided," the IRS said.

Druggist's Error Costs Him $29,000

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — A Long Island woman who was given nasal decongestant tablets instead of birth control pills by a druggist has been awarded $29,000 in damages, most of it to cover the costs of raising a son.

A Suffolk County jury awarded the sum Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kuhns of Brentwood, who had sued for $6 million after Mrs. Kuhns became pregnant and delivered a boy. He is now 5.

The pharmacist said he misread the physician's handwriting and gave the woman Novahistine, which helps clear nasal passages, instead of Norlestrin, a birth control pill.

Environmental Protection Is Seen as Possible in Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri just might do something about preserving her so far beautiful environment this year.

There are gaps the legislature cannot span this time around but the trend seems to be toward an attitude of recognition of the need and a desire to correct the errors of years past.

A special order of business for the House of Representatives Monday is a senate-passed bill authorizing the state to issue $20 million in bonds as the state share of a water pollution control program. With local and federal funds it will mean $80 million for construction of such water control facilities as municipal sewage treatment plants.

The House already has passed and sent to the Senate an appropriations bill that would provide the $20 million.

Prospects for a clean water law also appear good.

Both Houses have approved similar bills with the primary purpose of getting potential polluters out of control of water pollution board.

The House bill, passed last Wednesday on a 123-17 vote, now is in Senate committee. Its principal feature is a board of six members, instead of four, with a requirement that no more than two of the six may be engaged in farming or industry.

A similar bill has passed the Senate and was approved by a House committee Wednesday night.

One of the most intriguing efforts to control the environment is pending on the Senate calendar. As it passed the House it would set up an environmental improvement authority with power to issue revenue bonds for the construction or purchase of costly pollution control devices.

They could be adapted for control of pollution of the land, air or water and leased or sold to industry, communities or individuals.

The idea is that such equipment might be too costly for an industry or community to buy outright but reasonably available on a lease or extended purchase plan.

Other states have used the plan with success — why not Missouri? — sponsors say.

A Senate-passed bill giving the Division of Health strict control over any solid waste disposal system has been heard by the House Committee on Environment but has not yet reached the House calendar. It stands a good chance for passage this year.

But the House killed a bill that would have added control of noise pollution to the chores of the Air Conservation Commission.

Quipped someone, the House was fearful that with such authority the Air Conservation Commission might abolish the Missouri House of Representatives for producing too much noise pollution.

Q — Recently I was in court in Benton County with my wife, who had received a traffic ticket. She pleaded not guilty and at the hearing the judge found her guilty and fined her $15 plus court costs of $10. The receipt shows $5 of the costs went to the judge and $5 to the prosecutor.

My question is — are these two people on salary? How can you expect to get a fair trial before a judge who gets part of the court costs? Are there any court costs if the accused is found innocent? — A.V.K.

A — As a traffic violation, this case was apparently heard in Benton County Magistrate Court. The Magistrate-Probate Court clerk told Hot Line this is a situation which is often not understood and explained:

Both the magistrate judge and the prosecuting attorney are salaried, so they receive nothing from "court costs." The receipts for court costs are sometimes misunderstood because they do show $5 of the costs going to magistrate fees, and $5 to prosecuting attorney fees.

Neither fee goes into the pocket of the magistrate or the prosecutor, however. The magistrate fee is forwarded to the state treasurer. The prosecuting attorney fee goes to the prosecutor who, under state law, forwards the check to the Benton County Treasurer. Any fine levied goes to the Benton County Court, earmarked for school use. There is no court cost if the defendant is found innocent, which often happens, according to the clerk.

Q — Why is the 1000 block of West 28th Street between South Quincy and South Stewart in the Letourneau addition not resurfaced or paved?

Is this not the responsibility of the builder or developer of such a project? Has title been passed to the City of Sedalia, and if so, is the city responsible? — G.M.B.

A — Mrs. Al Letourneau, office manager for the construction firm, said expenses for the streets will be paid by the developer. And after the streets are paved, she said, they will be given to the city at no cost.

Construction of the development is still in progress. The reason for the delay in completing the surfacing of the street is because construction of the new Southwest City Sewage Lagoon, expected to get underway sometime this year, has not started yet. Because many homeowners would expect to be hooked up to city services when the sewer project is completed, the final work on the street was delayed so the road would not have to be especially torn up for sewer attachments to each home in the addition in that area.

Hot Line also contacted City Engineer R. W. Cunningham. He said the city would not accept a street unless it meets minimum surfacing requirements. Those requirements now call for a six-inch crushed rock and hot asphalt surface. Cunningham said the cost of such surfacing could be borne by the developer or the adjoining property owners.

After the minimum standards are met and the city accepts the work, the city then assumes regular maintenance responsibilities.

Q — Why is it that people in Sedalia who do not use the garbage pick up service have to pay the $1 fee for it on their water bills? We have a garbage disposal and have other rubbish hauled away. We know of several families in a similar situation, but they still have to pay the fee. Is this legal? — S.W.

A — J. R. Fritz, city counselor, said the reason for the $1 fee on all water bills in the city was that the cost of individual billing would be prohibitive. This in turn would make the cost of garbage collection go up dramatically.

City ordinances covering trash collection do not provide for the pick up of rubbish in residential areas, but there is a separate ordinance allowing businesses to make arrangements with private trash haulers to exempt them from the added charge on water bills.

Rare Snow Leopards Arrive in Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., (AP) — Two rare snow leopards, possibly the last ever to be taken from the high Himalayas, have arrived from Moscow and will be housed in the Woodland Park Zoo.

The leopards, a male and a female, are considered an endangered species and their capture has been banned, even for zoos.

The pair was purchased from the Moscow Zoo Trade Authority.

Only 300-400 of the cats are left, according to experts, Woodland Park Zoo Director Jan van Oosten said. The only way a zoo will be able to obtain one in the future, he said, will be from another zoo.

Seattle's pair were named Nicholas and Alexandra.

Spying On Church Personnel Resented

GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Friction between state and church is moving into some touchy new areas. Some churches complain of pressures to stop their taking stands on public issues and of government spying on church personnel.

The latest protest came last week in a brief filed with the U.S. Supreme Court, contending that military surveillance has included church leaders and that it violates guarantees of religious freedom.

Such government investigation activity nowadays is "replete with examples of special invasion into religious aspects of society," four national religious organizations said in a friend-of-the-court brief.

It was filed in connection with a case brought by the American Civil Liberties Union asking the court to ban military investigations of peaceful, lawful activities of persons outside the armed forces.

Such operations have "breached the wall of separation between the state and religious activities of Americans," the church organizations said.

They are the United Church of Christ's Council for Christian Social Action, the American Friends Service Committee, the Unitarian Universalist Association and the National Council of Churches, made up of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

They said some local congregations, members and many church leaders have been subjected to military surveillance, especially those working with an interdenominational antiwar agency, Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam.

Earlier, the policy-making board of the National Council last month complained that government tax pressure was being used to keep churches from speaking out on social concerns.

Many churches "believe that Christians are obliged by their faith to make Christ the Lord part of all aspects of their lives, and public policy is not an exception to that obligation," the church representatives said.

A bill recently introduced in the U.S. Senate by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Sen. Hugh Scott, R.-Pa., would allow churches and other charitable groups to press for legislation of interest to them without jeopardizing their tax exemptions.

Some church groups have said Internal Revenue Service agents lately have used the threat of a loss of tax exemptions as a lever against church activity on issues of general public concern.

Tighter Security On Planes Promised

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

The Federal Aviation Administration Saturday forecast a modest improvement in the outlook for flying security for the weekend while airports and airlines stepped up measures to combat bomb threats.

"It looks like the trouble may be winding down," an FAA spokesman said.

By 6 p.m. EST Friday the FAA had registered about 20 telephone threats of bombings or hijackings around the nation for the day. This compared with 48 on Thursday, 24 on Wednesday, and eight on Tuesday.

Most were clearly hoaxes, the FAA said, but all were checked out in the interest of public safety.

The threats followed three incidents earlier in the week in which explosives actually were placed on aircraft. Two devices were recovered before exploding, but the other detonated, badly damaging a parked jetliner at Las Vegas, Nev.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe prepared for a session next week to discuss stricter air security measures with Cabinet members.

Volpe conferred with airline executives Friday before leaving for a weekend speaking engagement in Mexico City.

Meantime, airlines and airport operators moved to implement stricter security measures ordered by President Nixon and being drafted in the form of regulations by the FAA.

The Air Line Pilots Association welcomed the President's action.

"Our members wholeheartedly endorse this long-awaited beginning of a total offense against this threat, which has cost the airline industry, passengers and taxpayers untold millions of dollars," said ALPA president John J. O'Donnell in a letter to Nixon.

As an example of the tighter airport security, police at Miami International Airport tripled patrols in the area where passengers deplane and required all ground personnel to carry identification badges.

Sgt. Roger Brown of the Miami airport force said three patrol cars now are stationed in the passenger-deplaning area around the clock. There had been no fixed patrol there before this week.

FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer said the airlines must submit security programs in detail within 60 days for FAA approval.

The FAA also will require, for each of the 521 airports served by the scheduled airlines, a master security plan identifying each air operations area separately from the other parts of the airport.

Freak Accident Is Fatal For Musician

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Investigators said a pistol in a dropped purse discharged and the bullet killed a musician at a South Dallas night club early Friday.

Police gave these details:

A woman rising from a table to dance handed her purse containing the gun to another woman and it fell to the floor. This caused the weapon to fire, and the shot struck Claudie House, 53, in the head.

House, a drummer in the club's band, was killed instantly.

Costs Paid By Groups, Individuals

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Financing for the Republican and Democratic national conventions—spotlighted by allegations about a $400,000 contribution from International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. to the GOP—will come from many sources this year.

Most of the contributors are people or organizations who hope convention crowds will bring them extra business.

Fund raisers for August's GOP meeting in San Diego, Calif., have declined to identify individual contributors. The city bid $1,521,800 in cash, services and goods to get the convention.

Miami bid $950,000 in cash and services for the Democrats' meeting in July. The list of contributors ranges from airlines to an accountant.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is probing charges that ITT pledged to underwrite $400,000 for the Republican convention in exchange for a favorable antitrust ruling by the Justice Department.

U.S. Rep. Bob Wilson of San Diego, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said last week that ITT President Harold S. Geneen made the $400,000 guarantee last summer.

An ITT subsidiary, Sheraton Hotels Corp., already has donated $100,000 and has pledged another $100,000 if needed.

The money would have been part of the $500,000 in cash to be raised by San Diego area businessmen and party contributors.

Declining to name other contributors, Phil Phillips, a host committee spokesman, said revealing names "could be used as a blackjack to have contributions boosted."

Some individuals, however, were willing to discuss their contributions. C. Terry Brown, president of Atlas Hotels, Inc., said his firm would give about $24,000.

Speaking of the convention, Brown said, "I think it is the greatest thing that ever happened to San Diego, but 24,000 bucks is enough." Atlas operates four hotels in San Diego with a total of 1,325 rooms.

A general outline of the $1,521,800 involved in San Diego's convention bid breaks down this way:

San Diego County—$200,000, half in cash and half in goods and services.

San Diego—$600,000 in services, including $198,000 in police overtime, $25,000 in fire department expenses and $50,000 for a press party.

California—$200,000 in services.

San Diego area businessmen and party contributors—$521,800, including $500,000 in cash.

The $950,000 bid by Miami for the Democratic convention includes $450,000 in cash and the remainder in goods and services.

A committee headed by Gov. Reubin Askew is raising $100,000 of the cash; the city, through its Tourist Development Authority, is raising $250,000; and the South Florida Motel-Hotel association is raising $100,000.

Discussing the contributors to Askew's committee, aide Bernie Parrish said: "No one was promised anything. For most of these people it's a self-serving thing. They'll be getting the business. We approached the people who can stand to gain the most."

'Deke' May Fly Yet ...

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Donld K. "Deke" Slayton, the only one of America's original seven astronauts who never made a space journey, may soon be eligible for a mission.

Doctors had barred him from that goal for a decade because of a heart flutter, but Friday the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that recent medical tests show no evidence of an irregular heartbeat. Slayton has taken no medication for the problem for two years.

However, age—he's 48—and the availability of flights may keep Slayton out of space.

A NASA spokesman said he expected Slayton to be returned to flight status within a few days after his medical history has been reviewed by experts of the space agency and Federal Aviation Administration.

At his home in Houston, Tex., Slayton said he was awaiting the outcome of a final medical briefing and "until then I'll just relax and wait."

After John Glenn made America's first orbital space mission in February 1962, Slayton was named to pilot the second orbiting Mercury craft.

But on March 7, 1962, an irregular heart beat was detected by doctors during a routine medical examination. They grounded him and astronaut Scott Carpenter took Slayton's place on the three-orbit journey in May 1962.

The heart condition was not considered serious. The beat fluttered occasionally and doctors worried that if it happened during a tense moment of a flight, he might pass out. He also was forbidden to fly an airplane without a copilot.

Slayton remained in the space program, convinced that he would one day achieve his dream of flying into space. In 1963 he was named chief astronaut, with a title of director of flight crew operations.

He has helped select the men who have flown the Gemini and Apollo missions and has directed their training.

Knob Noster BPW Meets

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — The March meeting of the Knob Noster Business and Professional Women's Club was held Monday in the community room of City Hall.

A contributive dinner was held preceding the program and business meeting. The tables were decorated with a St. Patrick's Day theme. Mrs. George Taraba gave the invocation.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Eddie Henson, who led the group in the pledge of allegiance.

For the program, reports of the legislative conference, which was held at the Ramada Inn in Jefferson City last week end, were given by Mrs. William Dabney, Mrs. Mary Jo McGuire, and Mrs. Henson. There were 434 members of BPW Clubs in Missouri at the conference, and the principal speaker at the banquet Saturday evening was Mrs. Lenora Sullivan of St. Louis, the only congresswoman from Missouri.

An announcement was made that the annual tea for senior high school girls and their mothers would be held May 7th.

The following members were named as the nominating committee: Mrs. Virgil Fague, Mrs. McGuire and Mrs. Leslie Kirk.

The BPW State convention will be held April 14, 15 and 16 in St. Louis.

Mrs. Charles Peterman and Mrs. McGuire were named as the committee for Doctor's Day, which is March 30th.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. John Parker, Mrs. J. E. Saults, and Mrs. McGuire.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Some people will always see Mama in me and others will accept or reject me as an individual and that's that, so be it."—Actress Liza Minnelli, daughter of Vincente Minnelli and the late Judy Garland.

"The doctor bugged me, my children bugged me and the route manager bugged me. So I just gave it up . . . Just retired, that's all, after 27 years of delivering the Peoria Journal-Star."—Mary Bandy, at the age of 74, quitting her paper route.

"First of all, I don't have time; and, secondly, I'm not a writer. Thirdly, I live so much in the present that to sit down and dig away into the past would bore me to death."—Actress Paulette Goddard, explaining why she will never write her autobiography.

"My children have only one parent and a lot of things have happened in their lives."—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, testifying in a trial of rival lawsuits involving a photographer.

Marriage Announced

MRS. ALAN DAVID ALLISON
Miss Sidney Jo Wickell

DENVER, Colo. — Mr. and Mrs. Alan David Allison announce their marriage of March 3 at Riverside Baptist Church, Denver.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hansen, formerly of Otterville, now residing in Denver and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Allison, 120 West Broadway, Sedalia.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Dr. Bob McPherson and honor attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Mark Casbeer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with 30 guests attending.

The couple will reside in Denver where both are employed.

Club Notes

The tri-county chapter of Medical Secretaries and Assistants met Tuesday for a dinner meeting at April's Barn in Concordia.

Guests attending were Mrs. Elaine Harvey, Mrs. Shirley Crouch, Mrs. Peggy Renno, Mrs. Dorothy Cope and Mrs. June Harl.

Bothwell Homemaker's Extension Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Dewey Swopes to make bed pads for Beuna Vista Nursing Home. After a luncheon was held, a program on health and safety was given by Mrs. Adella Hutchison.

Mrs. Don Abney gave the devotional.

Fashion Show Tuesday

Beta Xi chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority will host a fashion show at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Tiffany House.

Approximately 75 spring clothing fashions for both men and women will be shown along with wigs, hair styles and cosmetics, compliments of Sedalia merchants.

Door prizes are to be given away and tickets may be purchased at the door or from any sorority member, according to Mrs. Dennis Hotchkiss, ways and means chairman.

Proceeds from the event will be used by the sorority for future philanthropic projects, Mrs. Hotchkiss said.

MRS. STEVEN L. REHKOP
Miss Elizabeth E. Weathers

Couple Exchanges Vows

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CONCORDIA — Wedding vows were exchanged Feb. 26 at Bethel United Church of Christ between Miss Elizabeth E. Weathers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Weathers, Hughesville, and Steven L. Rehkop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Rehkop, Concordia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor length gown of chiffon over white satin with long sleeves and a high neckline. The lace bodice was attached to a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with small carnations cascading on ribbon streamers.

Miss Cathy Weathers, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor and she wore a pink floor length gown with short sleeves that had a large bow at the back. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

Best man was Curtis Rehkop, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Curtis Rehkop was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling on a honeymoon to Alabama the bride chose a street length pink crepe dress.

Turner-White Say Vows

GREEN RIDGE — Miss Sandra Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Turner, Green Ridge, became the bride of Randall White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul White, Green Ridge, March 5 at the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. James Williams performed the ceremony before an altar flanked by two seven branch candelabra arranged with emerald foliage and white bows. Two large arrangements of white gladioli and purple sea foam statice were on either side of the chancel steps.

Miss Cathy Berry, organist, played several selections before the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Doug Roller.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin floor length gown of tulip patterned brocade, styled with a high neckline, long tapered sleeves and an empire waist. She wore a Juliet cap made from matching fabric that was dotted with seed pearls and the veil of bridal illusion was attached from the center of the headpiece to form a train at the back.

Miss Jeanie Turner, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, in a floor length fown of lavender brocade accented by dark purple velvet trim with matching headpiece. She carried one long stemmed white rose accented with a dark purple bow and streamer.

Miss Pam Turner, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed in a lavender brocade floor length gown identical to that of the maid of honor. She carried a white basket of lavender petals. Her only jewelry was a gold pendant, a gift from the bride.

Lighting the candles were Miss Gale Turner, sister of the bride, and Miss Pam White, sister of the groom. They wore gowns identical to the maid of honor and had corsages of lavender tinted carnations.

Tony Mills served the groom as best man, and ushers were Mike Curtis and Don Mills.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with white net over white satin, gathered at each corner and held by large white bows, with purple violets and lilly-of-the-valley.

Miss Connie Ream presided at the guest book and Mrs. Connie Wasson and David White were in charge of the gift table. Miss Tonya Turner and Donald Sullivan, cousins of the bride, distributed rice bags.

MRS. RANDALL WHITE
Miss Sandra Turner

The bride chose for her going away outfit a two piece light blue knit suit with red accessories, and her corsage was an orchid lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will live in Warrensburg where the bride is a haridresser at Tossell's Salon de Beaute and the groom is a student at Central Missouri State College.

Elaine Dittmer-Douglas Lenhart Wed

CONCORDIA — Miss Elaine Marie Dittmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omar J. Dittmer, Concordia, became the bride of Douglas Arthur Lenhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lenhart, Grandview, March 11 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Concordia. The Rev. William J. Wollenburg officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Adorning the altar were two arrangements of pink and yellow snapdragons with white carnations and baby's breath. In the chancel were two baskets of pink and yellow snapdragons, white carnations and baby's breath, and two seven branch candelabras tied with a cluster of salal and white satin bows. The front pews were marked with white satin bows and clusters of salal.

The organist, Miss Lois Heilman, played traditional wedding selections, and accompanied vocalist Mr. Norman Schlueter.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the altar by her father. She chose a chapel gown of white nylon organza over net and sata-peau. It was fashioned with chantilly lace on the bodice, mandarin collar, and the empire waist. The long bishop sleeves came to a point at her hands. The A-line skirt and aisle wide train were highlighted by a border of chantilly lace. Her elbow-length bouffant white nylon veil fell from a flowered effect of venice lace petals, which were trimmed with pearls, crystals, and sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations, pink and yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath with white velvet streamers. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Miss Linda Dittmer of Concordia attended her sister as maid of honor. She was attired in an empire style gown of pink taffeta brocade with puffed sleeves. She wore a matching bow head piece attached to pink maline. She carried a colonial type bouquet of pink and yellow feathered carnations with aqua blue baby's breath and spring rainbow streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Donna Lenhart, Mrs. Harry Shelton, sisters of the groom, and Miss Kathy Strickfaden. They were attired in empire style gowns of aqua blue taffeta brocade with matching headpieces. They carried a colonial type bouquet of pink and yellow feathered carnations with aqua blue baby's breath and spring rainbow streamers.

Lighting the candles were Miss Donna Brandt, cousin of the bride, and Miss Debra Loges. They wore gowns of mint green taffeta brocade, with matching headpieces, and corsages of pink and yellow feathered carnations and aqua blue baby's breath with rainbow bows.

Don Lenhart, brother of the groom, served as best man. Assisting as groomsmen were Alan Luebbert, Randy Brandt and Robert Boehmer. Performing the ushering duties were Robert Brandt, Randy Brandt and Robert Boehmer.

A buffet dinner and wedding dance was held following the ceremony at the VFW Hall. Johnny Nace and the Midniters provided music for the dance. In charge of the guest book was Miss Carol Brandt.

For traveling the bride chose a powder blue polyester crepe modified empire styled dress with white accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink and yellow sweetheart roses taken from her bridal bouquet.

MRS. DOUGLAS ARTHUR LENHART
Miss Elaine Marie Dittmer

Following a honeymoon trip, the couple will be at home in Shawnee, Kansas. The bride and groom are both graduates of Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, with accounting degrees in business administration.

A dinner following the wedding rehearsal was held at Topsy's dining hall, and was hosted by the groom.

Rock Opera Is Studied

The rock opera, "Jesus Christ Superstar" written by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice was reviewed and studied under the leadership of the Rev. Gregory Hibbard, Trinity Lutheran, and the Rev. Marvin Albright, United Church of Christ, at the Monday meeting of the Sedalia branch of the American Association of University Women. From the combined effort of these two theologians the audience of about 75 was given a very thought-provoking program, according to Mrs. Russell Rhoads, AAUW president.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" is another attempt of composers to present the passion story through music, just as composers all through the ages have tried to interpret the meaning of the life and death of Christ, it was stated. In Superstar much emphasis is given to the character Judas, who, as interpreted by Albright and Hibbard, was a realist and a very practical man, protective of Jesus, and above all loyal to the Christ.

They pointed out that the opera follows the chronological order of the Biblical text, and it is written in the rock style which is a medium difficult for some to appreciate. Nonetheless, it is a modern interpretation which does broaden the scope of work that has been done about the life and crucifixion of Christ, the ministers said.

According to Albright one of the other main characters is Mary Magdalene. About her he said, "She's a woman, a real woman, attracted first to Jesus in a natural biological way. The normal male-female relationship does not materialize. Then she discovers something genuinely new and fresh about herself and then about life in general and also about this man whom she's met. 'Should I speak of love and let my feelings out,' she says, 'I never thought I'd come to this. What's it all about, he scares me so.' It's an interesting characterization of Mary," Rev. Albright said.

Other characters that are portrayed in "Jesus Christ Superstar" according to Hibbard are the apostles, and they are characterized as "inept, bumblers, really not knowing what's going on, which is about the same as the scriptures portray them."

According to Albright, Herod is portrayed as filled with contempt and mockery. "The music and lyrics of Weber and Rice seem to capture the Biblical setting so well. Herod taunts Jesus in a typical cat and mouse fashion, missing the point all the way. Herod never really comes face to face with what Jesus is doing. 'Prove to me that you are divine, change my water into wine,' or the other quote 'Prove to me that you're no fool, walk across my swimming pool,' " Albright quoted from the musical.

Accusations have been made against this work that it portrays Jesus as too human. Several references within the work itself refer to the word Christ, indicating the expected Messiah. Hibbard feels that the element of Jesus' divinity, of his Messiahship is very much present, even though Weber and Rice's great goals are to present Jesus as the God-Man.

In the business meeting held prior to the program, it was reported that a third paper collection date had been set. The collection, to be held the weekend of April 14 through 16 will be in conjunction with the Pettis County Community Betterment Council's program of can collection.

Miss Javon Moore Is Bride of Dan Strombom

MRS. DAN DOUGLAS STROMBOM
Miss Javon Frances Moore

Wesley United Methodist Church was the scene of the March 3 wedding of Miss Javon Frances Moore, daughter of Franklin P. Moore, 1009 East Sixth, and Mrs. Florence R. Coughran, Enid, Okla., and Dan Douglas Strombom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill V. Strombom, 2405 Golf.

The Rev. Thomas D. Hall performed the candlelight ceremony before an altar bouquet of blue and white gladioli with a candle on each side. Two standing bouquets of blue and white gladioli flanked the altar.

Mrs. Robert Woolery played the organ and accompanied Mrs. Warren Ripley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of polyester organza, accented with schiffli embroidered motifs, touched with tiny pearls on the neckline, choker, short puffed sleeves and around the bottom of the long A-line skirt. The detachable chapel train was highlighted with the same schiffli embroidered motifs and pearls. The bride's headpiece was of pearls in the shape of a large rose and she carried a cascade bouquet with a white cattleya orchid and pale blue stephanotis with variegated ivy streamers.

Mrs. Tom Edwards was matron of honor and Mrs. Wray Jobe was the bridesmaid. They both wore long blue crepe dresses with low necklines and short puffy sleeves. The empire waistline was accented with a darker blue velvet ribbon with bow in front. Each carried a long stem white rose with blue ribbons.

Best man was Tom Edwards and groomsman was Doug Crank. Serving as ushers and candlelighters were Donnie Brownfield and Ronnie Brownfield.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the groom's parents. The table was decorated with two candelabra and white and blue gladioli.

Secrecy End Sought By Citizen's Lobby

An end to unnecessary secrecy in Missouri government is the goal of an initiative petition drive announced recently by the Citizen's Lobby.

The Lobby, a reform-minded organization located in Jefferson City, hopes to have a proposal on the general election ballot in November calling for open meetings and recorded votes by public bodies.

The announcement of the initiative drive comes at the same time the General Assembly is considering an "open meetings" bill introduced by Rep. R. J. "Bus" King and signed by 15 co-sponsors. But the Citizen's Lobby correctly points out that the King bill contains too many loopholes.

One major aim of the Lobby's initiative would be to nail down rules governing reports of voting in legislative committees. A recent joint Senate-House resolution on the subject is itself full of enough loopholes to undercut the very purpose it was ostensibly intended to serve.

All meetings of tax-supported bodies would be open to the public, under the Lobby's proposed petition, except for certain specified exceptions. This would cover meetings of boards, councils, etc., outside of Jefferson City.

Standing to benefit would be taxpayers in hundreds of cities and towns across the state, who from time to time see public business being conducted behind closed doors. The practice is not unknown in Sedalia.

The Citizen's Lobby has precious little time to get the signatures required for placement on the ballot in November. But since the Legislature has proved reluctant to tackle this problem head-on, an initiative may be the only recourse.

How a Politician Puts On His Pants

WASHINGTON — One of the biggest cliches of American politics is that politicians are no different from anybody else. "They put on their pants one leg at a time." Everyone has accepted this without question, and while I hate to destroy another myth I can now reveal after some very difficult research that politicians are different from other people, at least when it comes to putting on their pants.

Buchwald

The first clue I had to this was when I read a book about Lyndon Johnson and how he dressed when he was President. Mr. Johnson had two Secret Service men hold his pants as he sat on his bed, and he put both legs into them at the same time. This certainly made him different from the rest of us and I decided to pursue the subject of other political leaders.

President Nixon, for example, has his valet lay his pants on the bed, and then the valet leaves the room so the President can make his decision in private. He keeps a yellow legal pad by his bedside where he writes out all the alternatives. Will it be better to put his right leg into his pants first, or will it be better to put his left leg? What will be the political repercussions if Jack Anderson finds out how he puts his pants on? Will the electorate think less of him if he puts his pants on like everybody else? What would happen if he didn't put on his pants at all?

Occasionally he might ask Henry Kissinger's opinion or call up John Mitchell wondering how he should do it, but the final decision has to be Mr. Nixon's. It is probably the loneliest decision that any President of the United States has to make.

When it comes to putting on his pants, no one agonizes more about it than Sen. Edmund Muskie. Since he doesn't want to offend either the left or the right he usually sticks his foot into the center of his pants, this, of course, causes complications as it takes him over an hour to put them on and makes him late for his appointments all day long. Sometimes Sen. Muskie gets so angry when he tries to put on his pants that he is short-tempered all day long. His staff has been working on this and hopes to have a solution to the problem before the July convention.

Sen. George McGovern has a different problem. He has only one pair of pants and he has to be very careful when he puts them on so that he doesn't tear them. Before becoming a presidential candidate he always put on his shoes first. But when Frank Mankiewicz took over as campaign manager he persuaded McGovern to put on his pants first and then his shoes. This changed McGovern's image overnight and he has lost his serious demeanor, and seems much more relaxed as a candidate.

Gov. George Wallace, on the other hand, goes through three pairs of pants before he gets one on. What he does is jump out of bed in the morning and he is so excited to get going that he rips the pants as he is trying to get into them. His people have tried to persuade him to take it easier when he's getting dressed, but Wallace says, "Nobody, not the Supreme Court, nor those Eastern Establishment press lords nor those Washington bureaucrats are going to tell me how to put on my pants."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey had been identified with President Johnson's hard-line pants policy until late in the 1968 campaign, and many people feel this cost him the election. This year Humphrey no longer has to worry about Johnson and he has let it be known that when it comes to putting on his pants he's his own man. He has told audiences, "At least now when I put on my pants I no longer have my foot in my mouth."

Sen. Teddy Kennedy refused to say how he puts on his pants in the morning as he was afraid that people would think he was a candidate for the Presidency. But people close to him told me that if there was a deadlock in Miami at the Democratic convention, Kennedy would be willing to put on his pants and accept a draft.

Today's Thought

Never rise to speak till you have something to say; and when you have said it, cease. — John Witherspoon, educator.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Wyoming Territory passed a law granting woman suffrage in 1869. The World Almanac recalls that adult women in New Jersey could vote in general elections under a constitution adopted in 1776, provided they were "worth 50 Pounds Proclamation money, with clear estate in the same." In 1807, this provision was "reinterpreted" and voting was limited to free white male citizens.

Merry-Go-Round

Kleindienst Agony Goes On in Senate

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Richard Kleindienst has been sweating under the Senate spotlight while Senators review his qualifications to be Attorney General.

When he was the Justice Department's No. 2 man, he acted for ex-Attorney General John Mitchell in two gigantic anti-trust cases, because the Nixon-Mitchell law firm had represented International Telephone and Telegraph and Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical.

By his own sworn admission, Kleindienst "set in motion a series of events" which led the Justice Department to drop anti-trust suits against ITT just eight days after ITT pledged up to $400,000 to help finance the Republican convention. This story has been splashed across the nation's front pages.

Kleindienst also blocked the Justice Department from going to court to stop Warner-Lambert from merging with Parke, Davis and Company. The details of this case haven't been spelled out.

Elmer Bobst, the venerable old granddad of Warner-Lambert, was quoted at the Senate hearings as saying the company had gone through the White House to get the Justice Department's injunction called off.

Both Kleindienst and his former anti-trust chief, Richard McLaren, disavowed any knowledge of White House intervention. Disingenously, they kept mispronouncing Bobst's name as if they had never heard of the man.

Few names are better known in Nixon circles. It was Bobst who took Richard Nixon by the hand after his traumatic defeat for Governor of California in 1962.

They discussed Nixon's future aboard the yacht Alisa, Bobst's 98-foot status symbol. The old Warner-Lambert tycoon suggested banking and offered to arrange a top position for Nixon with the Wall Street investment banking house of Eastman Dillon Union Securities.

Nixon said Wall Street was all right, but pointed out he was still a lawyer. As it happened, Bobst knew a Wall Street law firm quite well. It was Mudge, Stern, Baldwin and Todd, which happened to represent Warner-Lambert.

Almost magically, Nixon was installed as senior partner.

Bobst has said he has always regarded the President as a son. Nixon maintains that he has looked upon Bobst as a father. Bobst and his wife Momdouah — Nixon and other friends call her Dodo — spend Christmases at the Nixon's home, wherever it happens to be.

After dinner, the family group — Dick, Pat, Elmer, Dodo, Ed, Tricia, David and Julie — gather around the piano. No one laughs when Nixon sits down to play, because he always rehearses. There are carols and, invariably, "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

In selecting a foster father, Nixon picked a veritable saint among the robber barons of the drug industry. Bobst steered his company clear of price fixing and other scandals that have characterized the industry.

He is, nevertheless, one of the industry's elder statesmen. And Nixon's subordinates in the White House and at the top levels of the Justice Department are keenly aware that the President wouldn't want them to take any action which might hurt Elmer.

The commander of the Texas National Guard recently outfitted one of his refueling planes with a stateroom for himself and his wife so they could fly off to Europe for a $25,000 spree at the taxpayers' expense.

He is Maj. Gen. Ross Ayers, a crusty, cantankerous politician-general, who commandeered a KC-97 flying tanker from the Air National Guard and ordered enlisted men to refurbish the big, bare plane to his wife's specifications.

Under Air Force regulations, the KC-97 isn't supposed to be altered so some brass hat can fly in style around Europe.

Ayers' official excuse for the trip was to attend military ceremonies in West Germany. But the general and his lady spent most of their time in France visiting their daughter.

A few months earlier, the two-star Texan had been caught for ferrying politicians and businessmen to Las Vegas in an Air National Guard plane. He also flew reporters to Williamsburg, Va., to cover the activities of Texas Governor Preston Smith at the governors' conference. Ayers and Smith are old college chums.

Ayers received an Air Force reprimand for the Las Vegas and Williamsburg capers. But the ink was hardly dry on the reprimand before he was sprucing up the KC-97 for his European junket.

Footnote: Criticized along with Ayers for the misuse of Air Force planes was his gruff, cigar-chomping chief of staff, Col. Walter Staudt, who hopefully but illegally sports brigadier general's stars on his shoulders. His name was removed from the promotion list after Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., protested over the Las Vegas and Williamsburg flights. In talks with my reporter Jeff Brindle, both Ayers and Staudt denied any impropriety. Ayers admitted he draped off a stateroom in the tanker but said it was all done as part of "Air National Guard business." Staudt claimed he wore his illegal stars only when he was dealing with Texas matters.

Health Hearings — Consumer-conscious Senators Philip Hart, D-Mich, and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass, will soon be leveling their guns on private health insurance companies. They have scheduled a series of investigative hearings for early this spring. The major question the senators will be asking the insurers is whether they pay hospital bills blindly without checking to see whether the service was of high quality and all charges justified.

"Do you think he'll be mad?"

The Butterfly

I thought 'twas a piece of paper,
Then I thought it was a big bird;
But a butterfly as immense as that
Would simply be absurd,
And yet it seem to have butterfly wings
As it flew high in the air;
Then I saw some little boys
Watching it over there,
One of them had a ball of string,
The butterfly fluttered high
Then down to the ground it came
And just refused to fly;
The other boys now had gone on
But two little boys still there
Tried and tried to get it up
To sail once again in the air,
At last they gave up and took the kite
On home for awhile and then
I saw them in the afternoon
Flying their kite again,
Of all the modern things kids have
To play with—still there's delight
In going out on a breezy day
And simply flying a kite;
A kite—who invented this spring-time fun?
Who and where and when?
A kite and key brought the light-ning down—
There were kites long before Ben,
Inventions are up in the billions
But few have given the joys
For—how many centuries?
In springtime to little boys,
Kites of paper and wood and paste
That from a string would fly,
Now, of plastic, I believe,
Sailing up there in the sky,
Almost touching the clouds, it seems,
Higher and higher and higher,
Unless they get caught in a nearby tree
Or twisted up in a wire,
Flying a kite is a sign of spring
Even on a cold day
Whenever you see boys flying kites
Spring can't be too far away.

Voters Express Opinions

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — Daniel Webster, orator and statesman, might have added to his famous Dartmouth College speech and said, "New Hampshire is a small state but there are those who love her."

Until March 7 all the presidential candidates and their speech-making friends loved her — but it was the voters of New Hampshire's prerogative to decide whom they loved. They did, and the winners moved on to the next battle and left the homeland to the Graniteers.

Interest in the China trip is beginning to wane. Six seasoned reporters invited to accompany the President called it exhausting and bereft of news. The pen pushers admitted that they didn't have a chance with that other picture-taking media. The friendly interpreters gave no information except what Chou ordered.

It wasn't the Chinese who snubbed Secretary of State William Rogers. The President needed his adviser Henry Kissinger more than he needed his Secretary and friend.

Who will be the leaders in the Senate when the two oriental scholars take off for their China visit? Both Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Hugh Scott (R-Penna.) are delighted with Chou's invitation and admit their wives will be of great help in China when they take the trip.

Of course Senator William Fulbright might run the Senate during the absence of the two leaders, since his foreign policies did not rate an invitation.

It won't be long before the Russian cossack blouse and baggy pants will replace the mandrain collar and the satin trousers as fashion displays in the store windows. We will be tasting borsch and caviar instead of chop suey and egg roll. The color, however, will still be red but more crimson than vermillion.

Even with the President away on foreign policy missions, and the Congress deflated by absenteeism, the candidates who have not dropped out will make news. Why do so many seek the White House? Experience shows that the chosen one no sooner gets there than he leaves it as often as possible for a less lonely place.

There are now three different health bills being considered on Capitol Hill — the President's, Senator Edward Kennedy's (D-Mass.), and Congressman Mills' (D-Ark.) All of them smack of what the doctors consider socialized medicine. In the meantime a person doesn't dare get sick at night or on a weekend. If he does get to the doctor's office or land in the hospital, he can't get well because he worries about the bill. If he has health insurance, he is a wreck by the time he fills out all the forms.

According to the National Council on Immigration Service locals, there are at least 2,000,000 illegal aliens working in this country and sending about $2 billion abroad each year. They pay no income tax. Some are involved in organized crime and narcotics. Yet little action is taken by the government against them.

Medieval Flair Remains in Exotic Persian Entertaining

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

BAHRAIN, Persian Gulf (AP) — The ruling sheikhs of Araby have an exotic flair for palace entertaining.

There is an air of desert democracy mixed with a certain noblesse oblige about the "majlis," the formal Arab court session in which the ruler sits on his throne, usually on a Friday night, and makes himself available to the entire populace in an open-ended session that frequently lasts until dawn.

Sheikh Zayed of Abu Dhabi, the richest ruler in the world, received us in the courtyard of his summer palace in the Buraimi oasis under a winter sky pleasingly pinked with the glow of oil wells pumping nearly $400 million a year into the royal treasury. His Majesty sat barefooted against a white washed wall digesting large chunks of roast goat fetched to the royal presence in washtubs on the heads of Somali servants. A visiting Pakistani poet and philosopher was reciting endlessly from his own works, while the royal falcons snoozed peacefully under their hoods on the gauntleted wrists of the royal falconers.

Arrayed Indian fashion on the Persian rugs at His Highness' feet were an Iranian banker, an American hotelier, a British foreign office type and several Bedouin chiefs trying to get the royal ear.

In between more tubs of steaming goat and platters piled high with fresh fruit and Arab pastry, cousins by the dozens came to pay their respects, along with an Egyptian judge serving on the high court, several Jordanian school masters, some Japanese oil men bowing ceremoniously, a delegation of cameleers just arrived with a date caravan from Oman and a number of tall aquiline-nosed village elders with beards dyed black against the ravages of time.

Only Westerners and nonbelievers wore business suits. The rest wore their Friday best, flowing desert robes and head scarfs trimmed in gold and worn over silver sandals. For the believers there was the Moslem ritual of greeting the ruler by gripping elbows and gently rubbing each side of the nose against his, like cross-eyed Eskimos a little off the target.

In the court at Bahrain, a neighboring oil sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, the Friday majlis was even more majestic in medieval pomp and splendor.

Bahrain ranks eight places below Abu Dhabi among Middle East oil producers, but it got a 20-year head start in the royal art of spending oil revenues, now running about $38 million a year.

The amir, Sheikh Isa bin Sulman Al-Khalifa, sat before a coffee table on an overstuffed, neon-lighted divan flanked by incense-burning urns in a reception hall the size of a football field lined on all walls with upholstered straight-backed chairs for the court visitors. Over fields of Persian carpets, the royal coffee bearers advanced and retreated with their beak-nosed brass coffee pots, pouring out the tangy "herisa," herb coffee, with a waterfall flourish that accurately splashed the liquid into the tiny cups at a distance of several feet from the spout without spilling a drop.

The court attendants, who ushered suppliants up to the neon-lit divan, wore curved jeweled daggers in gold or silver at their waists. The household guards, at the door, wore fixed bayonets. His Majesty had a silver automatic pistol on his coffee table, which turned out to be a lighter for the cigarettes that he chain-smoked throughout the audience.

From the British nabobs who taught them the rudiments of ruling in the days when the sheikhdoms were known as the Trucial States and the whole Persian Gulf was called the Pirate coast, the reigning sheikhs and amirs and sultans have acquired a penchant for hideous overstuffed furniture, outlandish floor lamps and ornate chandeliers that must have been high camp even toward the end of Victoria's reign.

Their colonial overseers also taught them the trick of mellowing the royal presence with a common touch, which in the court life of modern Araby is often carried to bizarre extremes. Sheikh Rachid of Dubai was recently in deep consultation with the departing British political agent when a nomad subject, just in from the desert, burst in to beg a loan of one riyal—two cents—to cross the creek on the little rowboat ferry. The ruler reached into his robes, coughed up one riyal and returned an attentive ear to the queen's business.

Sheikh Rasked bin Ahmad of Umm Al Qaiwain likes to sit outside his palace on a rickety wooden bench on Friday night, picking his feet and listening to the woes and requests of his subjects. Usually it is a fisherman asking for a royal loan to finance a new diesel engine or a pilgrim trying to get to Mecca.

Sheikh Khalid bin Mohammad of Sarjah received us in his blue and white palace less than a month before he was executed in an upstairs bedroom by his cousin, whom he had replaced on the throne. The cousin's comeback coup failed, due to the quick arrival of troops from the Abu Dhabi defense force, and the Sharjah throne has since passed to Sheikh Khalid's youngest brother.

For all the democratic trappings, an Arabian court is still a man's world. Women are seldom seen, even as servants, in the reception halls. But the harem rooms are never far away, even if women's lib is.

From time to time, the desert sheikhs tire of their sports cars, royal yachts and the varicolored telephones on their coffee tables and revert to the desert. They pitch the royal tent in the sandy nothingness of the Rub' al Khali, Arabic for "The Empty Quarter," and contemplate the same desert stars that looked down on their ancestors or go off riding over the dunes on a proud Arabian steed from the royal stud or hunting for the desert gazelle or the rare white oryx.

The sport of falconing, with the lesser bustard as the hapless prey of the unhooded hawks, represents a strong sheikhly tie with the Bedouin past. Now that bustards are becoming rarer along the desert coast, some sheikhs fly off to Pakistan in the palace aircraft with whole retinues of royal falcons, handlers, servants, slaves and guests.

The falcons are among the most expensive and most pampered residents in the royal court. The ruling family in Qatar, which has more than 100 falcons in the royal aviary, recently paid $30,000 for a prize hawk. The royal falconer, a high man on the court totem pole, seldom is seen, even at meals, without the royal bird perched on his left wrist.

For the sheikhs, owning and living in a palace, several of them preferably, is a prestige item, meant to impress the populace more than the visitors, an edifice of local pride like a medieval cathedral or a Norman castle. Qatar, where the ruling Al Thani family is overrun with relatives, boasts some 700 sheikhly palaces, including a suburb to the capital at Doha called Rayan that consists of nothing but palaces, old and new. In addition, Sheikh Ahmad Bin Ali, the ruler, maintains palaces, at Beirut, Geneva and Damascus.

Qatar, a conservative, strict Moslem state, has been less slapdash than Abu Dhabi about modernizing its cities, especially the lovely capital at Doha. Persian architects have been brought in to build turquoise mosques and clock towers, along with the latest thing in palaces, from oil revenues now approaching $200 million a year.

Arab socialism has found no foothold among the oil-blessed sheikhdoms. But with the Communists exporting revolution from Southern Yemen, further down the peninsula, the paternalistic rulers are engaged in almost competitive benevolence. Elaborate welfare systems in education, health services and public housing are conducted for native-born subjects and, to a much lesser extent, for immigrants flocking in to take the jobs created by the new wealth.

German sports cars and sleek power boats are replacing Cadillacs and diamond watches as palace status symbols. The crown prince of Abu Dhabi has become a boating enthusiast, ignoring a Rolls Royce in the royal garage with less than 500 miles on the speedometer.

The appointments of the various royal court vary with the fortunes of the ruling sheikh or with the size of the pool of oil his throne rests upon.

Sheikh Mohammed bin Hamad of Al Fujairah, waiting for a new palace to be built without benefit of oil royalties, received us in a second floor reception hall up over a feed store decorated with the usual overstuffed divans and upholstered chairs. Only the chandeliers were plastic, and instead of a royal falcon perched on the arm of the royal falconer there was a large photograph of a noble hawk. His majesty waved a pistol about to call forth the royal coffee bearers, who poured from thermos jugs instead of brass urns. The guards at the door wore half uniforms of frayed jackets over dusty cloth skirts set off by bandoliers or bullets. The royal retainers kept up the pretense of better days with outsized curved jeweled knives.

The question was asked if the knives were curved so menacingly to better disembowel one's enemies.

"No," answered the sheikh's son and heir apparent with precise English learned in college at Bournemouth. "To keep from hurting yourself when you sit down."

Pomp and Splendor

Sheikh Isa bin Sulman Al-Khalifa, ruler of Bahrain, leaves the reception hall of his palace after holding an audience in medieval pomp and splendor. Dazzling the eyes of a respectful throng of subjects and suitors, the enormous chamber has fields of Persian carpet, walls of gold damask, elaborate crystal chandeliers and a neon-lit divan for His Majesty. (AP)

Indices of Status

The Wali of Nizwa holds court sitting against a satin pillow, holding a camel stick, a loaded submachine gun on the wall over his head. Wali Hilal bin Sultan is a sort of mayor of Nizwa, a medieval town of some 17,000 inhabitants in Oman on the Persian Gulf. He isn't a top rank sheikh. He does have palace: it doesn't have electricity. Most of his subjects carry a rifle as part of national dress: so the Wali is one up with his automatic weapon. (AP)

Steska Murder Case Will Go To Jury

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Circuit attorney Brendan Ryan has changed his mind and says he will now take the Edward Steska murder case to the circuit court grand jury.

Ryan said earlier he would not present the case. But after further talks with police, concerning their problems in the investigation, Ryan said Friday he would submit the case to the jury.

Steska, head of Pipefitters Union Local 562, was shot to death in his office Feb. 24. Police said union officials and others have declined to answer further questions about the killing.

Opening lead—♦ 4

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South thought for a long while before passing his partner's four-heart bid. It was a talkative rubber bridge game and when North put down the dummy he remarked "Sure wish you had bid on."

West got off to the rather unfortunate lead of the four of diamonds and South's queen picked up East's jack.

At this point South had a rather simple way to play the hand. He was looking at dummy's nice six-card club suit and should have promptly put the jack of clubs on the table. After that start he would have had no trouble making 11 or 12 tricks. But South was so busy thinking about the slam that might have been that he proceeded to find a way to get himself set at four.

He started operation "Chuck the rubber" by cashing his ace of diamonds in order to get rid of one of dummy's spades. Then he led a trump to dummy's ace and a second trump back to his 10 for a losing finesse.

West took the queen and led a third heart won by South.

South finally got around to playing his jack of clubs but East let the jack hold.

Now that nice club suit in dummy was about worthless.

South did ruff his last diamond in dummy and led the king of clubs. East plunked on the ace and South ruffed with his last trump.

Then South played ace and a small spade. East won with the 10 and if East had saved all his diamonds, South would have lost the rest of the tricks. But East had thrown a diamond on the third trump lead so East had to give dummy a club trick at the end but South was still down one.

Most Teams at Hutchinson Top 20-Ranked

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Ten of the 16 teams that remain alive in the National Junior College Athletic Association's finals in Hutchinson, Kan. are ranked in the top 20.

Heading the list are the top three teams in the NJCAA's current poll: Vincennes University Junior College, Vincennes, Ind.; Dalton Junior College, Dalton, Ga.; and Arizona Western Junior College, Yuma, Ariz.

Other ranked teams that will begin play in Tuesday's and Wednesday's opening round are Seminole (Okla.), sixth; College of Southern Idaho, seventh; Ferrum (Va.), ninth; Paducah (Ky.), tenth; Casper (Wyo.), 11th; Hutchinson (Kan.), 15th and Gulf Coast (Fla.), 19th.

And then there is State Fair Community College of Sedalia, representing Region XVI.

Unranked and taking the poorest record of all those entered the national finals, the Roadrunners will be trying to continue their upset ways.

"We are playing at our peak right now," says SFCC coach Bill Barton, who was picked Saturday as the coach of the year in Region XVI. "We peaked just at the right time...when we entered regional play."

The road ahead for the Roadrunners can't get anything but rougher, but Barton feels that one thing is in his team's favor. "There are some teams that we will see out there (Hutchinson) that have not played the level of competition that we have. I don't know where you could find better balance anywhere than we have right here in Missouri. You're not going to find many teams tougher than Moberly, Crowder, Three Rivers, Mineral Area, Missouri-Baptist, etc. anywhere in the nation. This is one thing that we will have in our favor. The tougher schedule has made us think tougher..we have not had trouble getting the kids up for anyone," he concluded.

Two of the entries in the national finals will be taking unblemished marks into Hutchinson: top-ranked Vincennes (29-0) and number three-ranked Dalton (34-0).

"I realize that we have the poorest record of anyone in the national playoffs at 22-13, but look at our schedule. We got off to a rough start, but have really been playing well lately. There is nothing like the taste of victory," says Barton, "and we are hungry for that taste."

The Roadrunners' record reflects the marked improvement that they have shown since early season. After falling below the .500 mark, 3-7, they have posted a 17-6 mark since the Christmas break. Currently, they are riding atop a six-game winning streak. And in that streak, they have defeated Moberly, Crowder and Meramec in back-to-back tilts.

"We may be going out there as a clear-cut underdog, but I'm not about to underestimate our chances because of our recent play...it's been simply great," added Barton, who was named Saturday as the Coach of the Year in Region XVI.

The Roadrunners concentrated on two areas in their Friday and Saturday practice sessions, slowing down the fast break and defense.

"Most of the teams out there will run, and if we can slow down their game plans, we will have a good chance to get into the winners' bracket," Barton said during his remarks to the squad prior to practice.

"We also will have to rely heavily on our defense," he added. "We have been playing good defense lately, but it will have to be better than good defensively in our games in Hutchinson."

The Roadrunners opening-round opponent in the Tuesday (noon) contest will be Casper College of Casper, Wyo. They are ranked 11th nationally and finished fifth last year in the 1971 NJCAA national tourney.

Returning from that squad are Larry Crowe (6-0), Don Bowen (5-11), Ken Clark (6-7), Ralph Kramer (6-2), Marlon Mangus (6-0), Dean Walker (6-4) and Don Doyle (6-4).

Sporting a 25-4 record, the Thunderbirds rolled over Trinidad, Colo., 104-70, in gaining the Region IX berth in the national championship playoffs.

"They are coached by Swede Ericson, who has probably more experience in the JuCo ranks than all of the junior college coaches in our entire region," Barton commented. "He has been there a long time."

But Barton contends that the level of competition in Region IX is not on the same plane as it is here. I realize that Trinidad is not the strongest team in the world, but we cannot let this be a factor in our game with Casper. We are still going to have to play up to the way we have lately if we expect to win.

Barton will probably use the same starting lineup in Tuesday's contest that he found success with in the regionals. Brent Yates and Kevin Arand will be in back court; Clarence Hampton at center, with Jim Lassiter and Myles Yates on the front line.

If State Fair wins their opening game Tuesday, they will advance to the winners' bracket and take on the winner of the Dalton-Gulf Coast contest, Wednesday at 7:45 p.m.

However, should the Roadrunners drop their opening tilt, they will move into the consolation bracket and face the loser of the Dalton-Gulf Coast game, Wednesday at 6 p.m.

The team is scheduled to leave Sunday morning for Hutchinson.

Chuck Lawrence, executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, informed the Democrat-Capital's sports department Saturday that the bus to Hutchinson, being sponsored by the Chamber and SFCC, had been filled.

Nearly 50 fans will board the bus Tuesday at 3:30 a.m. for the trip to Hutchinson. At the present time, Lawrence noted, there are no future plans for another bus.

First-Round Pairings

Tuesday — State Fair Community College, Sedalia, Mo. (22-13) vs. Casper College, Casper, Wyo. (25-4), noon; Dalton Junior College, Dalton, Ga. MU Ends With Win

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri struggled through a sluggish first half then put on a couple of scoring bursts in the final 15 minutes to conquer Oklahoma, 76-62, Saturday in the season's final Big Eight basketball game for both teams.

The victory enabled the NIT-bound Tigers to clinch second place in the conference with a 10-4 record and conclude their season with a 21-5 mark overall. The Sooners wound up third in the league at 9-5 and 14-12.

Senior guard Mike Griffin stole the ball twice and pumped in all three of his baskets in a three-minute stretch in which Missouri tallied 11 consecutive points for a 49-39 lead.

Pettes emerged as the losers' top scorer with 16 points.

Neither team was able to put together more than a four-point lead before the intermission. A collapsing Oklahoma defense kept the ball away from John Brown, Missouri's 6-foot-7 scoring ace, enough to limit Brown to only 7 points in the first 20 minutes. He finished with 17.

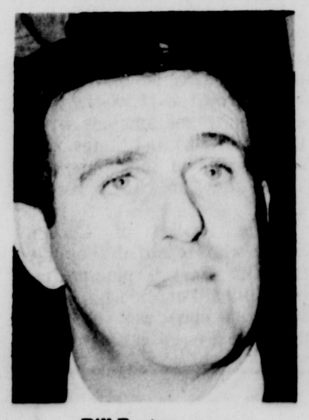
Barton, Lassiter Get Region Honors



Bill Barton...
...Coach of Year

Jim Lassiter...
...Top Vote-Getter

Bill Barton, in his second year as the head coach of the State Fair Community College Roadrunners, was named Saturday as the Coach of the Year in Region XVI (state).

In addition, Jim Lassiter, a 6-3 freshman from Freedom, Pa., became the first Roadrunner player ever to be named on the All-Region XVI Team. Lassiter, who has shattered every SFCC scoring record in his first year of junior college competition led all vote-getters in the balloting with 40 votes.

Barton edged Meramec Community College coach Jack Mimlitz and Forest Park College coach Bob Nelson by one vote, 4-3; likewise, Lassiter's 40 votes were only one more than Mineral Area College's Larry Jenkins, who received 39.

Three Rivers Junior College coach Gene Bess received two votes in the Coach of the Year voting.

Joining Lassiter and Jenkins on the All-Region XVI Team were Jim Blanks and Lloyd Walton of Moberly; Robert Walker of Mineral Area; Ray Addison of Crowder; David Byrd, Missouri-Baptist; Penn Valley's Melvin Harvey; Henry Drews of Forest Park and Larry Lawrence of Three Rivers.

Florida Open Tied Up

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Heard came from four strokes off the pace Saturday with a scrambling 70 and tied faltering Chris Blocker for the third-round lead in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

The husky, hard-hitting Blocker, who held a four-stroke lead starting play on the cool and cloudy day, could manage only a 74 and was tied with Heard with a three-round total of 207.

Lee Trevino bolted into contention with a 69—three under par on the 6,877-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course—and was just one stroke away at 208.

Jimmy Jamieson, one of the first to get away, used a brand new putter to bolt out of the pack with a stunning 63, nine under par and matching the course record set just the day before.

He was alone at 209.

Sam Adams, a rookie left-hander, and Leonard Thompson, each with a 67, were at 210, leaving six players within three strokes of each other going into the final 18 holes.

Sam Snead, the 59-year-old marvel of another golfing age, had a shot at the whole thing until he finished bogey-bogey for a 73 and 212.

Australian rookie David Graham, the man who set the course standard with his 63 in Friday's second round, knocked himself out of it with a fat 41 on the front side. He finished with a 75—213.

Jack Nicklaus had a 70 for 212, four strokes off the pace. Gary Player of South Africa took a 71—215. Arnold Palmer missed the cut for the final two rounds when he had a 75 in Friday's play.

"It was an up and down round," said the 24-year-old Heard, one of the young lions moving into a dominant position on the tour.

"I hate to say it, but I was hitting the ball from tee to green just awful. But I let a tournament get away from me a few weeks ago when I was hitting it as good as I can and wasn't scoring.

He had a couple of three-putts, hit a root one time, made birdie from a bunker and generally scrambled through the 14 holes and was level with par with three birds and as many bogeys.

Mets Down Cards In Exhibition Play

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tommie Agee's two-run single highlighted a five-run fifth inning that carried the New York Mets to a 7-2 victory over St. Louis Saturday in the Cardinals' exhibition baseball opener.

The Mets, now 4-2 in spring games, fashioned their big inning against veteran Jim Maloney, attempting a comeback after arm injuries.

Dave Marshall and Ed Kranepool singled to start the uprising and Tim Foli was hit by a pitch, filling the bases. Maloney retired the next two batters, but walked Bud Harrelson and Wayne Garrett, forcing in two runs. Then Agee delivered his key hit and Cleon Jones completed the burst with a run-scoring single.

S-C Thinclads Take Opener

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SPRINGFIELD — The testing ground employed here Friday by the Smith-Cotton track team indicated the Bengals should have a good season, according to head track coach Larry York.

Participating against 17 schools in the third Southwest Missouri State College Indoor Qualifying Meet, the S-C thinclads walked off with top honors. The meet was according to indoor specifications although held outdoors.

Cashing in with four firsts, a second and a pair third place finishes, the Tigers amassed 36 points. Springfield Glendale ran a distant second with 25 while Springfield Hillcrest had 21 for third place in the meet.

The finals for which York's squad qualified must be bypassed, however, since Smith-Cotton's own Central Missouri Conference Indoor Meet is set for the same day, this Saturday.

Short his best pole vaulter, Pat Curry, due to strep throat, York also had to contend with two athletes not fully recovered from injuries. The track mentor said he was generally pleased with his team's performance, however.

Along with winning the mile run competition, S-C's standout distance man C. E. Baldwin turned in a "personal best" in the event. Baldwin, a junior, ran the course in 4:36.4 for his career's finest showing. Teammate David Moore was only seconds behind at 4:39.3 for third, also putting out his very best time ever.

Steve Cable pulled ahead in the last leg of the 880-yard run for a first place finish in that event. Cable clocked in at 2:04.7.

In both the mile and the 880, S-C entries earned their coach's praise for running smart races. All three ran most of the races in eighth or ninth positions, allowing the leader to gain as much as 40 yards.

The Tigers also produced a strong showing in the long jump as Rick Carter and Jack Cook took first and third, respectively. Carter recorded a 20'8½" leap while Cook's measured 20'5¼". The twosome's showing prompted York to describe them as "really comin' on."

The other first place finish credited to S-C's total was contributed by Aaron Hart in the shot put. Hart's 53'¼" toss was almost two feet better than his nearest competitor's effort.

The team made up of Rick Ream, C. E. Baldwin, Jim Hausam and Rick Bellmer set a new S-C indoor record in the mile relay, 3:33.6, good enough for second in the event. The breakdown was as follows: Ream 53.7, Baldwin 53.9, Hausam 54.0, Bellmer 52.0.

Two other Bengal thinclads also placed in their events — Tom Bloess in the 65 yard low hurdles and Randy Taylor in the pole vault. Both took fifths as Taylor vaulted 10'6" and Bloess ran the barriers in 7.9.

Also participating in Friday's competition for S-C were Jack Cook and Darrell Byrd in the 60 yard dash; Fred Washington and Bloess in the 60 yard low hurdles; Robert Mayes in the 880 yard run; Jim Blaine in the 65 yard low hurdles; Ken McDowell in the shot put; and Fred Knight and Dudley Lehmer in the high jump. Lehmer, a sophomore, also had the distinction of turning in a career best at a height of 5'9".

S-C's 880 relay team was made up of Bellmer, Cook, David Knott and Blaine.

Crown On Line

Central States title holder Danny Little Bear will put his belt on the line Tuesday evening at Convention Hall. Putting forth the challenge is Chati Yokuchi.

In other matches, Black Angus will face Omar Atlass, Steve Bolas will try Yasu Fuji and the Viking will take on Black Jack Black in the 8:15 p.m. opener.

Field For NIT Now Complete

NEW YORK (AP) — The 16-team field for the National Invitation Tournament was completed Saturday night with the addition of Maryland and Virginia from the Atlantic Coast Conference and Memphis State from the Missouri Valley.

Virginia was beaten by Maryland Friday night in the ACC semifinals and Maryland in turn lost to North Carolina in the finals Saturday night. Memphis State dropped a playoff against Louisville for the MVC title.

The NIT also announced its first-round pairings. The Madison Square Garden tournament begins Friday night, March 17 with Virginia opposing Lafayette and Fordham facing Jacksonville.

The next afternoon it's Davidson-Syracuse and St. Joseph's-Maryland with an evening doubleheader pairing Oral Roberts against Memphis State and St. John's against Missouri.

The opening round will be completed Sunday afternoon with Princeton against Indiana and Texas-El Paso against Niagara.

The quarter-finals are set for March 20 and 21, the semifinals March 23 and the championship game the afternoon of March 25.

Driving a Chevy

Allison Favored In Carolina 500

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Allison, hoping to give Chevrolet its first 500 mile victory since 1963, is the overwhelming favorite in Sunday's $103,000 Carolina 500 Grand National stock car race.

Allison, who won 11 races last year including eight major ones, switched to Junior Johnson's Chevy when his 1971 Mercury owned by Ralph Moody was dropped from competition. He has been a strong contender since the season opener Jan. 23.

The oldest of two driving brothers from Hueytown, Ala., qualified the Coca Cola Chevrolet at 137.590 miles per hour. It was more than three miles faster than his front row mate Richard Petty—and he appeared to have solved the deeply banked turns of the North Carolina Motor Speedway. The oval measures 1.017 miles around.

Petty appeared to be pole-sitter Allison's strongest challenger. Petty, stock car racing's first $1 million career winner, looking for his 143rd triumph in the elite division of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) qualified his STP Plymouth at 134.452 mph.

Dodge drivers Bobby Isaac, who posted 134.176, and Buddy Baker, at 133.921 mph, earned the second row spots. Lining up behind these two will be Benny Parsons, who owns the only strong Mercury in the field and old pro Buck Baker in a Chevrolet.

By A Single Point

Southern Cal Wins NCAA Indoor

DETROIT (AP) — Southern California's Trojans scored only three points in Saturday's closing 10-event program, but still captured the eighth NCAA Indoor Track Championship by the margin of one point over Michigan State and Bowling Green.

Although Southern California won only two events, Friday's long jump and shot put, the Trojans managed to stave off fast-finishing Michigan State, the Big Ten champion' and Bowling Green, the only school to win three individual events in the two-day meet.

Michigan State's Spartans' after a scoreless Friday, produced Saturday champions in 60-yard dash star Herb Washington and miler Ken Popejoy.

Dethroned champion Villanova finished fourth with 13 points after failing to win a single event. Kent State shared fifth with Nebraska with 10 points. In all, 52 schools broke into the point column.

The two-day meet in Cobo Arena produced four new NCAA records in the 16 events, with two coming Saturday before a crowd of 9,807, in the pole vault and high jump.

The margin of Southern Cal's victory turned out to be fourth and fifth-place finishes by Lance Babb and Jerry Wilson in the 60-yard hurdles opening the Saturday program. It was Southern California's second NCAA title. The Trojans won the 1967 meet with 26 points.

In the pole vault, the five-year-old meet record of 17-¼ by Bob Seagren of Southern Calkfornia was topped by three vaulters' all of whom cleared 17-1¼. The victory went to Alabama's Jan Johnson on the basis of fewest misses, with second place shared by Mike Wedman of Colorado and dethroned champion Scott Wallick of Miami, Ohio.

As the closing 10 event program opened before a one-day record crowd of 9,807 at Cobo Arena, Southern Cal's Trojans built their halfway lead to 19 points as Lance Dabb and Jerry Wilson placed fourth and fifth in the 60-yard high hurdle won by Notre Dame's Tom McMannon.

In a photo finish, all five place winners in the 60-hurdles were credited with the identical time of 7.2.

Michigan State, the Big Ten champion, started a belated title bid when world record holding Herb Washington led from start to finish to capture the 60-yard dash in 6.1. The time was well off Washington's NCAA record of 5.9 and his recent world mark of 5.8.

A new NCAA pole vault record was in the making when Mike Wedman of Colorado and Jan Johnson of Alabama led the finalists by clearing 17-1 on their first try at that height.

Ray-South Pitted In Title Contest

BULLETIN

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Raytown South Cardinals took it all the way here Saturday night, defeating Kirkwood, 52-48, to win the Missouri Class L High School basketball championship.

In earlier action, St. Louis Sumner topped Carthage 82-72 for third place.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kirkwood used a full court press to force Carthage into 24 turnovers and rode into the championship game of the Missouri Class L state high school basketball tournament Friday night with a 73-66 victory over Carthage.

Carthage held a 19-14 lead at the end of the first quarter but Kirkwood outscored the Tigers 21-9 in the following period and never trailed again.

Bill Moulder led a balanced Kirkwood attack with 18 points, and 6-6 Drew Rogers, who was held to six points in the first half by Carthage's Lewis Busch, finished with 16. Rogers was also the big man on the board for the Pioneers with 13 rebounds, but Carthage 6-8 center Barry Duncan surpassed him in that department with 17.

Kirkwood, now 31-0, was to meet Raytown South, a 95-75 winner over St. Louis Sumner in the first game Friday, in the Class L championship game Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

Carthage, 25-3, met St. Louis Sumner at 4 p.m. Saturday for third place.

K-State Uses Overtime To Top Huskers

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Two clutch free throws by sophomore Lon Kruger with 15 seconds left helped Kansas State, the Big Eight Conference basketball champion, to an 81-76 overtime victory over Nebraska Saturday night.

Kruger made the score 79-76 and Larry Williams, another sophomore, finished the Cornhuskers off by downing two more free throws with one second remaining.

Brendy Lee's two free throws with 25 seconds left in regulation play gave Nebraska the 69-69 tie that forced the overtime after K-State had blown a five-point lead in the last 10 minutes.

Chuck Jura led Nebraska with 22 points and David Hall topped the Wildcats with 16. Hall also pulled down 11 second-half rebounds as K-State recovered from a 34-33 halftime deficit.

The game closed the regular season for both teams. K-State, 12-2 in the Big Eight and 18-8 over-all, will represent the league in the NCAA Midwest Regional at Ames, Iowa, next week. Nebraska finished at 7-7 and 14-12.

Ed Stoll fired 41 points in Raytown's victory over Sumner.

Stoll, a 6-5 senior, hit 11 field goals in 19 tries and 19 or 20 free throws in the Cardinals' 23rd victory in 28 games.

Raytown South hit a sizzling 52 per cent from the field and 88 per cent from the foul lines, with 37 or 42 free tosses, but Sumner had the edge in rebounding 36-28.

Sumner with a won-lost record of 18-10, got 27 points from Pierre Blaine, a 6-2 junior. Gaylord Arstead added 19 for the St. Louis team.

Cardinals Join Threat of Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Player members of the St. Louis Cardinals joined Saturday in a strike threat aimed at forcing major league baseball club owners to pay more into the player pension plan.

Shortstop Dal Maxvill, the Red Birds' player representative, said the players voted 35-0 to authorize a strike call. He said only members of the Major League Baseball Players Association were allowed to vote.

The vote was taken after a closed meeting with Marvin Miller, executive secretary of the players association. Miller is visiting all the clubs to drum up support for an improved pension agreement to replace the one expiring March 31.

Owners now pay $5,450,000 a year into the pension plan and have offered to increase their contributions $350,000 a year.

Miller estimates about $7 million a year will be needed to offset increased costs of fringe benefits.

Miller also visited the New York Mets, who voted 26-0 to support the plan negotiations.

Into Semifinals

Marquette, Fla-St. Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Seventh-ranked Marquette outclassed Ohio University 73-49 and Florida State nipped Eastern Kentucky 83-81 Saturday to advance to the semifinals of the NCAA Mid-East basketball playoffs.

Marquette, now 25-2, advanced to the NCAA Mideast semifinals at Dayton, Ohio, where the Warriors will meet Kentucky, co-champion of the Southeastern Conference, March 16.

Florida State, now 24-5, will play Big Ten titlist Minnesota.

Scoring a sizzling 68 per cent of its first half floor shots, Marquette settled the issue in the opening 10 minutes of the game when the Warriors jumped to a 21-10 lead.

The hapless Ohio Bobcats, Mid-American Conference champions, went five and-a-half minutes at one stretch of the first half without scoring. During this period, Marquette stretched its lead from 15-10 to 23-10 and for all practical purposes settled the issue.

Larry McNeill led Marquette with 22 points, followed by Bob Lackey with 20. George Frazier got 15 for the Warriors.

A three-point play by Ronnie King with the score tied 79-all and 1:37 left gave Florida State, ranked No. 14, its triumph over Eastern Kentucky, the Ohio Valley Conference champion.

Dan Argabright scored on a layup to close the margin to 82-81 with 1:25 left. Then Eastern Kentucky's Daryl Dunagan, with 20 seconds left, missed a pair of foul shots that could have put his team ahead.

King, fouled by Argabright, made good the charity toss with six seconds remaining for his team's two-point victory margin.

Long Beach State Tops BYU, 95-90

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Long Beach State came from behind to beat Brigham Young 95-90 in overtime and Bob Davis scored 32 points to lead underdog Weber State to a 91-64 victory over Hawaii Saturday in the NCAA Far West college basketball playoffs.

Weber State, 18-9, will play top-ranked UCLA next weekend in the regionals at Provo, Utah, while fifth-ranked Long Beach State will meet San Francisco.

Two free throws apiece by Chuck Terry and Lamont King in the final 17 seconds gave Long Beach State its victory over Brigham Young. The 49ers are now 24-3.

Long Beach, which trailed 49-39 at the half and by as many as 13 early in the second half, sent the game into overtime at 79-all on Glenn McDonald's 15-foot jumper with 39 seconds left in regulation play.

BYU's Doug Richards, who finished with 24 points, hit seven of BYU's 11 overtime points and his heroics shot the Cougars into a three-point lead early in the extra period.

Ed Ratleff paced the 49ers with 21 points. Eric McWilliams, who sparked a 49er second-half rally before fouling out, scored 16, as did King.

K.C. Plays Final Intrasquad Game

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Joe Keough scored one run and batted in another Saturday as Coach George Strickland's club defeated one managed by Coach Harry Dunlop, 2-0, in the Kansas City Royals' final intrasquad game of the season.

The loss gave the Stricklands a sweep. Dunlop's squad failed to score in the series.

Kansas City, last major league baseball team to get into its exhibition schedule, plays the Chicago White Sox here Sunday.

Lefthander Paul Splittorff gave up only one hit.

Only batter to get more than one safety was Dan Haynes, rookie first baseman who had two singles.

Cyclones Win NCAA Wrestling

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Iowa State won three individual titles and romped to its third NCAA championship in four years Saturday night by 30½ points over Michigan State.

Four competitors defended their 1971 championships, including two of the Cyclones — Carl Adams at 168 pounds and Ben Peterson at 190.

Heavyweight Chris Taylor, Iowa State's 408-pounder making his first appearance in the NCAA, dethroned defending champ Greg Mojciechowski of Toledo by a 6-1 margin.

Other champions who defended successfully were Greg Johnson of Michigan State at 118, who became the 23rd three-time title holder in history, and Andy Matter of Penn State at 167.

Iowa State finished with 103 points to 72½ for runner-up Michigan State, which also garnered three individual title.

Defending champion Oklahoma State, trying for its 28th NCAA title, finished third with 57 points, followed by Washington at 54 and Oklahoma with 45½.

Little Clarion State of Pennsylvania, which sent only two wrestlers to the tournament and wound up with two individual titles, became the favorite of the crowd of 12,300-the largest ever to see amateur wrestling in the United States. The six sessions of the championships drew an NCAA record 42,500.

Wade Shalles of Clarion State, who recorded the only fall of the finals by pinning Jarrett Hubbard of Michigan in the 150-pound class, was voted the oustanding wrestler award.

Sweet Springs Boosters Pay Tribute to Athletes

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — Sweet Springs Quarterback Club boosters honored football, baseball and basketball athletes of Sweet Springs High School here Friday night.

The featured speaker of the evening was Bruce Rice, sports announcer for KMBC radio and television in Kansas City.

Rice told the more than 300 in attendance that the broadcast and the written areas of journalism were both enjoyable and lucrative fields in which to seek a career.

Also on the program was United States Congressman William J. Randall, representative from the fourth Missouri district.

Randall praised the athletic department of the school, which is under the direction of head coach John Johnson, a former standout athlete for Smith-Cotton High School.

Under direction of Johnson, Sweet Springs posted a winning percentage of .734 (36-13) with their 1971 baseball, 1971 football and 1971-72 basketball teams.

"Sports have made valuable athletic and educational contributions to your community," he said.

Individual awards were made to the following athletes in their respective areas: (All-Conference Football) — Dick Vogt, Eugene Eckhoff, Steve Eckhoff and Ted Moore. (All-Conference Basketball) — Randy Bredehoeft, Jerry Reid and Robert Wheeler.

Honorable mention awards were also given to those named on the all-conference football and basketball teams.

Smithton Wins Kaysinger B-Team Cage Tourney

(Democrat-Capital Service)

GREEN RIDGE — Smithton broke loose for a 30-point second to shatter a 23-23 half time tie and rolled over Warsaw, 53-34, to win the championship game of the Kaysinger Conference B-Team Tournament.

Rusty Templemire of Smithton and Scott Steffens of Warsaw shared the game's scoring honor with 19 points each.

Sacred Heart, who was awarded a win over Northwest (Hughesville) due to a forfeit because of using an ineligible player, captured the third-place trophy with a 56-38 win over Stover. Mike Twenter netted 21 points for the Grems, while Ronnie Hodge tossed in 14 for the losers.

LaMonte topped host Green Ridge, 45-47, for the consolation honor. Don Hitaffer and Rick Jones hit 15 and 14 respectively for the young Vikings; Kent Scotten and Mike Proffitt had ten apiece for Green Ridge.

The San Francisco Giants will make their first 1972 New York appearance against the New York Mets in Shea Stadium on Friday night, May 12.

Ordering Inspection Records

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Can the Missouri Senate order Agriculture Commissioner Dexter Davis to reveal meat inspection records declared secret by the federal government?

Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, Senate appropriations chairman, said he would test that question Monday by asking the Senate to direct Lt. Gov. William S. Morris to issue a subpoena ordering Davis to appear with the records.

At stake is a $500,000 appropriation to continue the state meat inspection program. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has recommended that the state program be abandoned, leaving the job to federal inspectors.

Manford said he has been unable to get either from Davis or the federal government the records of federal inspections made last year.

In a statement Thursday, Manford reviewed his efforts to get access to the inspection records and said his requests have been rejected both by Davis and the federal government.

He said he did not want to do anything to hurt Missouri meat plants, farmers or consumers. But at the same time he did not want to appropriate a half million dollars of tax money if it meant the state would merely be duplicating federal inspections.

He said he wanted to subpoena the federal reports in order to get all the facts before acting on the requested appropriation.

The charming touch of . . .

Spring

With the winds of a cool March afternoon blowing through their hair, Miss Cindy Heeren, Walnut Hills, and Mike Hennessy, Warrensburg, spot the first spring robin — a sign that winter will soon be gone. With the exit of winter and the coming of spring, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital brings you its Annual Spring Fashion Section. Fashions for both men and women are included in this section and the clothes can be found at the Sedalia stores indicated. The Sedalia Democrat-Capital wishes to thank the merchants, the Sedalia Country Club, Farm and Home Savings Association and all of the models for their participation and cooperation in preparing this special section, which will serve as a guide to finding your spring styles.

Party Perfect

Ready for any party are Mrs. Charles Hartman, left, and Mrs. Larry Miller from Tempo. Mrs. Hartman is wearing the new sizzle pants dress in a floral pattern of purple, orange, green, yellow and white. The machine washable dress of acetate and nylon is completed with white strap sandals. In a white body shirt of polyester and black pleated skirt of acetate and nylon, Mrs. Miller models this easy care dress outfit. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Mod Look

Casuals from Russell Brothers this spring include navy cotton pants with light blue patch pocket, button fly and bell bottoms as modeled by Miss Pam McGrath who also wears a polyester and cotton pullover knit shirt. Steve Young, center, shows denim stripe bell pants with patch pockets and a navy pullover knit shirt with light blue sleeves. Wearing blue denim pants with brown cotton suede bottoms that form flare legs. Jack Lewis shows a matching blue and brown striped pullover knit shirt. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Bike Styles Swing

The cyclist should be wearing short sleeve crew neck T-shirts in cottons, and blends...solids, multi-colors, stripes, contrasting sleeves and neckbands, patriotic red-white-blue stars and stripes...zippers, pockets.

Shorts and slacks in every form, shape and description, especially double knits for the ease of movement necessary in cycling. Some have snaps at the bottom to keep them from getting caught in the bicycle's chain. There are one piece cycling suits and even a "short-short pants" cycling suit (one with a tank top for warmer weather). And cycling jackets, which are essentially a ski jacket shell, with a great look...some with a reflect or safety stripe and large rear zip pocket that the jacket folds into for easy carrying when not in use.

At the "other end" on this outdoor kick we have the craze for leatherwear. Leather, for Spring '72, is an integral part of a man's wardrobe.

Top grain cowhide is big with either tanned side or rough side out...cabretta, suedes, kid, capeskin, deer skin, split hides and especially chamois. Blazers, shirt-jacs, shirts, jackets with capes, floor length capes, coats, pants...not only in earth tones and natural but in every color imaginable...the use of American Indian embroidery, goat skin applique, glove leather trim all are in evidence. And it's all very exciting.

The look...the feel...the smell of leather will be everywhere this spring.

Gingham and Seersucker Are Big Spring Fabrics

There are several strong trends this spring...in fabrics, in colors, in prints. But the strongest over-all trend is a continuation of the interest in the natural and the classic.

This preoccupation with old, near-forgotten favorites manifests itself in gingham. That woven classic is the hot fabric of the season, and other fabrications try to duplicate it with a new twist. Even knits are masquerading as gingham.

The preoccupation with the natural means a lot of fabrics will have flax content for a nubby surface, or have the colorations of unbleached muslin.

Denim in solids and prints is still a vital fabric, although chinos are coming into the picture strongly. As a companion to denims, seersuckers are stronger than ever. Leather is part of the natural story too, and fabrics are being printed to duplicate skins.

Prints show a pre-occupation with figuratives, ranging from charming animals to delicate copes of fine engravings. Tapestries continue as do dots and florals tend to be in clusters, and often on striped or crosshatched grounds.

Ready For Weekend Trip

Mrs. Harvey White, left, and Mrs. Richard Hartman are ready for a spring weekend away in their pant suits from Tempo. Mrs. White wears blue pants and vest with a blue and white floral print blouse. The suit also has a matching skirt. All are machine washable in a polyester, rayon blend. Mrs. Richard Hartman is wearing an off white three piece weekender with gold trim. This acetate outfit is to be dry cleaned.

Fragrance For Fashion's Fresh 'Country' Appeal

When the country look came to town right out of the country lanes and the wild meadows, it came to stay awhile. It sent creative girls back to their sewing machines. Crisp white blouses, big sleeves and wild print skirts, worn buttoned or not, give the avenue the look of a stage set right out of "Oklahoma." Stroll down the street on an early spring day and you expect everyone to break into "Oh What a Beautiful Morning."

All this furor about outdoorness, naturalness, the ecology bit, etcetera, has affected the blends of new fragrances, too. (Of course, that's where fragrance began, isn't it — modern synthetics invented by Master "Noses" to the contrary notwithstanding).

One such is Wild Meadow, diffused by the perfumer's art like a moist green wind over the numberless flowers and grasses of a meadow-in-the-sun. Made to wear with the likes of a flattering blouse and skirt, the whole thing becomes a kind of ensemble — a new kind of personal happening for the girl who wants to have her own special aura, one that is all of a piece, fashion-wise, fragrance-wise and otherwise ... like romance, for instance?

Bare and Beautiful

Here's just a few strappy spring dress shoes for showing it all off in this season. What a way to wear — bare and beautiful. Find them at the Shoe Shack.

For Little Girls

Spring dresses take their coloring from Easter basket pastels.

Eggshell squares and lilac stripes alternate on a little girl dress with an elastic bodice.

Picture Perfect

Western Style

Billy Poindexter, left, models a two piece cotton chamois creation with a plum waist length battle jacket that is accented with contrasting deep plum stitching. The jacket also features western yokes in front and back along with breast pockets. Bill's pants feature 2" belt loops, slant pockets, split leg detailing and flare legs. He wears a floral print shirt in plum and burnt orange and accents the outfit with a white belt and spring white panama hat. Mike Hennessy is modeling a two piece windbreaker double knit matched ensemble. The brown, gold and white patterned houndstooth mid-thigh jacket is accented with patch pockets. The back of the jacket features a Western yoke and the matching slacks have Western quarter top pockets with a continental no-belt waistband and flare legs. To complete this outstanding designers creation Mike has chosen a bone white solid shirt and paisley tie.

Wearing a textured polyester pant suit of blue and white is Mrs. Edwin Taylor. The simple cut skirt-like top has gold buttons in front that are accented with a gold chain necklace. To complete her outfit from Gibsons, Mrs. Taylor wears red and blue patent shoes and she carries a red, white and blue crinkle patent purse.

Hats Off To Men For Making Today's Easy Care Fabrics

Long before the women's lib movement became a popular topic of conversation, then developed into major national and international issues, some non-chauvinist males were in their own way doing things for women's liberation — liberation from tedious chores, that is.

Probably because from this idea stemmed so many of the work-saving home appliances we take for granted today, we should first mention Michael Faraday of England. In 1831, Faraday discovered the principle upon which the dynamo is based. The dynamo, or generator, is the machine which produces the electric current that runs our house full of work-saving appliances.

Although Thomas Saint, also an Englishman, developed the first sewing machine in 1790, his model was not practical. Others followed, but it was not until 1846 that Elias Howe patented what was the forerunner of the sewing machines we enjoy today.

We might also salute the chemists who developed nylon in 1937. From this man-made fiber came a whole new family of fabrics that are the delight of today's fashion designers. The delight of women, too, because they require little or no ironing; simply touch-up work. These men probably heard from their wives that, for most women, ironing was among the most disliked of tasks.

But not even the electric iron and easy-to-care-for fabrics could change women's viewpoint on ironing. Something was needed to help the iron do the work. Magic sizing, a modern ironing aid, answered that need. Sprayed on as you iron, sizing helps your iron glide smoothly over fabrics. Because of its special lubricant, there's no need for you to push and pull at the iron. And, as you iron, it restores the like new "body" and finish that regular laundering often removes from even man-made fabrics.

It's interesting, too, to realize that as all these appliances and aids were developed to help liberate women from burdensome work, women were asked for ideas on improvements. Self-cleaning ovens and irons that almost think for you with their special dials and controls are examples of this. Even sizing answered the requests of women, and extra crisp, for extra perkiness, was developed to give you a complete modern ironing aid.

Good Looking and Fashionable

For Bozarth's Mens Wear Gary Bilderback, left, shows a burgundy, black and white blend sportcoat of double knit with button patch pockets and a loose belt in back. The coat is tailored to give a neat and trim appearance. His contrasting white slacks are also double knit polyester. They feature a herringbone pattern with patch pockets and flare legs. A solid raspberry shirt has a long point collar and body fit construction. Gary's outfit is completed with a raspberry and white tie. At right, Mike Hennessy wears a bone white double knit sportcoat with patch pockets, wide lapels and a loose belted back. His pants are a deep wine colored polyester that feature two inch belt loops, slant pockets and flare legs. To top off the ensemble Mike wears a pink, red, and white striped shirt with a long point collar and body fit styling and a red matching tie.

Men's Belts This Spring Have Neat, Classic Look

The return of the "gentleman's look" in men's apparel is reflected in the neat, classic look of this Spring's men's belts. According to one of the leading manufacturers of men's fashion-styled belts, there is a less cluttered appearance in men's belts with the buckle look dominating.

Patent leather belts in both solids and braids are expected to lead the fashion parade, report the designers at Canterbury Belts. Usually associated with dress wear, patent leathers are now at home with casual wear. In addition to new styles for the solid patent leather belt, there are now "krinkle" patent leather belts in solids and striped stretch fabric belts are now accented with patent leather tabs.

Suede belts also will be popular with the new Spring apparel. Three are designed with overlays in the muted tones which are in fashion. One is a multi-layer belt with three horizontal strips of suede, each narrower than the one below; this is available in two color combinations: navy, tan and burgundy; and three shades of brown; another belt has a continuous line of arrows in light and dark brown, blue, burgundy and copper on natural tan suede; a third is a silhouette cut-out of a city scene of buildings and cars in brown suede along the entire length of a natural tan suede belts. Each of the belts has a distinctive buckle treatment.

While the trend in men's fashions appears to feature more of the "neat" look, points out Canterbury's designers, the ever-popular "bold look" belts continue to be the favorite among the young in heart. In line with the trends, the hardware and surface interest treatment is more sophisticated and less cluttered.

The wide look in belts with two-inch and one-and-three-quarter-inch widths remains the dominant choice among all dressers, for both dress and casual wear.

Seersucker Highlighted

Highlight seersuckers. That fabric is part of the natural, classic trend that also capitalizes on the surface interest of this classic, easy care fabric.

A seersucker plaid in bright tones of yellow, pumpkin and deep green is an example. It's a 50-50 blend of cotton and polyesters.

Even knits masquerade as seersuckers. A manufacturer whips up this airy ripple knit of polyester in a variety of solid colors including sweet potato.

A leading designer combines the seersucker with stripes of delicate, embroidery-like jacquard. It's a white polyester and cotton blend, with pastel flowers including soft, salmon pink.

Seersucker texture takes on the weight and colorings of denim. A striped example, a blend of polyester and cotton, features rich, almost Mexican tones of yam, plum, amethyst and raspberry.

And finally, the classic white seersucker, in polyester and cotton gains an added dimension with prints. The cross-stitch sampler design is printed in several colors including deep plum.

Quilted Hotpants

Wearing a two piece hot pant suit of quilted polyester and cotton is Miss Linda Buford for Montgomery Ward's. The long sleeved, turtle neck top is a white knit. Both pants and vest are of green, turquoise and yellow print and a white leather closing is featured at the neckline.

Party Time Look

Mrs. Phil Matthews, left, and Mrs. Joe Doggett, right, are wearing the new look that is sweeping the country this spring. The chic long and elegant look worn by Mrs. Matthews is done in a white embossed double knit. Provocative slits up to the thigh and slit high in front, the gown has tiny self covered buttons to accent the front. Mrs. Doggett has on a printed top with long full sleeves, a saucy bow tie and a red leather belt. The skirt, long and full, is quilted denim. It has wide bands of print and rick-rack around the skirt. The washable outfit is made of cotton and polyester. Both are from Lockett's.

How to Plan a Now Wardrobe For 1972

Spending time rather than big money is the way to build the now wardrobe. Time spent in planning how to look and what to wear with what saves money, earns fashion dividends and is great sport. Spring 1972 sees the return to reality with excellence in design, but designs to suit a real woman who lives a real life. It's bye-bye to the gypsy or the tossed salad look or those leftovers from the Thrift Shop. It is time for simple un-fussy lines, positive colors, fabrics with a recognizable texture or finish, all put together to focus on you. You'll find gray flannel suits with pleated skirts that put the focus on your pretty legs, pongee dresses with cashmere sweaters to match to underscore your figure, beige or champagne as a complexion brightening color for after 5. And black everywhere in the sexiest, most romantic long dresses for after dark. The most devastating way to spotlight your face and figure. Pants are everywhere by popular demand, topped with smocks, shirts, coolie coats, hacking jackets, but topped neatly. The layered look stays with us, but layered with clean prints plus solid vests, heathered knits plus solid shirts, stripes with tiny, tiny dots. The age of helter-skelter has departed. Dresses are dresses, to be worn when you like to look pretty and feel ultra-feminine. But always match the legs and the shoes to the dominant color of the dress, as it is one more way to focus all eyes on you. Dress to suit the many sides of your life, but do it with TLC.

And treat yourself so you'll have the widest choice of fabrics and silhouettes. Get yourself into the best possible shape so you can have the fun of a versatile wardrobe that puts you in the spotlight. Don't carry extra pounds around, thinking your clothes will hide them. Heavily structured fashions are definitely out. Even skimmers and flowing jackets tend to lie close to the body this season. You'll scarcely see a djellabah this spring that doesn't like to cling!

Fresh Fashions

As refreshing as spring, Mrs. William Eschbacher styles the two-piece ensemble dress and sleeveless coat of double knit polyester and acrylic in the softest pink. The dress has a cowl collar, back zipper, empire bodice, long sleeves, A-line skirt and is complemented with a sleeveless long vest for casual wear everywhere and styled for the young man who demands all the tailoring details of the latest fashion, Larry Neville wears the burgundy sportcoat of polyester double knit. His tapered shirt features a long point collar and he wears a double knit tie. His double knit twill slacks feature a flare leg, western pockets and continental styling. Both outfits are from Penney's.

A Versatile Fashion

Mrs. Elliot Braverman is wearing for Burton's a winning fashion that will go everywhere. With a rolled collar and patch pockets this 100 per cent jacquard woven polyester dress features a coat style skirt.

For Work or Traveling Men Choose Knits

Comfort-conscious men are discovering that the newest way to follow the sun is with knits. For vacation and travel to all points South — and North, East or West, too — they're the ideal companions: light in weight, they give complete freedom of movement, and yet hold their shape wherever they go.

Whether roaming through the historic towns of Europe, swimming in your own private pool at Las Brisas, Mexico, discovering great open beaches, roaming through native markets or joining a jeep caravan to a bull fight, there's a knit for every contingency, and they pack with a minimum of fuss. Travel experts at Aeronaves de Mexico suggest, for most vacationers, a small but flexible wardrobe that combines conservative though not necessarily formal wear for the larger cities, plus casual clothes for the beach areas — and the new knits certainly fill the bill.

Double knit suits, jackets and slacks go sight-seeing in style, cut in a smooth contemporary mood. There are blazers, sport jackets with western detailing, and trim, well-fitting slacks in a range of textured patterns and solids that serve as the pivot for many combinations. Because they're in the new miracle fibers, such as polyester and nylon, they wear without ever bagging or wrinkling, and always manage to come out of a suitcase looking as fresh as they did when they went in.

In a more informal mood, ideal for r- ort wear, there are double knit jumpsuits — the new kind of one-part dressing, made even easier because it's knit. And there's the sleeveless vest-suit, with a relaxed, easy look, and plenty of sportive flair. It teams up with some of the new boldly colorful shirts, which in turn can be worn belted over slacks, tunic-style, or tucked in, for a smooth body-contour line. Shirts, too, come in non-wrinkling, machine washable knit, for a complete wasy-care wash , and wear wardrobe.

For Party Goers

Enjoying the conversation of friends at one of the many upcoming spring parties is Mrs. Stan Ragar who wears the latest in this tailored orange diagonal print blazer and solid orange floor length skirt of textured polyester. Under the blazer Mrs. Ragar has a white sleeveless polyester blouse. Larry Thompson, center, is wearing the newest in suit fabrics this year, a blend of polyester and wool, the light blue suit features wide lapels and patch pleated pockets. Showing the latest in spring sportswear with a doubleknit jacket featuring patch flap pockets and a belted back is Joe Doggett. To match the burgundy and white speck jacket, Joe selected burgundy double knit slacks with flare legs. All are from Roth's.

Latest Trend In Spring Fashions For Men

The gentleman who is busy tending to his knitting this spring won't be plying needles — he'll be poking around his closet, deciding what to wear. A double knit, undoubtedly—because, like the female of the species, he too, now lives in comfort; the everyday comfort of knitted clothes that move when he does. Today's man has a wide selection of tweedy, traditional style suits knitted of man-made fibers, but he often prefers to get it all together himself, mixing knit separates with all the discretion of a connoisseur. Suppose he starts with lightly flared knit pants in brown-white herringbone tweed and a matching battle jacket. With it, the with-it man will wear a knitted dress shirt in identical colors; but this time the brown-white will be bravura stripes, or a neat geometric pattern. More clues to the '72 dress shirt: collars are slightly higher, with slightly longer points. Two-button cuffs are now the rule, which sidelines the cufflink struggle for this season. Most dress shirts are knitted of durable, synthetic fibers — which means that life is going to be a great deal easier all around. (Wives tired of trekking to the coin laundry with loads of dirty shirts might try substituting a few of these easy-care knits on his shirt hangers.) Neckwear continue to provide another opportunity to mix patterns in a big way this spring. Neckties will average 4½" wide at the bottom. This means proper neckties — not western kerchiefs knotted any which way. Neatness counts. The most casual look is carefully pre-planned.

Any way a man wants to play the fashion game is okay, as long as he plays to win — by assembling a total look, and checking in a full-length mirror that it really works before he leaves the house.

Men's Fashions Made To Withstand Bad Weather

Let fashion be your guide — not the weather. Whatever the weather, come rain, drizzle or shine, the fashion-conscious man can now wear that new suit or coat that fits his mood without regard for the elements. Today, any garments can be made rain repellent for dual-purpose wearability.

One of the hottest news items for men's spring fashions is double knits, especially a single breasted suit with wide lapels and belted back. It's ideal for the man on the go since it's lightweight and wrinkle-free. And once treated with the water-repellent, the traveling man can go anywhere without the slightest care of sudden showers.

Choose Sunglasses With Care

When the warm spring sun comes out fun is in fashion. Carefree stretch knits take to the casual outdoor life, and look-alike sunglasses are easy on the eyes for both men and women.

But if you plan to be out in the sunshine a lot it pays not to be casual about the sunglasses you select. Daylong exposure to bright glare can make you squint, give you a miserable headache, and without your knowing it, dangerously reduce your ability to see clearly after dark.

Most sunglasses only color the sunlight but the special lenses in some sunglasses have a glare filter built in to the molecular structure of the lens. It's a true glarebarrier that screens out up to 99% of reflected glare light and allows only useful light to reach your eyes. You can see clearly and comfortably while wearing those special sunspecs, end up the day with rested eyes.

If you are careful about selecting sunglasses with polarizing lenses you can be completely carefree when it comes to choosing a frame style. Select popular look-alikes that have a bold square shape, lightweight metals, plastic frames — or whatever suits your face shape, life style, or budget.

Young Clothes for 'Over-30s'

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA — A manufacturer known for his youth-oriented apparel is now taking dead aim at the over-30 men's market.

"I'm not copping out on my constituency," he said, "just keeping up with the advancing age of my customers of the past 10 years."

Jesse Siegel, president of Henry I. Siegel, whose markets have been primarily the young set, is expanding his target area to include the over-30s. He believes that in the years ahead this age group will be the hottest growth area in the men's wear business.

Although Siegel bases his conviction on Census Bureau projections that show a vast increase in the numbers of men over 30 in the next 10 years, the mens' apparel business in the over-30 group will be further stimulated, he feels, by the consequences of the youth revolution of the '60s.

"As the youth of that generation matures," Siegel said, "its influence will extend to older generations.

"The World War II and Korean vets got tired of olive drab and then tired of the sameness of civilian clothes when they came home. But they had no choice. They're the ones who now want to march in the peacock parade with their sons. And who can blame them?"

But the problem, according to Siegel, is that nothing young-looking or exciting was available to this age group except for the chap who had stayed spare and lean over the years.

"How could an older man emulate the kids?" Siegel asked. "Even if they had a size 38 in kids' clothes a man couldn't get into it. Age changes the body.

"Think of all the men," he added, "who try to pull flare-bottomed jeans over their own slighly flared bottoms — without much success. Something had to be done for that crowd."

Siegel's investment in this conviction is a new line of "manfit" flared slacks — a little longer in the crotch, a little fuller in the waist, seat and thigh than the younger version. But it still gives today's dad something of the "look" he either envied, cherished or deplored a few years ago. This is Siegel's first significant entry into the over-30 market.

He tested the new line in seven major markets — New York, Philadelphia, Houston, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City and Indianapolis.

"The quantities in which they bought 'manfits' tell us that the maturing fashion leaders of the '60s and their older converts are out there all right, just waiting for someone to produce for them," he said. "So we're going all out nationally."

Taking two 10-year age spans that dramatize Siegel's confidence in the potential size of the market, here's what the census figures show.

From 1960 to 1969 the population between the ages of 15 and 24 grew a whopping 49 per cent while the number in the 30-to-39 group grew, in effect, not at all. But during the '70s, Census Bureau projections show the 15-to-24 group will grow only 11 per cent while the 30-to-39 group will grow 31 per cent. Then the numbers in the younger group will tail off while the older group keeps growing. So that between 1970 and 1985 the 30-to-39 group will have grown an eye-popping 64 per cent while the 15-to-24s will have grown only 7 per cent.

The youth market will remain important in absolute numbers. But Siegel believes that in the enthusiasm over the discovery of youth in the past few years the men's apparel industry may have underplayed the man who is older but who would wear "with it" clothes if he could squeeze into them.

In support of his confidence in new fashion trends of older men, Siegel said that one can't underestimate the influence of the '60s youth movement on men's fashions. It was healthy — more color, more style a greater variety of fabric — a complete break with the conservative, button-down, blue-gray-brown past. With variations, that look is here to stay, he believes.

"The youth of the '60s were the most fashion-conscious generation in modern history and as they mature older men will find their fashion opinions not only more acceptable but downright exciting," Siegel said.

This is reflected in his new 'manfit' slacks, which carry the familiar H.I.S. label but are being called "Mister H.I.S." to differentiate them from the youth line. The flared bottoms, form-fitting tops, wide belt loops and pocket detailing are contemporary as are the fabrics — cotton, corduroy and knit.

"The sheer numbers in the new, emerging over-30 market present the men's apparel industry with the greatest growth opportunity in its history," said Siegel. "But the key to success is fashion. And the fashion will be a mutation of the more colorful, more casual look that the youngsters demanded and got.

"The American male will never look the same as he did before the youth-inspired fashion revolution," he predicted. "And neither will the apparel industry."

New Fibers Make New Wigs

The newest in hairstyles with the newest in wig fibers result in hair fashion that is up to date and easy to care for. Miss Mary May, left, wears a long layered brunette savage kanekalon wig for that casual but pretty face frame. Mrs. Ira O. McMackin, center, has on a blonde, tone-on-tone modacrylic long shag with the new capless base. The tone-on-tone features lighter hair at the top with gradual darkening near the bottom. Also wearing the new capless wig to get away from that hat feeling is Mrs. Ira L. McMackin. Her wig is in the new venicelon fiber for more durability and managability. All are from the Wig 'n You.

West Coast Look

Perfect for an afternoon tea, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis selects a blue French pictorial spring shirtwaist dress in easy care polyester. The soft collar with its bow, the front pleated skirt, the long cuffed shirtsleeve, the wide leather blue belt, are all typical of the west coast spring styling. This dress is from Chapman's.

Hotpants and Boots

For spring outings this year hotpants and boots will be on the fashion scene as shown here by Mrs. Joe Doggett who wears brown and white checked hotpants with boy legs. The side tab closure is great with the new fabric of popcorn polyester. A short crocheted vest is worn over the shirt in this new outfit from Lockett's.

Spring Sportswear

Wearing a navy double knit sport coat with cranberry knit pants, a solid cranberry shirt and matching tie is Steve Young, left, for Russell Brothers. Jack Lewis, in a light blue denim polyester and cotton sport coat with navy and white stripe texturized knit pants has on a navy shirt with matching tie.

Swing Me?

The short more feminine looking dress continues to dominate the spring fashion trend. Here, Mrs. John Seifner for Katz wears a soft printed jersey which is accented with a wide smock-like elasticized midriff and full sleeves. The ruffled edge neckband creates a feminine face framer. Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN of South Dakota*

You are asking for immediate withdrawal of all forces from Indochina. Where were you when the thousands of men were being sent there during the past 10 years?—W. F. T., New Smyrna Beach, Fla.

● I first warned against our military involvement in Vietnam in a speech in the U.S. Senate in 1963. I have opposed the war with every means at my command. I will continue to do so until our POWs have been released and our air and naval support of the corrupt government in Saigon has been terminated. The length and character of this war and the murky procedures of our commitment have made it easy for many to forget the early voices that were raised in opposition to this conflict.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

Many people must have mentioned to you that the character of Archie Bunker in "All in the Family" is reminiscent of Ralph Kramden in "The Honeymooners." Would you have considered the role of Archie Bunker, had it been offered?—Linda Wiseman, Lancaster, Pa.

● No. Carroll O'Connor is great, largely responsible for the success of the show. I suppose there are similarities, but I just wouldn't do the material they do. I think there are easier ways to get a laugh.

FOR EDITH HEAD, fashion designer*

You create such exquisite fashions for the stars. Why are you only pictured wearing basic suits? Do you ever wear any of the lovely fashions you design?—Mrs. Helen Marlin, Riverside, Calif.

● The pictures you see of me—in my basic suits—are when I am at work. Then I feel I am a businesswoman, and I prefer to dress simply. However, I assure you that after working hours, I wear gowns just as beautiful and as elaborate as those I create for the stars.

FOR TWIGGY

Would you ever consider posing in the nude?—Mrs. J. M., Lancaster, Pa.

● I'm not a prude, but I'd never bare my body. I mean, what would my Mum think?

FOR JAMES FRANCISCUS, actor*

What are some of the difficulties of portraying a blind man, as you now do on your program "Longstreet"?—Miss V. Simmons, Folly Beach, S.C.

● The biggest problems were learning to "unfocus" my eyes so they would appear unseeing and remembering to cock my head in the direction of sounds and voices, as a blind man would.

FOR CLARENCE WILLIAMS III,
actor on TV's "The Mod Squad"

I once read that you never learned to drive. Is this true?—Bob Jennings, Tracy, Calif.

● I do know how to drive a car, and I do drive on the show when the script calls for me to do so. However, I do not enjoy driving, and I do not drive outside my role. In my hometown of New York I always used public transportation, so I don't own a car.

FOR WOODY ALLEN

I hear you are making a movie out of Dr. Reuben's book, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex." How can you possibly make a film out of that?—L. Smith, Short Hills, N.J.

● As director, scriptwriter and actor, I'm using the book strictly as a jumping-off point for the script. The movie will really be sexually far out. I expect it to get an X rating, despite the fact that there will be little or no nudity or strong language. That's all I can tell you about it.

FOR BOB HOPE

What year did you first entertain the boys overseas, and who were your entertainers?—Mrs. Bert D. Hodge, Johnson City, Tenn.

● It was in September, 1942, when I flew 16,000 miles to 35 camps in the Aleutians and Alaska to give 52 shows. In the troupe were Jerry Colonna, Frances Langford and Tony Romano. In June, 1943, I entertained in England. That was my first European appearance for servicemen.

FOR D. W. RABENHORST, physicist, Johns Hopkins University

What is the "Superflywheel" that is envisioned for the electric car of the future?—H. Heath, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● The Superflywheel can store many times more energy than previous flywheels, so an electric car having a Superflywheel instead of a battery would have faster charging, better range, acceleration and economy. It would also have longer life, and a better tolerance of extreme temperatures. With adequate backing, a Superflywheel-powered vehicle can be developed in only a few years.

FOR JOHNNY BENCH, catcher, Cincinnati Reds*

Do you feel any different when you are playing in a game that is being televised than in one that is not?—Debbie Donnald, Durham, N.C.

● I sure do. People across the nation, friends, relatives and admirers, are all watching to see you maybe for the first time. They form a lot of opinions and will discuss a play or hit for a long time. So the last thing you want to do is be the goat. You're onstage, so it's time to perform; not that you don't do this every day, but it's a little more exciting when the nation is watching.

STAR PROFILE / By Peer J. Oppenheimer

The Duke Is King! How Can That Be, At 64?

"I don't like politics," he told me. "I hate them! I only speak out when I think something is important. I like to consider myself a liberal, but with semantics as it is today, I seem to be running backwards—fast."

What? John Wayne the No. 1 Box Office Star of 1971 in the 40th poll conducted by the "Motion Picture Herald"?

It's no joke; by winning the poll, Wayne sets a new all-time record. It marks his 22nd year among the top ten actors—an achievement matched by no other star. The closest runners-up are Gary Cooper, who was in the top ten 18 times, and Clark Gable, who made it 16 times.

His achievement is doubly amazing considering that he will be 65 next May 26, that his stomach has a tendency to protrude over his belt, that he has a double chin, wears a hairpiece (which he laughingly refers to as "my rug"), and beat much younger competitors like Clint Eastwood, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, Dustin Hoffman, Sean Connery and Lee Marvin.

So what's the explanation?

Wayne reminds me of a remark Shirley MacLaine made many years ago when she talked about Liz Taylor, who at the time was Wayne's female counterpart. "The sign of a real star is being able to carry a lousy picture," Shirley had said. How well Liz and many of her contemporaries have learned.

Wayne's popularity is even more surprising because he is a man of strong opinions. Particularly when it comes to politics. The mere thought of Communists, for instance, will get the Duke's blood to the boiling point, as it did the day we were playing chess on location in New Mexico.

While he was concentrating on his next move, Wayne overheard a technician remark that we were living in a paradise in the United States. "You're damn right!" Wayne burst out. "If people were only aware of that! The workingman is. That's why those Commies only get to us through the students and the professionals."

Wayne was prominently mentioned a few years ago as a possible Vice Presidential nominee. He pooh-poohed the idea. "I don't like politics," he told me. "I hate them! I only speak out when I think something is important. I like to consider myself a liberal, but with semantics as it is today, I seem to be running backwards—fast."

What is remarkable about this man is that he's so straightforward in everything he says, does and thinks, even in the usually liberal-minded film industry, that nobody holds his conservatism against him. I remember the time I flew to Mexico with Kirk Douglas, who, at the time, costarred with Wayne in "The War Wagon." Douglas is almost on the other end of the political spectrum from Wayne, and the two regularly got into heated arguments on the set. Yet Douglas lost none of his respect for Wayne. "With him, you always know where you stand," Douglas told me.

Wayne readily admits he's old-fashioned. He has never made a film he didn't feel the whole family could see, and doesn't intend to change his ways now. And while he can be rough and tough and outspoken, he can also be gentle and tender and loving. Like he was when I saw him shortly after he got his Academy Award. There was a feeling of sadness as he clutched the Award in his hands: "I lost my Molly Brown [Wayne's mother, whose maiden name was Brown] just three weeks ago, on St. Patrick's Day," he told me. "I wish she could have seen this."

When I had dinner with Duke about five years ago, he told me that if he sold everything he had, he would just break even with everything he owed. This, he said, was due to the "help" of a business manager who shall remain nameless. Today he owns a beautiful home in Newport Bay, Calif., and a 17,000-acre ranch in Arizona, where he raises cattle and cotton. Most of all, he has his health. Seven years ago, he lost half a lung as a result of cancer. ("The doctor said I wouldn't know for sure for five years whether or not the operation was a success. Well, the option period is over, and I'm okay.") This close call changed his life. "It made me appreciate more what I have. Most of all, my family." □

The Incredible Mother-Son Closeness of Jennie and Winston Churchill

The strange and strangely moving story of a son who grew up to become "The Man of the Century," and of a mother who "left no stone unturned, no wire unpulled" to see that he fulfilled his destiny

By Ralph G. Martin, Author of "Jennie"
Especially for Family Weekly

When Winston was 21, he wrote his mother: "Your letter is the central point of my week. If I thought mine could give you half as much pleasure, I should write all day...."

"My mother was everything to me," said England's man of the century, Winston Churchill.

And so she was. It was, perhaps, the most unusual mother-son relationship of modern history. Jennie was much more than Winston Churchill's mother: she was his sister, his sweetheart, his father, and, for a long time, his only confidante.

Winston later admitted that he had only four full conversations with his father in his lifetime. "If ever I began to show the slightest idea of comradeship, he was immediately offended," wrote Winston.

It was Jennie who got Winston transferred from one war to another war, at a time when this was never done in the British Army. Jennie sold his first short story, got him newspaper assignments, suggested and arranged his first book contract, stirred in him his first serious interest in politics, campaigned for him, acted as a preview critic for his speeches. Winston later wrote of his mother: "She left no stone unturned, no wire unpulled, no cutlet uncooked."

Psychiatrists generally agree that the influence of a powerful mother can have drastic effects on a son who has had no real father relationship. They claim that such a son can move to two extremes: either become a homosexual or a Sir Galahad. Among the mothers who raised Galahads supposedly were the mothers of Alexander the Great and Napoleon. On the other hand, Sara Delano Roosevelt, the patrician mother of President Franklin Roosevelt, tried to keep her son nestled close to her, out of politics and power—and she failed.

Jennie was determined not to fail. She was an American, full of American energy and ambition. She had married Lord Randolph Churchill, a man without any goals at all. Lord Randolph wrote his father, the Duke of Marlborough, that he hoped Jennie would make something of him. And indeed she did. She made him the second most important man in England, and he would have become Prime Minister if he had not died raving mad of syphilis.

Then it was that Jennie wrote Winston, "All my political ambitions are now centered in you." Later she added, "I believe in your lucky star as I do in mine."

And so it was Jennie who became the most influential factor in the development of her son. Besides the courage and spirit and drive she instilled in him, besides shaping his mind through their constant discussions and correspondence, besides introducing him to the people who helped determine his future, besides her own maneuvering for him in every area in which she could protect his interests and further his ambition, Jennie had no qualms about using the many men in her life—including King Edward VII—to push Winston's career.

Winston, in turn, had no hesitation in using all of Jennie's influence. "Are you still friendly with the King?" he wrote her, when he wanted something important. And he kept prodding her constantly, "You must get people to do things for me."

Jennie had not been able to give Winston too much of herself in his early years. The English had a tradition of "nannies," older women who acted as substitute mothers for children of the busy aristocracy. And Jennie was busy working full-time on her sick husband's career. In an age when women of her class never even went into the streets without an escort, Jennie single-handedly organized her husband's political campaigns, and drove her own carriage to knock on doors and solicit votes. She also had to divide her time as mother with her younger son, Jack. But both sons loved her deeply.

Jennie's sister Leonie complained, "I have done everything and given my boys everything, but they don't seem to care for me at all." On the other hand, she added, "Jack and Winston have helped their mother in every way, even by not going to the University in order to work, and both absolutely adore her."

"The house is full of you," 21-year-old Winston wrote his mother from his army post in India. "... my writing table is covered with photographs ... my cigarette box that you brought me from Japan ... my books.... Your letter is the central point of my week. If I thought mine could give you half as much pleasure, I should write all day.... How I wish I could secrete myself in the corner of the envelope and embrace you as soon as you tear it open....When the mail comes in with no letter from you, I get in such a state of despondency and anger that I am not approachable by anyone....

"...Well my dearest Mummy ... I don't know what I should do without you...."

As a young man, Winston had few close friends. His brother Jack was five years younger, and there was still a great gulf between them. With women, Winston found himself shy and awkward, and this was true of him until his mid-thirties, when he married.

For a long time, therefore, Jennie was the only one to whom Winston could pour out his loneliness, the only one he loved, the only one who really believed in him.

Many mothers with such an adoring son might tend to keep him close, but not Jennie. Of course she was flattered by his deep love, but Jennie was determined to be neither a smothering mother nor a permissive one. It was difficult for her to write Winston letters that a father should have written, but she did, and whenever necessary. One time when Winston had overdrawn his checking account, Jennie wrote:

"I must say I think it is too bad of you—indeed it is hardly honorable knowing as you do that you are dependent on me and that I give you the biggest allowance I possibly can, more than I can afford....You seem to have no real purpose in life and won't realize at the age of 22 that for a man life means work, and hard work if you mean to succeed ... if you have any grit in you and are worth your salt you will try to live within your income and cut down your expenses in order to do it. You cannot but feel ashamed of yourself under the present circumstances—I haven't the heart to write more...."

Jennie wrote a number of similarly strong letters, and they always brought quick remorse and fresh promise of reform from Winston.

But Jennie knew that Winston had a real need for a strong father image. For this job, she drafted Bourke Cockran. Cockran was a New York Tammany politician, a highly successful lawyer, a big, broad-shouldered man with an impressive lion of a head. President Theodore Roosevelt called him, "the greatest orator in America."

Jennie and Cockran had met in Paris shortly after her husband had died, about the same time that Cockran's wife had died. The two fell in love and would have married, but Jennie would not uproot herself and her sons from England. Jennie was always proud of being an American, never lost her American accent and was called "Best U.S. Ambassador." But she knew that Winston's political future was in England and she would not desert her son or his future.

It takes an extraordinary woman to ask her rejected lover to take care of her son, but Jennie never hesitated. Cockran himself was more than willing. He would never have a son of his own, and so he met Winston at the New York dock, took him to his home and to his heart. Many years later, Winston said that Bourke Cockran had been the greatest single influence on his oratory—and then proceeded to quote long excerpts from Cockran's speeches. More than the oratory, however, Cockran gave Winston the strong father influence that he badly needed. It was a relationship that lasted through a lifetime of continuous correspondence and many meetings in England and the United States.

Another part of Jennie's great success with Winston was that she increasingly regarded him as an equal. "My mother was always on hand to help and advise," wrote Winston. "She soon became my ardent ally, furthering my plans and guarding my interests with all her influence and boundless energy. . . . We worked together on even terms, more like brother and sister than mother and son. At least so it seemed to me. And so it continued to the end."

Jennie could do this because she insisted on having her own life, too. Winston was a core of her life, certainly the central core, but she had other cores, too. Even before Winston became famous, Jennie was regarded as "the most important Anglo-Saxon woman of the world." She was an author of books, essays, newspaper articles; a pianist of concert quality who played duets with Paderewski; an artist, playwright, horsewoman, politician, and surely one of the most beautiful women of her time. In a world where women novelists usually took male noms de plume, Jennie became editor and publisher of a spectacular international literary magazine. At a time when there still weren't too many women nurses in the Boer War, Jennie converted a cattle boat into a modern hospital ship and took it down to the wounded, making her own inspection of frontline hospitals. Aside from all this, Jennie married two other husbands. One was as young as Winston, and the other—whom she married at 63 – was even younger than Winston.

This was Jennie's formula for motherhood: love your children, help them in every possible way, but also live your own life to the fullest. Let them enrich your life as much as you enrich theirs. In doing so, do not be so permissive as to let them do whatever they want. And do not be so smothering as to insist they do everything you want. When they are children, give them the fullest responsibility of which they are capable. When they are grown, give them the full wisdom of your experience – but only as much as they want to take.

But again, only by expanding your own life to the utmost of your reach and talent will you be able to let your children go and grow as they should – and earn their increased respect as well as keep their love.

What happened to Winston Churchill is history. He became the Sir Galahad of England and the free world during its greatest time of crisis. He was able to do it because the woman behind him, the woman who shaped him more than anybody else, was his American mother, Jennie, certainly one of the great and unique women of her time.

No wonder Winston Churchill always kept on his desk a copper cast of a hand. It was his mother's hand, and his own hand was almost a replica of it. □

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

Please send me another Carey Pipe for my brother. I have about every kind of pipe you can think of. When in the Service, I purchased pipes in France, Germany and Switzerland, but this is the best pipe I have today. There just couldn't be a better tasting, sweeter smoke than you get from the Carey Pipe.
L. S. Edwardsville, Illinois

By E. A. Carey

Here's what's different about this pipe. It's the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadultered pleasure to smokers. It's so different in smoking quality that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT under patent number 3267941.

It's different than any pipe ever invented. It smokes COOLER—MELLOWER—SWEETER—and DRIER. Even dyed in the wool cigarette smokers find it easier to smoke and enjoy than any pipe, or any cigar they've ever tried. Some say it's as easy as switching from one brand of cigarettes to another.

GIVE IT 30 DAYS—you'll never go back to cigarettes again. No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

Here is the way of it; The hazards of cigarette smoking are not new. Long before the Surgeon General issued his nerve shattering report on SMOKING AND HEALTH, evidence that cigarette smoking was associated with Cancer, coronary artery disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema, was mounting rapidly. It was then that I decided to switch to a pipe. That was over 30 years ago.

Like most other cigarette smokers I just couldn't tolerate the goo, the bitterness, the tongue bite, and that stale, foul, after-taste that results from smoking an ordinary pipe. As a result I dedicated hundreds of hours searching for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite or sludge. In disgust I gave up and went back to cigarettes—and of course back to COUGHING, WHEEZING, CHOKING.

It was then I decided to try to work something out on my own, something that would not leave my mouth tasting like the proverbial blacksmith's glove. Thousands of experiments and five long disappointing years later, almost by accident, I hit upon a solution. A solution so simple but so effective that it made smoking a pipe an entirely new and exciting smoking experience. By harnessing four great natural laws this invention gives you everything you want in a satisfying smoke. It doesn't require any breaking in, from the first puff it smokes cool—it smokes mild—it smokes right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be rested, and it it never has to be cleaned; yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because this invention does not allow the goo to form.

In appearance and in quality, the Carey Pipe is like any of the two or three leading World brands. The bowl is made of the finest selected premium briar, imported especially for this use. The bit is conventional in appearance—made of molded nylon—the newest and finest material for pipe bits. The color and finish are what you would expect in any of the best pipes on the market. It is, in every respect, a pipe you will be proud to smoke. It is entirely free of the outlandish contraptions that have been seen on so many so-called "improved" pipes in the past.

Discover the thrill of this new kind of smoking. Accept our offer to LEND YOU a Carey Pipe for 30 days' trial use.. At the end of the trial period, if you say the Carey Pipe has given you the greatest smoking pleasure of your life, you may keep it. But if you are willing to go back to your old smoking habit, break the Carey into bits, return the pieces and the trial will have cost you nothing.

Before we send you your pipe we would like to know the style you prefer so send us your name TODAY and we'll send you absolutely free our complete trial offer including descriptive literature and pipe styles so you can decide for yourself whether or not thousands of Carey smokers are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

Remember you have nothing to lose. One hundred thousand doctors have kicked the cigarette habit. YOU CAN TOO, THE EASY WAY.

Write today! E. A. Carey, 285C, 1920 Sunnyside Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60640

E. A. Carey, Dept. 285C, 1920 Sunnyside Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60640
Okay Mr. Carey. Send me your complete trial offer so I can decide for myself whether or not your pipe smoking friends are right when they say the Carey pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

QUIZ/By John E. Gibson

Facts You May Not Suspect About Yourself

True or False: If you have a friendly, outgoing personality, you'll be able to have a few drinks and show the effects less than if you're the quiet, reserved type. (See number 4.)

We can't see ourselves as well as others can. And human beings are so complex that often others have difficulty seeing us as we really are. This true-false quiz gives you some clues that may help you discover things about yourself you may not have suspected before.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you're conservative about taking risks—in business, the stock market, or whatever—it's a sign you're lacking in self-confidence.

2. If you have a wide variety of friends and acquaintances—of different types, ages and walks of life—this indicates that you have an inner sense of security and self-confidence.

3. If noisy conditions don't bother you when you're working, this indicates that you're a calm, placid, easygoing individual, with a minimum of emotional conflicts.

4. If you have a friendly, outgoing personality, you'll be able to have a few drinks and show the effects less than if you're the quiet, reserved type.

5. If you have a particular fondness for jokes, gags, witticisms and comic situations, you may get a lot of enjoyment out of life, but you're likely to be lacking when it comes to sober, serious thinking.

6. You're a better judge of your own character and personality if you're an extrovert.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies at the University of Massachusetts have shown that persons with a conservative attitude toward risk-taking—who like to make a careful estimate of the odds before taking a gamble in any department—tend to be highly individualistic and have ample confidence in themselves and in their own judgment. Personality tests showed that people who lack self-confidence are found at two extreme poles: the compulsive risk-takers, who like to take long chances on all sorts of things; and those who are so cautious that they seldom take a risk of any kind if they can help it.

2. True. Studies at the University of Kansas have shown this to be very definitely the case. It was found that people who were lacking in a sense of security felt threatened by persons dissimilar to themselves and tended to avoid them, preferring to associate only with people who closely resembled themselves—in character, temperament and general outlook.

3. False. Psychological studies have shown that people who are extremely high-strung and temperamental work significantly better in loud noise than more emotionally well-balanced personalities. And investigations have also demonstrated that persons with neurotic tendencies are often capable of doing their best work under incredibly noisy conditions.

4. False. Studies have shown that the outgoing personality is much more likely to have his ability impaired when he imbibes than the quiet, reflective type. The former makes friends easier, but the latter holds his liquor better.

5. False. Studies have shown that the ability to laugh at life's foibles tends to go hand in hand with intelligence and the capacity to tackle and solve tough problems.

6. False. Studies show that the introvert knows himself better. However, the extrovert has the advantage of being less prone to soul-searching and self-criticism. As a consequence, he tends to have appreciably more self-esteem. □

MICKEY LOLICH

The Fat Man Comes Into His Own

The Detroit Tigers' pitching ace Mickey Lolich is living proof that a fat man can succeed in big-time athletics. Lolich insists he needs an extra layer of flesh. "Big bellies run in the Lolich family," he says. "We're healthier when we're chubby." He added seven pounds to his 208-pound frame last spring and had a sensational season, winning 26 games. He also carried extra weight in 1968, when he won three games for the Tigers in the World Series, to clinch the championship. Lolich says he's the redemption of the fat man who watches him on TV and shouts to his wife, "Hey, Maude, get me another beer. I wanna be like him." Lolich pitches left-handed, but he's not a natural southpaw. When he was a child, a motorcycle fell on him and broke his left clavicle. He was told to exercise his left arm vigorously. After several months, the exercise had given him more strength as a portsider. Still a lover of motorcycles, he now owns five, including one for his wife, Joyce. . . . A native of Portland, Ore., Lolich prides himself on a "rubber arm" that never gets sore. For several years, he was "second banana" to Detroit's glamorous pitching star, Denny McLain. But Lolich came into his own when McLain fell into losing habits and was traded. Lolich never complained about his "second-class" status, is known for his good-natured temperament and generosity. Manager Billy Martin says of Lolich, "He's a class guy—as well as the best pitcher in the American League."—By Barry Abramson

Worms in People: No Laughing Matter

Only animals get worms, right? Wrong. Public-health experts warn that well over 10 percent of the American population has pinworms. Nor is only among the poor or the disease prevalent deprived. In fact, whites are far more susceptible than blacks, and the disease is not confined to any economic class or region. Children are more commonly affected than adults, and women more than men. The worms live in the intestines. The universal symptom of the disease is anal itching, an intermittent, severe itching that can go without medical attention for months. Children who demonstrate unusual scratching, nervousness or "crankiness," sleeplessness, weight loss, small skin ulcers or scabs around the anus or genitals should be checked by a doctor. And remember: In any household where one person has pinworms, all are presumed to.

The Diet Watch

Are "Water Foods" Really Low-Calorie?

Our bodies are about two-thirds water, so a dieter can lose weight by drinking less water and eating more salt, thereby lowering his body concentration of water. But the dieter who does this is merely losing weight. His fat content remains the same. Water has no calories, so it is not fattening; yet that doesn't mean a dieter can go ahead and freely eat all the "watery" fruits he wants, like watermelon. Some fruits and vegetables that appear to be "all water" have other elements that make them fattening. Among the high-calorie "water" fruits are watermelon (90 calories for a medium serving) and grapes (80 calories for a small bunch). The best low-calorie "water" foods are cucumbers (10 to 15 calories), celery (19 calories for 4 stalks) and lettuce—only one calorie per leaf!—By Harriet La Barre

Jobmanship

What Kind of People Make Successful Salesmen?

Even if you've spent years working with salesmen, you may find this surprising. There are some definite personality differences between the salesman who is moderately successful and the one who is very successful. But the differences probably are not what you expect. At the Industrial Relations Center, University of Chicago, it's been found that high-achievement salesmen seem to have three important personality traits in common: (1) They're strong on personal financial responsibility (this means they manage their own personal income well); (2) They marry early and begin their families early (this means they become providers at a young age, have a strong interest in family activities); and (3) They tend to have extremely stable personalities (you might even say they're conservative, since they're more concerned with keeping what they have rather than planning for improvement or development).

What Kind of Movies Does the Man Who Rates Movies Like?

"I have special tastes in movies, although I claim no special expertise," says Jack Valenti, who, as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, oversees the movie rating system. "I remember the first time I met Darryl Zanuck, the fabled producer. I told him I thought one of his finest films was 'Wilson' back in 1945. Zanuck smiled, as they say, wryly. 'It was a financial bomb,' he said. Thus, my taste does not guarantee box-office success. The kinds of films I like best are history, suspense in the Hitchcockian manner, classic and modern novels brought to the screen, and political films like 'The Best Man' and 'Seven Days in May.' My favorite movies? 'Becket,' 'Young Mr. Lincoln,' 'A Man for All Seasons,' 'Cromwell,' 'The King and I,' and those splendid movies produced by Sam Spiegel—'Lawrence of Arabia,' 'The Bridge on the River Kwai' and 'African Queen.' I am not cheered by unrelieved dreariness and depression, the kind of films that beat at me with bleak admonitions.' —By William Wolf

People and You

Can You Teach Charity To Children?

If you hope your children will become generous adults, interested in the welfare of others, you may be puzzled as to how to guide them. Which works better: explaining what charity accomplishes, or setting a personal example? You can try both; but they won't work equally well. Child-development experts who have experimented found that you can get some results simply by explaining the value of charity. But, for an even better response, it's a good idea to let your children see you putting your words into action. Children who saw the adults acting charitably responded more generously than those who were only "preached" at. Grandma used to call it, "Actions speak louder than words."

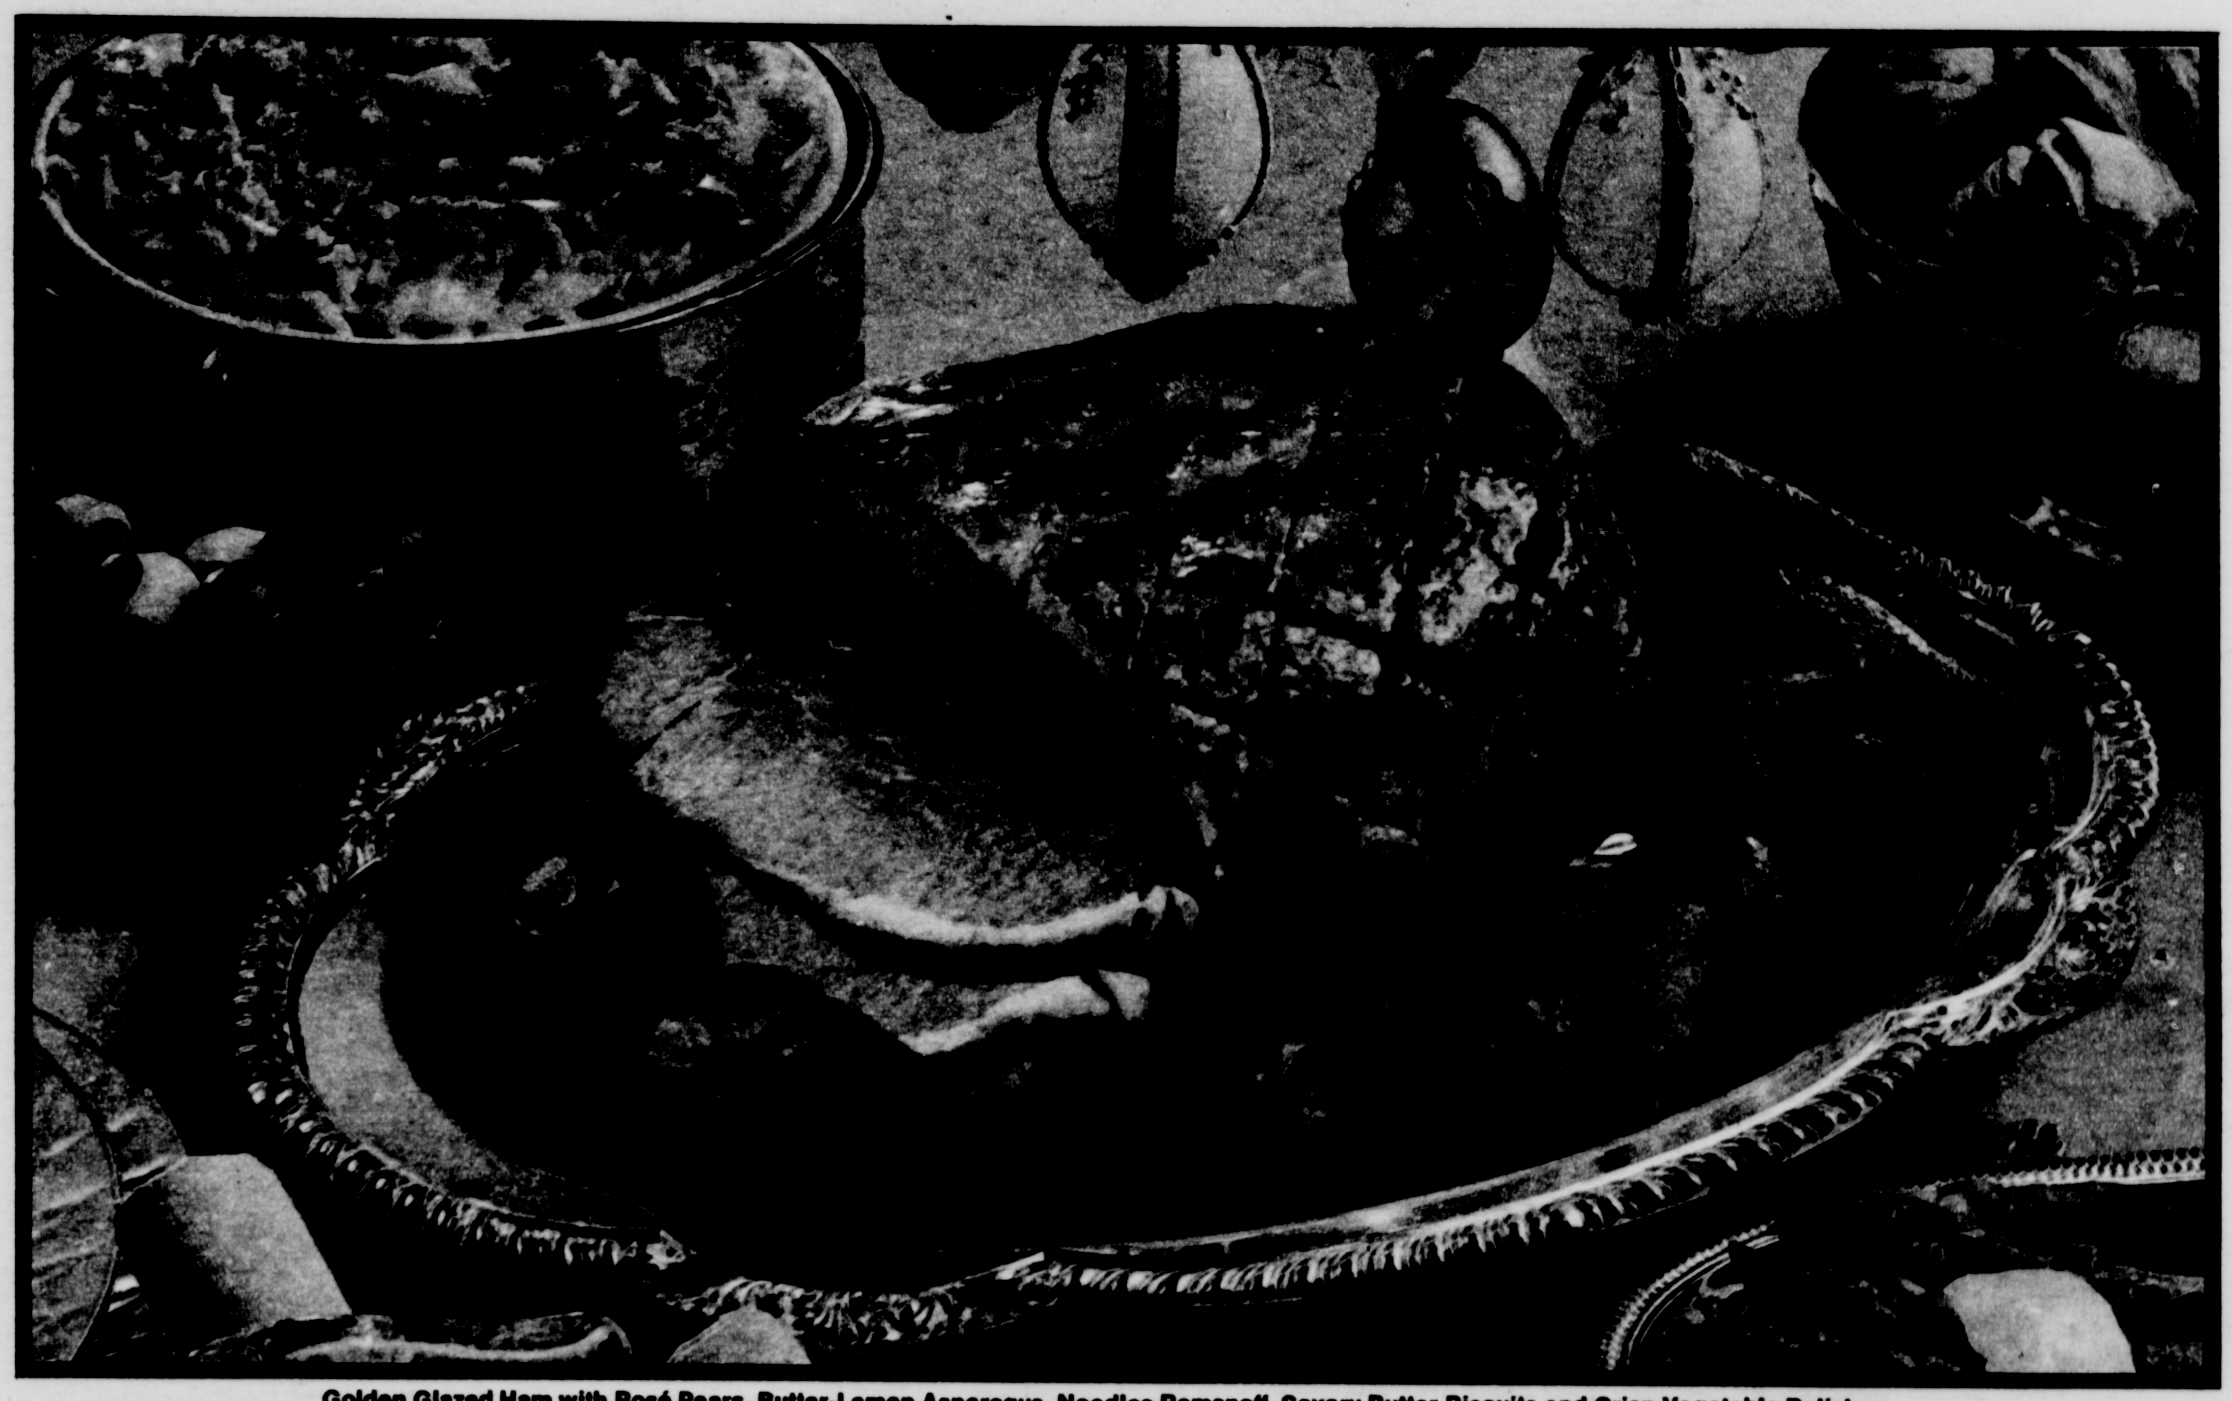
Entertaining the family this Easter? Why not try an Easter buffet? Our recipes are styled for easy serving—and their appetizing array makes a dining room come alive.

This Easter, Let the Family Serve Itself



Golden Glazed Ham with Rosé Pears, Butter-Lemon Asparagus, Noodles Romanoff, Savory Butter Biscuits and Crisp Vegetable Relishes make a tempting, colorful Easter or spring buffet.

GLAZED HAM WITH ROSE PEARS

1 5-lb. boneless fully cooked smoked ham
¾ cup Rosé Pear marinade (recipe below)
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
Rosé Pears (recipe below)
Watercress

1. Preheat oven to 325° F. Place ham on a rack in a shallow foil-lined roasting pan. Heat ham according to directions on label.

2. Meanwhile in small saucepan heat Rosé Pear marinade and brown sugar, bring to boiling; boil uncovered 5 minutes, until syrupy.

3. One half hour before ham is done, turn up oven heat to 425° F. Pour off drippings from pan, score ham fat diamond fashion.

4. Spoon Rosé Pear glaze over ham. Bake 30 minutes longer, basting with glaze 2 or 3 times.

5. To serve, place on large serving platter and surround ham with several Rosé Pears. Garnish with watercress. Serve any remaining Rosé Pears in separate bowl. Makes 10-12 servings

ROSE PEARS

2 cans (29-oz. size) Bartlett pear halves
¾ cup rosé wine or cranberry juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon mixed pickling spices
5 whole cloves
Few drops red food coloring

1. Drain 1 can of pears, reserve syrup. Drain second can of pears, discarding syrup.

2. In 1-qt. saucepan combine reserved pear syrup, rosé wine or cranberry juice, lemon juice, pickling spices, cloves and red food coloring.

3. Heat to boiling, boil uncovered, 3 minutes.

4. Arrange drained pear halves in a shallow glass baking dish. Strain spiced Rosé Pear marinade over pears, cover with plastic film. Refrigerate overnight.

5. Stir occasionally so pears color evenly.

6. Pour off ¾ cup marinade from pears to use in glaze for ham. Serve remaining Rosé Pears as an accompaniment for Glazed Ham or other meats.

Makes about 16 Rosé Pear halves

LEMON-BUTTER ASPARAGUS

4 pkgs. (10-oz. size) frozen asparagus spears
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons lemon juice

1. Cook asparagus according to package directions, drain. Arrange asparagus in serving dish, cover with foil, keep warm.

2. In small skillet heat 3 tablespoons butter until melted, stir in lemon juice, heat to boiling.

3. Pour lemon butter over asparagus. Top with remaining butter.

Makes 8-10 servings

This Easter, Let the Family Serve Itself

NOODLES ROMANOFF

5 qts. boiling water
12 ozs. ½-inch-wide noodles or fettucine noodles (about 6 cups)
3 cups creamed cottage cheese
2 cups sour cream
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1½ cups chopped green onions
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup fine bread crumbs

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Lightly grease 2½-qt. casserole.
2. In 8-12-qt. kettle add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil.
3. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, 7 minutes, until just tender. Drain in a colander, set aside.
4. In large bowl combine cottage cheese, sour cream, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, green onions, garlic and pepper.
5. Add noodles and toss lightly with fork to combine. Turn into casserole,
6. Stir crumbs into remaining 2 tablespoons melted butter, toss lightly with fork. Sprinkle crumbs on top of casserole.
7. Bake for 25-30 minutes, until piping hot. Makes 8-10 servings

SAVORY BUTTER BISCUITS

2 pkgs. (8-oz. size) refrigerated buttermilk extra-light biscuits
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon seasoned salt

1. Preheat oven to 425° F. Separate and arrange biscuits in two 9-inch-round cake pans.
2. Brush surface of rolls with butter, sprinkle with the salt.
3. Bake 10-12 minutes until golden brown. Serve hot.

Makes 20

CRISP VEGETABLE RELISHES

1 lb. carrots, washed
2 bunches radishes, washed
½ bunch celery, washed
1 can (15 ozs.) large stuffed green olives, chilled
1 can (15 ozs.) large black olives, chilled

1. Pare carrots. Cut into sticks; place in ice water, cover and refrigerate. Or make carrot curls: Cut carrots into very thin lengthwise slices with vegetable parer, fasten with wooden picks, place in ice water, refrigerate.
2. Make radish roses: Remove stem and root ends from radishes. Cut thin petals around radishes. Place in ice water, cover, refrigerate.
3. Cut celery into sticks; place in ice water, cover, refrigerate.
4. To serve: Drain vegetables, arrange on attractive serving platter. Place drained green and black olives here and there on vegetables. Cover; refrigerate until just ready to serve.

Makes 8-10 servings

APRICOT MOUSSE WITH FRESH FRUIT

15 pound turkey
1½ cups apricot preserves
½ cup KARO® Light Corn Syrup
3 tablespoons sherry
¾ teaspoon ground ginger
8 LOUISIANA Yams, cooked and peeled or 3 (23-ounce) cans LOUISIANA Yams, drained

Prepare turkey according to instructions. Mix together next 4 ingredients and heat to boiling. Remove from heat. During last 30 minutes of cooking, spoon 1 cup glaze over yams in shallow baking dish and brush turkey frequently with remaining glaze. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Pecan Pie

1 cup KARO Dark Corn Syrup
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tbs. MAZOLA® Margarine, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup pecans, halved or chopped
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

Mix together first 6 ingredients then stir in pecans. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in 400°F. oven 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350°F. and bake 30 to 35 minutes longer. Outer edge of filling should be set, center slightly soft. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
4 egg whites, room temperature
Dash salt
2½ cups heavy cream
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar
1 cup Fresh Fruit Compote, well-drained (recipe below)
Mint sprigs

1. In 2-qt. saucepan combine apricots and 2½ cups water; bring to boiling. Cover, boil gently 30 minutes. Liquid will be almost gone.
2. Place ⅓ of the cooked apricots in blender with ¼ cup water, cover, blend for 30 seconds, until very smooth.
3. Add remaining apricots ⅓ at a time, blending between each addition until very smooth. Use rubber scraper between additions to clean sides of blender.
4. Stir in ¾ cup sugar, set aside.
5. Sprinkle 1 envelope gelatin over ½ cup cold water. Heat over boiling water, stirring until completely dissolved.
6. With blender at medium speed gradually pour in dissolved gelatin, blend until well combined.
7. Place egg whites in large bowl, add salt. Beat with electric mixer until soft peaks form.
8. Gradually add remaining ½ cup sugar, beating after each addition. Continue beating until stiff peaks form when beater is slowly raised.
9. With same beater beat 2 cups heavy cream in chilled bowl until stiff. Stir in vanilla and almond extracts.
10. With large wire whisk, gently fold apricot puree into whipped cream. Add beaten whites in thirds, folding gently until combined.
11. Pour Apricot Mousse mixture into 2½-qt. serving dish. Cover with plastic film, refrigerate. Chill several hours or overnight.
12. Just before serving, beat remaining ½ cup heavy cream with confectioners' sugar until it holds a soft shape. Spoon a ring of whipped cream on surface of mousse.
13. Garnish whipped cream with well-drained fruit and sprigs of mint. Makes 10-12 servings

FRESH FRUIT COMPOTE

2 cans (29-oz. size) whole peeled apricots, drained, or 3 cups cantaloupe melon balls
2 cups seedless green grapes
2 cups blueberries or strawberries
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

1. In large serving bowl combine fruits, sugar and vanilla, toss well. Cover, refrigerate. Chill 2 hours or overnight.
2. Just before serving, mix fruit lightly. Makes about 7 cups, 8-10 servings

GOLDEN-BLOSSOM EASTER CAKE

1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) butter-flavor cake mix
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
Few drops yellow food coloring
Few drops red food coloring
⅓ cup apricot, peach or pineapple jam

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease and lightly flour 2 (9-inch-size) layer-cake pans.
2. Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Stir in lemon rind.
3. Scoop out 1 cup cake batter into small bowl; tint with few drops yellow food coloring to a pleasing yellow.
4. Scoop out 1 cup cake batter into a small bowl; using a few drops yellow and a few drops red food coloring, tint to a pleasing orange.
5. Divide untinted batter between the two cake pans. Divide tinted batters evenly between the two cake pans. With a spatula cut through batter lightly to create marble effect.
6. Bake and cool according to package directions.
7. When layers are completely cool spread top of bottom layer with jam. Frost with Golden-Blossom Frosting.

Makes 8-10 slices

GOLDEN-BLOSSOM FROSTING

1 pkg. (6.5 ozs.) fluffy white frosting mix
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
½ cup flaked coconut
5 large yellow or orange gumdrops
Few drops yellow food coloring
Few drops red food coloring
10 green spearmint gumdrop leaves

1. Make up fluffy white frosting mix according to package-label directions. Stir in lemon rind and coconut.
2. Using about ⅓ cup frosting, spread lightly on top of jam-topped layer. Top with remaining layer. Finish frosting sides and top of cake.
3. Sprinkle three drops yellow food coloring here and there on top of cake, repeat with red food coloring. Using spatula, swirl frosting to make a golden-orange color.
4. Snip yellow gumdrops criss-cross fashion and open slightly to make "blossoms." Place around edge of cake. Set green gumdrop leaves next to "blossoms."
5. Place cake on serving plate. This frosting is best served the same day. If stored overnight, do not use an airtight container.

From Fleischmann's. The greatest homebaking breakthrough since yeast.

Now you won't have to bake a batch of yeast dough as soon as you've made it. With new Freezer-Doughs, you can make the doughs for rolls, loaves, croissants, coffee cakes or buns, all at once. And freeze them.

Then just let thaw and rise, and bake as you're in the mood for something homemade. Since Freezer-Doughs don't rise first, they take less than one-third the freezer space of baked goods. And they were developed to keep in that freshly made flavor.

Combine 1¼ c. water, ½ c. milk and ⅓ c. Fleischmann's Margarine in a pan. Heat until liquids are very warm (120°F-130°F.). Gradually add to dry ingredients; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 2 eggs at room temperature and ½ c. flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough flour (up to 3 or 4 c.) to make a soft dough. Turn onto floured board; knead until smooth and elastic (8 to 10 minutes). Cover, let rest 20 minutes.

Punch dough down. Divide into 48 pieces. Form each into a 9-inch rope. For bowknots, tie once loosely. For coils, hold one end of roll firmly and wind dough loosely around. For figure 8's, shape into an 8, sealing ends. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover with plastic wrap and foil, sealing well. Freeze until firm. Transfer to plastic bags. Freeze up to 4 weeks.

Karen Valentine: My Great Recipe That "Rediscovers" Chicken

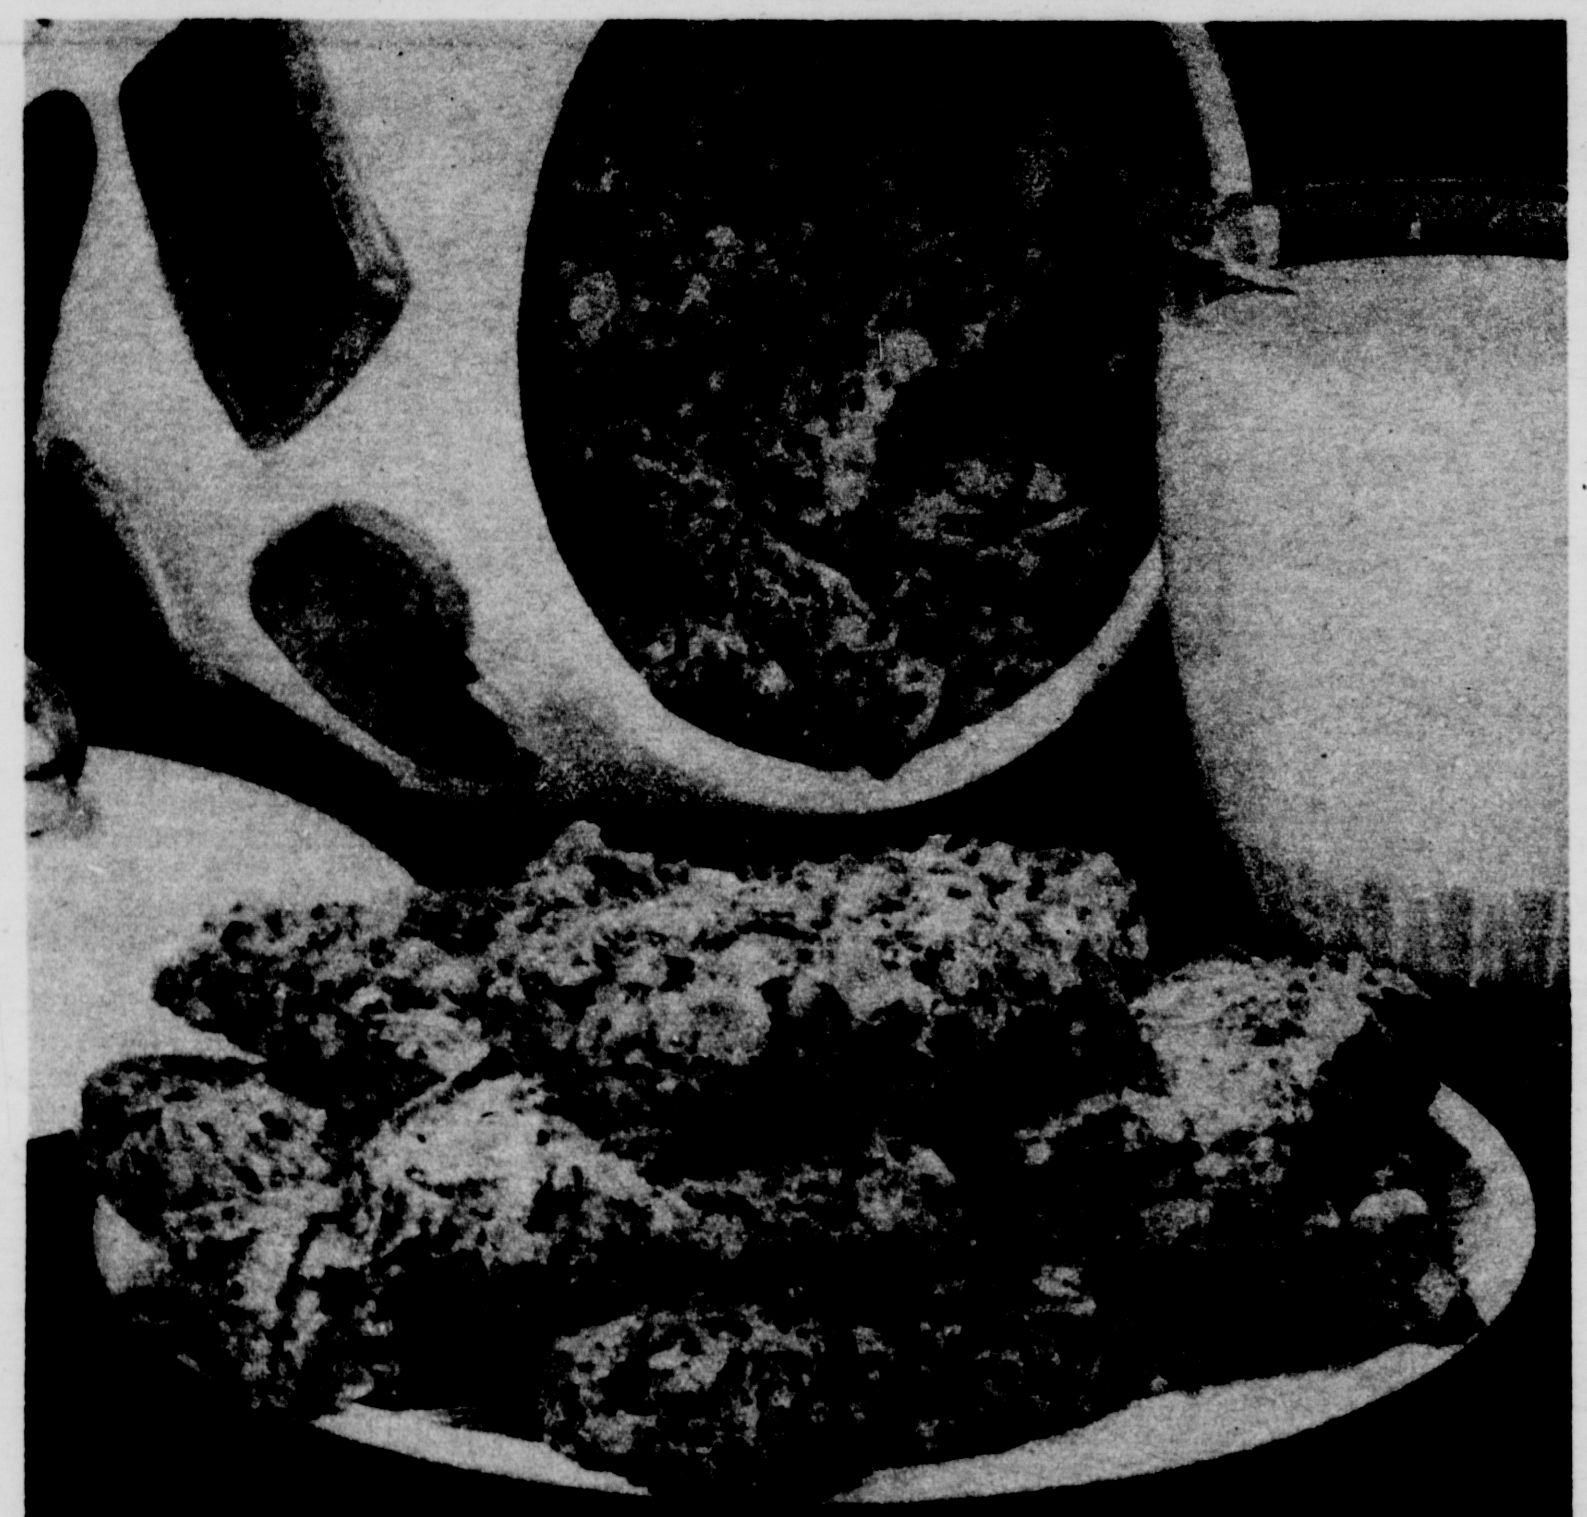
By Karen Valentine,
In Conversation with Helen Dorsey



I'm fussy about who comes to dinner. I never invite anybody who will put ketchup on my meat loaf. I hate that! It's an insult when you've gone to all the trouble. I think people should at least taste before they start doctoring.

We really like to entertain, though usually never more than eight. It's fun. I like to cook, and when we have people over, Mac [her husband, actor Carl "Mac" McLaughlin, Jr.] will take over the meat section and I'll cook the vegetables and make a salad.

I've just started eating chicken again. I've changed a lot. I've broadened my scope. I eat fish and everything now. I used to have a chicken hangup. My father was a chicken farmer, and I lived on a chicken ranch all my life. I've had eggs and chicken every way imaginable, and for a while, I just couldn't stand them around.

Karen's Marinated Chicken. An admitted seasoning-lover, she says, "I usually take everything out of the spice cabinet and let it sit."

KAREN VALENTINE'S MARINATED CHICKEN

2 chickens (2½-3 lbs. each), cut into serving pieces
1 cup dry sherry
¼ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
2½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika
1½ teaspoons thyme leaves
1½ teaspoons basil leaves
1 teaspoon tarragon leaves
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon garlic powder
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper

Place chicken in a tight-fitting container or plastic bag; set aside. Combine remaining ingredients; pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate 12 hours or longer. Remove chicken from marinade. Place on grill over hot charcoal. Broil for 45 to 60 minutes, turning and basting frequently. Or place skin-side up on rack in roasting pan and bake in a preheated oven at 350°F. for 1 hour, or until chicken is tender, basting frequently with marinade. Serve with corn on the cob or cooked rice, tossed salad. Serves 6

Afterthoughts: Use same marinade on chops, steaks or butterfly leg of lamb. Herbs may be varied to suit meat used.

...and get every smidgeon of the juices and flavor

The Basic Idea (Brrrr...it's beautiful)

Once you discover this new method (we call it Freezer-to-Table Cookery) you'll never thaw your roasts, poultry or fish again. And everything you cook will be more tender and flavorful, because you don't lose the juices, as you do when you thaw.

THE RIGHT START: WRAP IT RIGHT! Food technologists consider heavy duty aluminum foil best for freezing. So place the food on a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. (First remove the plastic wrap you bought them in. These see-through wraps are fine for display in the store, but were not meant for freezing.)

Bring foil up over top of food and double-fold down tight, pressing out all air pockets. Air in the package causes food to dry out, lose flavor. (It's virtually impossible to get all the air out of plastic bags, so they shouldn't be used for freezing.)

Next, fold ends up tight against food. Label package with contents, weight and date. Your food stays fresh and full-flavored because Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap is a solid sheet of strong, flexible aluminum that keeps moisture in, keeps air out. Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength...a special kind of strength that resists tearing and puncturing.

Freezer-to-Table Meats

1. (4 lb. rolled rib roast) Remove foil-wrapped meat from freezer, and place in foil-lined roasting pan. Preheat oven to 400°.

2. Loosen foil across the top and at the ends of meat to allow heat to circulate and roast 3 hours.

3. During the final half hour of cooking turn foil back from meat completely so the meat can brown. Gorgeous! Rare and juicy...actually tastier than if you'd taken hours to thaw it.

Neat Gravy Trick: Bundle up the juices in the foil you cooked the meat in, hold over a pan and pierce the foil with a knife. Easy, and no spillage.

ROAST BEEF (rolled top sirloin, cross rib or eye round)	Oven Temp.	Approx. Cooking Time* per pound
		Rare	Medium	Well Done
	400°F	40-45 min.	46-52 min.	54-60 min.

Freezer-to-Table Poultry

To Freeze: Truss bird and brush with melted shortening. Place bird breast up on length of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Bring up long ends of foil and double-fold down tightly to bird, pressing out the air between bird and foil. Fold up foil at each end, envelope style, and press close to bird. Label with contents, date and weight and freeze.

To Roast: 1. (3½-4 lb. frozen chicken) Place frozen bird, foil-wrapped, in foil-lined pan.

2. Preheat oven to 450°. Loosen foil across top and at ends to allow heat to circulate.

3. Place bird in oven and roast 2 hours. Then turn back foil from the bird and roast uncovered for another 20 minutes to allow bird to brown.

Make your favorite stuffing and bake it separately in a tightly sealed Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap packet. Stays moist and luscious! No pan to scour!

CHICKEN
Weight	Oven Temperature	Approx. Cooking Time
3½ to 4 lbs.	450°F	2 hours, 20 minutes
4½ to 5 lbs.	450°F	2 hours, 50 minutes
5½ to 6 lbs.	450°F	3 hours, 45 minutes

Freezer-to-Table Fish

To Freeze: Clean and wash fish. Place, dripping wet, on a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Bring up foil and double-fold tightly, pressing out air. Fold ends tight against fish. Label with contents, weight and date. Important: get fish into the freezer fast.

To Bake: (8 to 10 oz. whole fish or fillets.)

1. Remove foil wrapped fish from freezer. Place, completely wrapped, on shallow foil-lined baking pan.

2. Bake for 30 minutes in oven pre-heated to 450°. (The foil prevents fishy cooking odors and keeps the flesh flaky and tender.) Then turn back the foil.

3. Dot with butter or margarine, sprinkle with slivered almonds, salt and pepper and bake for 10 more minutes.

For variety: Sprinkle fish with chopped parsley and chives, mixed with a little dry oregano, dill or tarragon. A real gourmet touch!

FISH	Oven Temp.	Approx. Cooking Time
12 oz. fillets or small whole fish, such as trout	450°F	40 minutes
2 to 2½ lb. whole baking fish, fish steak or large fillet	450°F	55 minutes
3 lb. whole baking fish	450°F	1 hour, 15 minutes

Doctors' Tests Show How You Can Actually Help Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...Due to Inflammation and Infection. Also Get Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Rectal Itching and Pain in Such Tissues.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind.

You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H® also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure and try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 persons examined, especially children, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system.

Ever wonder how the stars keep their faces so young . . . so smooth . . . so attractive? Wonder no more! It's not expensive surgery, but a safe, simple undetectable device created by a renowned Hollywood make-up artist that literally "lifts" away years the moment it's put in place. The amazing Instant Face Lift has long been one of Hollywood's most guarded beauty secrets . . . and now it can be yours for only $5.95.

SHARE THE "FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH" SECRET OF THE WORLD'S MOST GLAMOROUS STARS

Yes, now you can use the very same Instant Face Lift that temporarily smoothes away wrinkles . . . wipes out crows feet and unsightly lines around your mouth . . . gently firms sagging skin around your neck and chin. And you'll do it in a few minutes time with the famous Traynor Face Lift . . . Now available to the public for the first time.

Mark Traynor, the beauty expert and make-up genius who created Instant Face Lift to keep stars and personalities looking their very best—forever young and attractive—wants you to share their secret. He wants you to discover and enjoy his instant step to beauty and achieve the same fabulous results as the stars who have learned to "lift" away the years and look years younger without surgery . . . without creams . . . and without treatments of any kind!

How Age Lines and Sags Vanish—Instantly

The Traynor Lift is so amazing—yet so simple to use. Set includes attachments that are concealed by your hair-do—elastic lift-band, tension mounts, everything you need. For an instant face lift you simply position the Traynor Lift at temples or under ear lobes to smooth out wrinkles and sagging. Use for neck, chin, eyes or mouth to tighten skin gently but firmly at your problem area.

TRAYNOR'S FACE LIFT WORKS IN MINUTES TO BANISH TELL-TALE LINES FROM YOUR MOUTH, FROM YOUR EYES, FROM YOUR CHIN AND NECK

The real beauty of this "miracle" technique is the amazing speed in which it works! In minutes you actually see wrinkles, lines and sags disappear from your face. What a thrill to see smile lines smoothed away . . . sags on your neck and under your chin disappear . . . wrinkles around your eyes vanish—as if by magic! The Traynor Lift does it all in just minutes. And suddenly you look in the mirror and there's a "new you" . . . a more beautiful you . . . A YOUNGER YOU!

THE RESULTS OF EXPENSIVE FACE LIFT SURGERY IN YOUR OWN BEDROOM!

That's right! You do it all yourself—following the easy, step-by-step instructions personally written by Mark Traynor himself. His famous "Lift" is composed of hidden attachments that go on easily, effortlessly—creating tension on the areas of your face and neck you want smoothed. The hypo-allergenic, breathable tapes are secure and safe—never a worry! Special adjustments allow one size to fit everyone. This temporary face lift works in the same way as plastic surgery—except there is no surgery or treatment of any kind involved. You simply attach the lift to hidden locations beneath your hair, then place the elastic "invisible" bands over your head.

Advice to Mothers: How to Get the Gift You Want

By Lorraine Collins

If you are a mother, you know the chances are pretty good that some year you will receive a knitted garbage-can cover for Mother's Day, or a black-lace bikini apron for Christmas. Your family loves you, and they want to choose unique and beautiful gifts for you; but considering the problems they face, you're lucky you don't have a drawerful of diamond-studded can openers.

In the first place, you are the only experienced shopper in the family. Just by being the mother and chief shopper, you know an odd assortment of facts about the others. You know Jenny hates stripes, loves purple and won't wear ankle socks with a skirt. You know Billy always loses mittens but can wear the same pair of gloves all winter. You know the favorite brands of toothpaste, hair cream and candy of everyone in the family, and whether they like fruit, murder mysteries or jigsaw puzzles. You know collar sizes, waist measurements and which recording star is the current favorite.

But who knows anything about you?

When your loved ones set out to buy you something you'd really like, the chances are that they haven't the foggiest idea what it might be. And if they try to get a clue from past performances, they will be even more mystified. For instance, I once astonished my husband by reacting with misty-eyed joy when I got a Donald Duck night-light for my birthday. I also once told him that what I really wanted for Mother's Day was a truckload of fertilizer for our new lawn.

"If you really insist on saying, 'I don't care what it is, as long as you pick it out'—I hope you'll like your Army-surplus sleeping bag!"

One neighbor of ours was dumbfounded when he caused his wife to weep inconsolably because he gave her an electric mixer; what she really wanted was a bag of horehound candy. I heard of another case where a mother returned a bottle of French perfume and got an alarm clock.

The fact is that mothers are both sentimental and practical, in equal portions. Our families recognize this, and are torn between two opposing desires when they give us gifts. Instinctively they may think of something practical, to help us with all that housework. (They feel guilty about housework.) But then they think of buying something feminine and frivolous so we'll know we are still glamorous to them after all those years in the utility room.

It is in trying to meet both requirements at once that our families discover such hybrids as the mink dust mop and the steam iron with a mother-of-pearl handle.

Obviously, in this as in other matters, our families need our help. We cannot simply abandon them in a quagmire of indecision, but must lead them gently toward a solution. To help your family and to take the uncertainty out of the next holiday, I offer these few suggestions:

1. Always warn your husband and children in advance that an important anniversary or holiday is looming on the horizon. Never take it for granted that they know Christmas is December 25th or that Mother's Day is in May. They do want to get you something, and they will feel guilty and inadequate if the important day finds them unprepared. For their sakes, you must learn to say things like, "Gee! In only two weeks I'll be 32!"

2. Next, decide whether you want a practical or a frivolous gift this time, and then let them know. You can be direct or indirect: "This year, let's get each other bathroom fixtures for Christmas." Or, "You know, I saw the cutest frilly nightie in the store today, but I always hate to buy that sort of thing for myself. They had it in a size 12, too."

3. Finally, realize that if you actually do want to be surprised, you'd better be willing to be surprised. Don't cheat by harboring a secret wish for something special, because it has been amply demonstrated that mothers are different from other members of the family, and they think different thoughts. It is highly unlikely that your husband and children are going to spontaneously discover that you secretly covet a painting by Van Gogh.

If you really insist on saying, "I don't care what it is, as long as you pick it out"—I hope you'll like your Army-surplus sleeping bag! □

We created Serutan like a fine old recipe with natural ingredients to help you overcome constipation the most natural way.

We blend a rare, moisture-holding plant with ingredients from corn, oats, and defatted wheat germ. Not a harsh chemical or drug in it, so it won't cause irritation or griping.

Serutan forms a soft gel that moistens food wastes and produces bulk to stimulate your sluggish colon. Very different from magnesia or harsh chemicals.

Taken daily, Serutan will get you regular, and keep you regular—even if you've had a problem for years. Fruit flavored, regular, or toasted granules.

Serutan.

A Reader's Remembrance:

The Day I Met LBJ

In November of 1962, I was working for the Democratic party in San Jose, organizing the campaign for a congressional representative. It was just before election day. Tension was mounting—and so was my work. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was to make a campaign swing through our area, and it was my job to coordinate time, place and appearances with Johnson's team for an outdoor rally.

Mr. Johnson's advance man and I had chosen the front of City Hall at 5 p.m. for the gathering, hoping for a large after-work crowd. It wasn't the best site in the world, but it was the best in San Jose, and we settled for it.

With the arrangements made, I headed for the airport to meet Mr. Johnson. The plane was late, and at 5 o'clock in front of City Hall—no LBJ. By the time we did arrive, the crowd that had numbered 1,000 at 5 p.m. had dwindled to about 50. The speaker's platform was squeezed full of candidates, a band was there, but the plaza was practically empty.

"The speaker's platform was squeezed full of candidates, a band was there, but the plaza was practically empty. Clearly disappointed, Mr. Johnson stared out at the meager audience."

Clearly disappointed, Mr. Johnson stared out at the meager audience. After the speeches were over, he turned to me.

"Son," he said with a quizzical smile, "the next time you're expecting a crowd this size, why don't you just hold the meeting in a phone booth?"

Pet Corner

An Introduction to Turtles

Turtles make relatively care-free pets—and they're more entertaining than you might imagine. If your child comes home with a turtle, consider providing a terrarium in which it can live. A terrarium can be easily constructed within a glass aquarium. Build up a land area of sand or soil several inches deep into which you can sink a pan of water. The water should be: 1) kept at room temperature, 2) deep enough to allow the turtle to swim freely and to eat his food underwater, 3) changed daily. Connect the land area and the pan of water by a few rocks. Keep the terrarium above 68 degrees. (Another approach: Turtles, when small, can share aquariums with certain fish. They will need a piece of Styrofoam to float on, and they should be put in a separate pan of water once a day for feeding.) Precaution: To avoid salmonella infection, be sure Junior washes his hands thoroughly after handling his turtle. Turtles should not be kissed. Even the "cutest" ones.

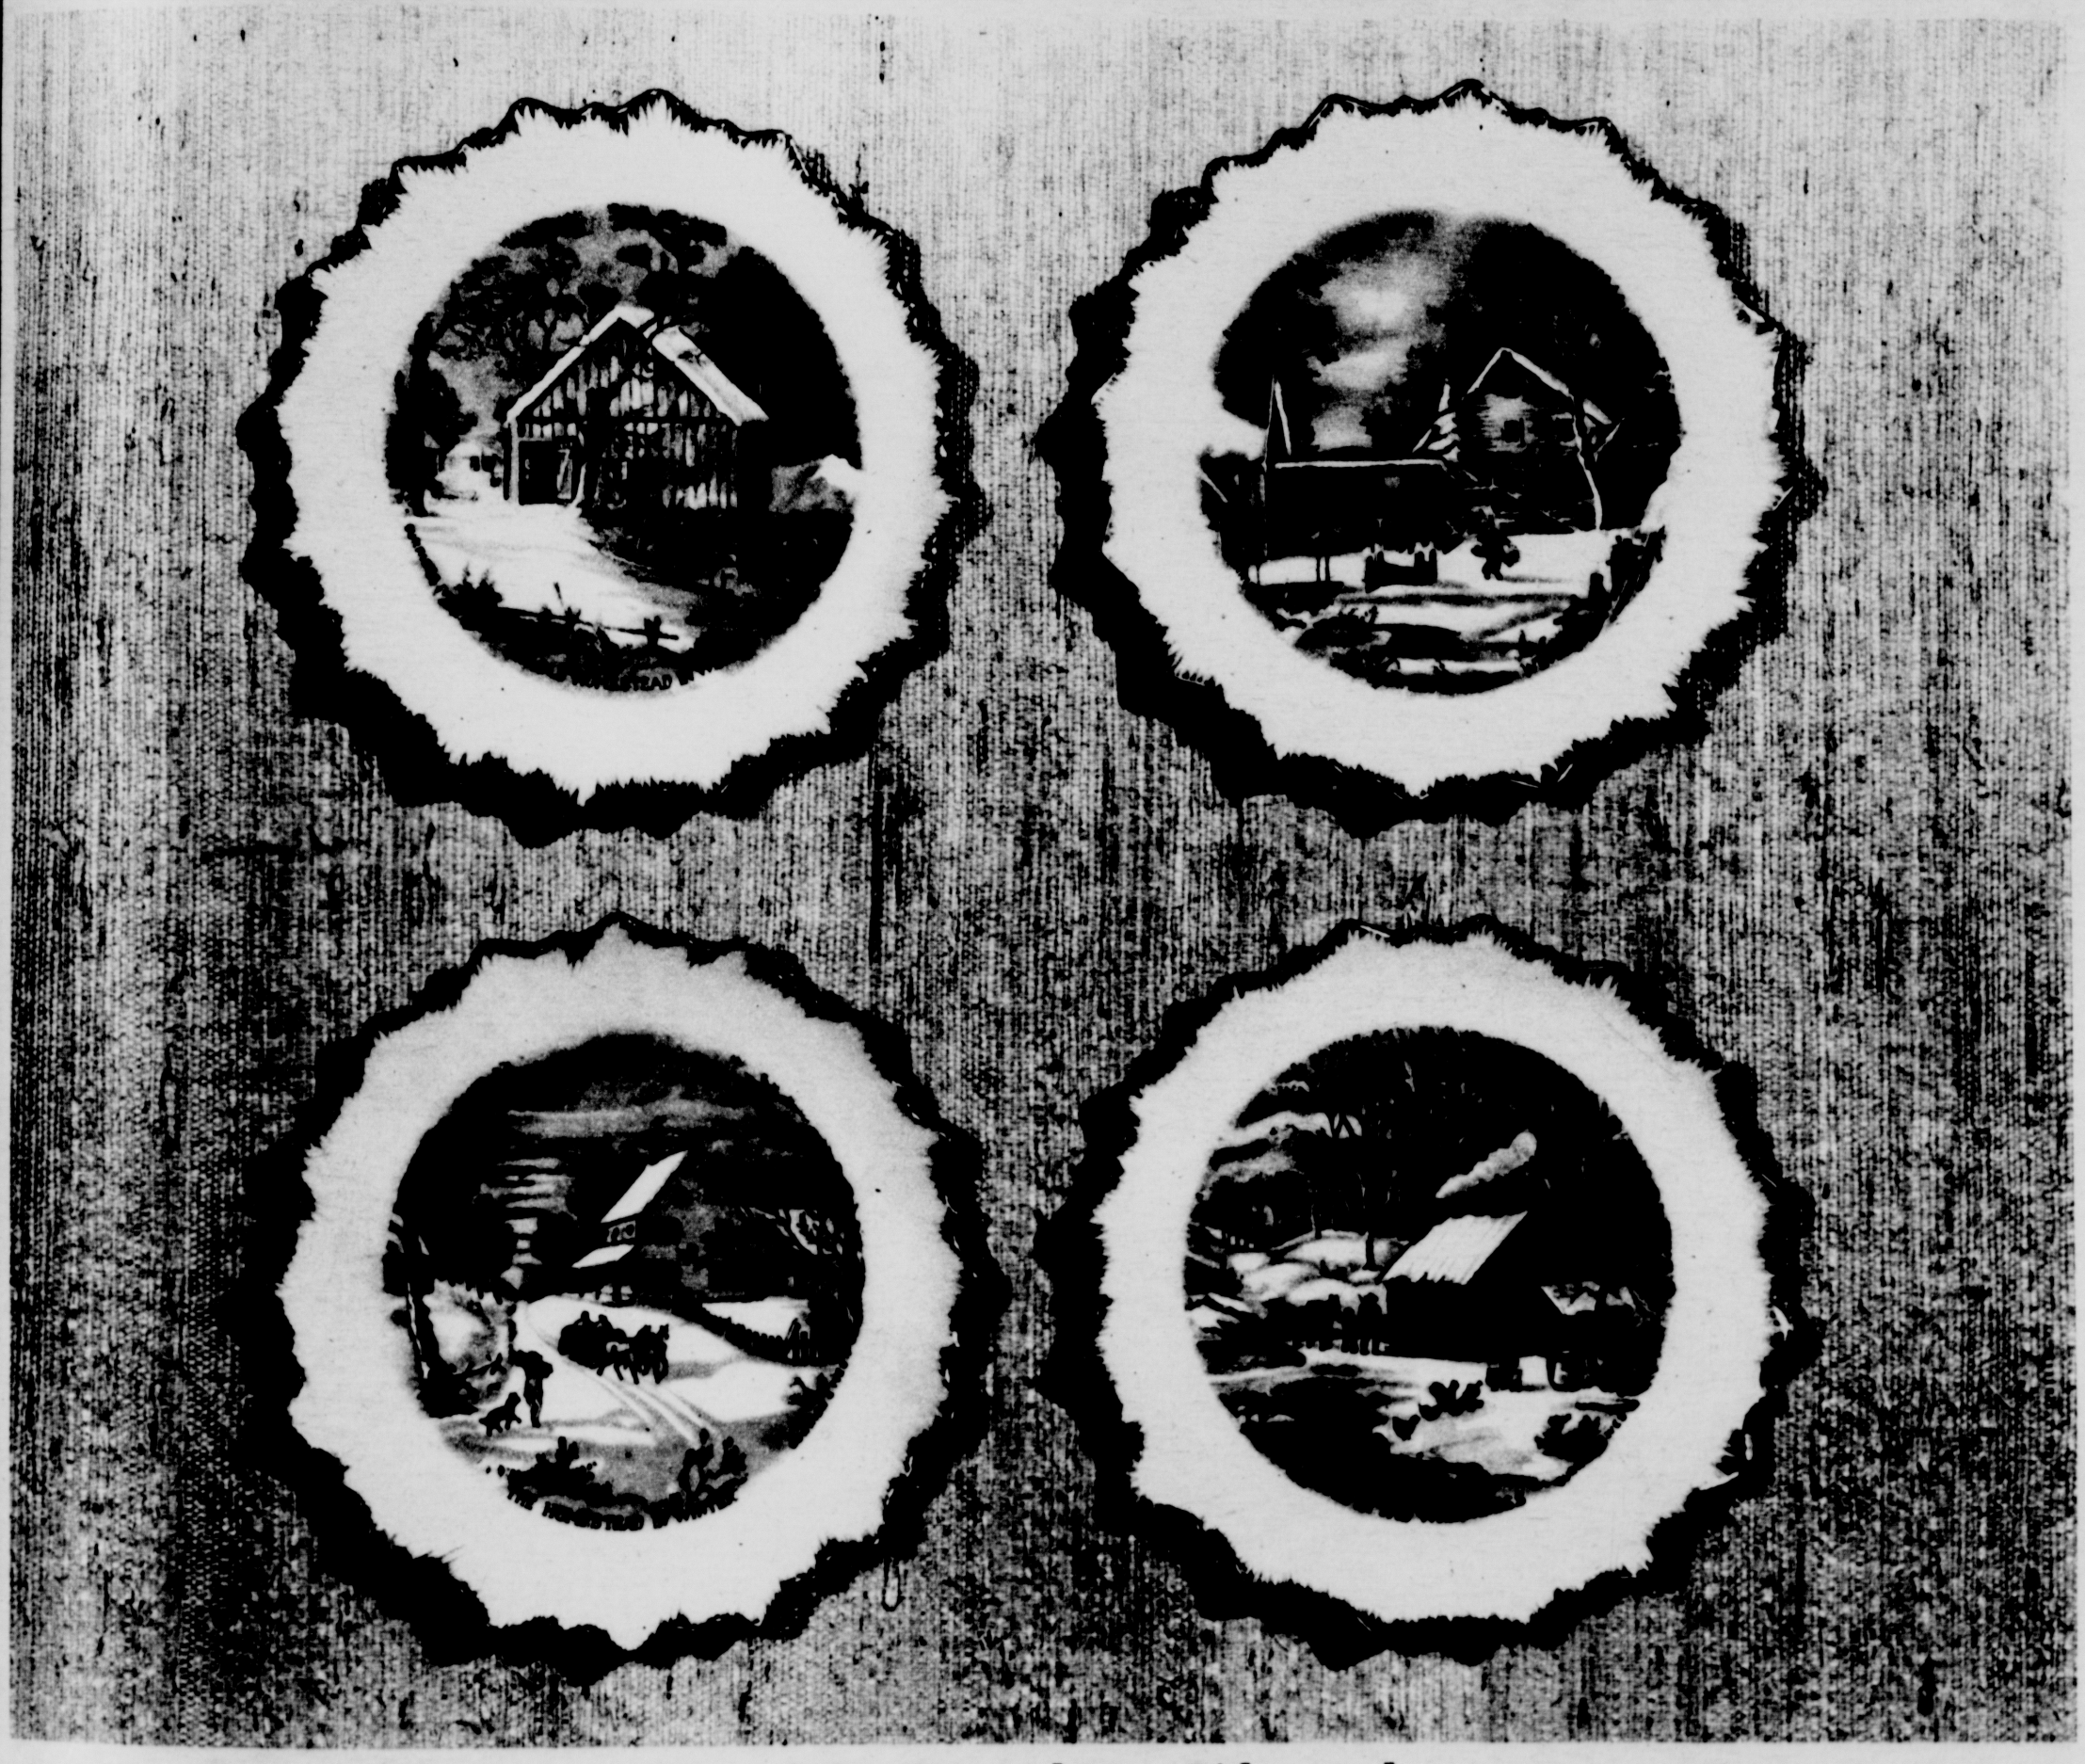
Charming Currier & Ives Decorator Dishes in Full Color



Original Currier and Ives Lithographs Reproduced on Delicate Porcelain with Fine Golden Trim Edge

Here is just the setting that a fine Currier and Ives deserves. Yes, it's almost as if the qualities of fine translucent porcelain and the delicate colors and tints of these works were made for each other. Together we've created the very essence of Early Americana certain to make an incredibly beautiful decorating effect however they are hung. Each work captures a special sense of time and beauty rich with that particularly innocent and simple atmosphere that typifies a genuine Currier & Ives. Unfortunately it is impossible to reproduce all the detail and artistry from the small black and white illustrations here, only when you actually see these collector's pieces can you fully appreciate their drama and appeal.

THIS OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON

So lovely you'll want to order several sets while this special offer lasts, we urge you to order right away. Each plate in lovely full color is genuine porcelain, edged with a golden finish and measures a full 7¼" in diameter. All four are yours for just $4.98 on full money back guarantee, but hurry, this offer will not be repeated this season.

DAME AGATHA CHRISTIE
A woman of mystery
—in more ways than one

"I probably could write the same book again and again, and nobody would notice," says the celebrated but little-known Agatha Christie, British writer of mysteries. At 81, she has just published her 81st book. Back in 1915, her sister bet her she couldn't write a detective story. Until then, young Agatha had been writing stories of "unrelieved gloom, in which most of the characters died." But with that challenge, she created her famous detective, Hercule Poirot. She has one daughter, Rosalind, who became her "severest critic—guessing the outcome of all my plots." In 1926, under the pressure of constant work, her own mother's death and the impending breakup of her marriage, Agatha suffered an attack of amnesia. The British press accused her of staging the attack as a publicity stunt. Stung, she vowed that henceforth her private life would remain private—and so it has.

The rent-a-yacht business not only is here, it's flourishing. One New York firm (World Yacht Enterprises Ltd.) can provide you with anything from a 50-footer to a 300-foot floating palace —in 20 places around the world. All the boats (650 of them) have experienced captains and crews, and the firm also will provision them if the customer wishes. The cost, naturally, depends on just how much luxury is wanted. Estimates per person run from under $200 a week, including meals, to over $1,000 on a super-deluxe job. To get to his yacht, the renter simply flies to a nearby airport in Mexico, the Caribbean, the Mediterranean or the South Pacific.

This Week's Book Quote: Even the most troublesome issues of our day have their other side. Overcrowding: "There are overcrowded cities, but not an overcrowded earth. You could take all the construction that laces and graces and defaces the globe—all the villages and cities and huts and houses and buildings and factories and roads, and put the whole thing down in Greenland, and it would be lost among the glaciers." Crime: "The homicide rate is 70 percent less than in 1933, and the robbery rate is 30 percent less. Violent crime in the big cities was highest immediately after the Civil War. It rose also after World War II to a height much higher than now." (From "The Case for Optimism," by James Dillet Freeman, Harper, $4.95.)

BURTONS AND BARONESS
A look from the lady

Will Liz Taylor stand for Richard Burton's looking at another woman? Sometimes, perhaps, but Liz doesn't appear to be especially pleased about her husband's proximity to the Baroness Guy de Rothschild at this Paris show, a benefit for the United Jewish Appeal. The entertainer was Liza Minnelli, opening a series of one-woman shows in the French capital. Baron Rothschild organized the evening and presided over the benefit.

BOTTLED-UP FEELINGS

BY RICHARD ARMOUR

It once was great when I no more
My bottles need return.
I tossed them in a vacant lot
And didn't give a durn.

An end to all the former toil,
And paying a deposit.
No longer stored I bottles up,
Then lugged them from the closet.

But now again I pay, I store,
I haul . . . I think ecology
Is very nice for earth and things,
But owes me an apology.

Whenas, my lord, we disagree,
I face your manly sneers
And argue very rationally

She called the police station to ask if anyone had found a lost cat. She wanted to impress upon the officer the great importance Ramona was to the family: "She's so intelligent, officer, sometimes she almost talks to me."

"In that case, ma'am," said the impatient voice on the telephone, "you'd better hang up. She may be trying to phone you." —Conrad Fiorello

During this Limited Enrollment Period you the readers of Family Weekly can enroll yourself and all eligible members of your family simply by filling in and mailing the Enrollment Form on the back cover of this booklet with only $1. It's that easy!

But to take advantage of Extra Cash/ Plus, you must mail your Enrollment Form before midnight March 29. Your protection begins just as soon as we receive your form and issue your policy. You gain nothing by waiting—act now—please mail your Enrollment Form today!

Now, for the very first time, you can get tax-free cash paid direct to you—not to the doctor or hospital unless you tell us to—when either you or a covered family member is hospitalized for sickness or injury—paid from the first day for up to 25 months . . . PLUS your cash benefits increase each year for five years at no additional premium just to help you keep up with the rising cost of living.

And you can enroll right from this Family Weekly booklet without having to see a company salesman, without answering health questions, without the usual insurance investigations . . . without any red tape.

Here's how to get your Extra Cash/ Plus in addition to ordinary health insurance

All you need to do is fill in and mail the short Enrollment Form with $1 before midnight March 29. It's that simple!

With hospital costs reaching nearly $100 a day across the country, no matter how much ordinary health insurance you have it probably won't cover all your medical and hospital expenses today . . . and it certainly won't cover the increasing costs in the months and years ahead.

But even if it does, almost every family knows the many extra bills and expenses that come when there's

It's to help meet these needs . . . to provide the cushion of extra cash, that N-BF Life Insurance Corporation created the Extra Cash/Plus Plan that pays you tax-free cash when you need it most . . . extra cash you can use any way you wish . . . tax-free cash that you don't have to account for to anyone.

Without the cash to pay the additional bills and the extra expenses, you could leave the hospital without the money to meet your obligations, or even to meet your household expenses. Without the Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you might have personal debts you can't pay.

A steady flow of cash paid from 1st day in hospital

But with cash benefits day after day, week after week, month after month paid by your Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you can have a steady flow of cash to meet your additional needs.

Your cash benefits begin the very first day — there's no waiting period — and benefits are paid for as long as hospitalization continues, even up to 25 months—more than two full years—for each new stay in the hospital for sickness or accident. PLUS: you get extra benefits for up to 30 days when you or a covered family member must be confined to the intensive care unit and you're paid for the first 30 days of convalescent or nursing home care following hospitalization —all at the same low premium.

Your Extra Cash/Plus Plan pays you directly in addition to everything you receive from any other Insurance company — even Blue Cross and Medicare. You're paid your full cash benefits even if other insurance pays all your expenses.

All of your unmarried dependent children residing in your home may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife—if neither has been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications!

Generous benefits at 65 and over paid in addition to Medicare

If you're over 65, or when you become 65, because Medicare will pay many of your medical and hospital expenses, your Extra Cash/Plus Plan will pay you $300 a month for the first two months you're in the hospital and then $600 a month for the next 23 months. And you get up to $300 extra benefits for up to 30 days of intensive care and convalescent or nursing home benefits for up to 30 days following hospitalization.

Premiums are kept low— because there's no costly red tape

Your policy will be issued to you on your application without the usual fuss or bother and with no red tape.

These few customary exclusions help keep your premiums low: conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement in a federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured. Pre-existing conditions are covered when hospitalization begins two years* or more after protection starts — and there is no medical examination to enroll.

Regardless of your age or size of your family, your first full month is only $1

You get all these benefits now plus a 5% increase in your extra cash benefits each year for five years—a total increase of 25%—to keep up with the rising costs of everything you have to buy. And you get this protection for yourself and your entire family for even less than you'd think. Regardless of your age or the size of your family, your first full month's protection is only $1. You pay only these low monthly rates* according to your actual age at the time of each renewal (when both husband and wife are covered, the husband is the insured):

LOW MONTHLY RATES*

Age of Insured Policyholder*	Policyholder	Policyholder and Spouse
19 - 44	$4.50	$8.50
45 - 54	5.50	10.00
55 - 64	6.50	11.50
65 and over	8.00	14.50

For only $2.00 a month more you can cover all your children—no matter how many—who are unmarried, dependent on you and are between one month and 19 years old. And, every addition to your family is automatically covered at one month of age with no additional premium.

NOTE: And once issued to you, your policy can never be cancelled or your rates changed no matter how old you grow, no matter how poor your health becomes, no matter how many claims you make unless we refuse to renew or change rates for all policies of the same classification in your entire state.

How can the rates be so low for so much protection?

The answer is simple. The Extra Cash/Plus Plan was created by the National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation (a nation-wide leader in low cost group plans for veterans, and others) for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. And because we sell through the U.S. mail, sales costs are kept very low and you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.

Generous Benefits if You Are 65 or Over... Pays in Addition to Medicare!

Medicare payments are great and will pay many of your medical and hospital expenses but can fall far short of your money needs when a prolonged hospitalization hits you.

The National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation, Chicago, Illinois, is a member of The Continental Corporation, among the largest insurance groups in the entire world. National-Ben Franklin is a legal reserve company founded in 1852 — more than 100 years ago — licensed in your state and regulated by your own state insurance department.

For only $1, your policy will be issued and go into force for a full month just as soon as we process your Enrollment Form. Sorry, only 1 policy per family.

26 Important Questions Answered...

1. What is the Extra Cash/Plus Plan?
The Extra Cash/Plus Plan is an entirely new, low-cost plan that pays cash direct to you from the very first day when you or a covered family member are hospitalized for sickness or accident.

2. What are my chances of going to the hospital?
1 out of 7 people do each year. Yes, one out of two families will have a loved one in the hospital this year. It could be your wife, your children or you. Think of the additional bills you will have if hospitalized. You could count on up to $15,000 with Extra Cash/Plus!

3. $15,000.00? How come Extra Cash/Plus offers so much coverage at so low a cost?
Because of mass enrollment throughout the country and because there is no red tape, sales costs are kept to the barest minimum with savings passed along to you in lower premiums!

4. What will you pay my Wife?
Same big benefit as yours, $600 a month (under age 65); up to 25 months. This means up to $15,000 for each of your wife's hospital benefit periods too!

5. Are maternity benefits included?
Yes, unlike many companies, National-Ben Franklin pays $600 a month up to 25 months for your wife's hospital confinement for pregnancy, (and its complications), which begins while both of you are insured. No separate charge!

6. Will Extra Cash/Plus take care of our children?
Yes, we pay up to $7500—$300 a month up to 25 months for any of your children's hospital benefit periods. Each new baby is covered automatically after 1 month and through age 18. Yes, one low premium will include coverage for all of your children—no matter how many.

7. When does my family protection begin?
Every eligible family member is covered immediately for any accident or any illness that begins after your policy is issued.

8. Does Extra Cash/Plus cover nursing home care?
Yes, and not many do. Regardless of age, it pays up to $300—$10 a day for 30 days (each hospital benefit period) for confinement in a nursing home or hospital convalescent unit, which starts within 7 days of a 3-day (or more) covered hospital stay.

9. What is the 25% cost-of-living raise?
A hedge against even higher hospital costs! Each person's original benefits will increase 5% for benefit periods which start after the end of the 1st year of his coverage. Similar increases for 4 more years. This means 25% more cash for you at No Added Cost!

10. Does the "intensive care" feature of Extra Cash/Plus really Double my benefits?
Yes, for adults under 65 Extra Cash/Plus pays $20 a day up to 30 days each benefit period. Up to $600 are added to your hospital income dollars, a total of $1200! (Other generous benefits for other age groups). Even regular recovery room service is covered after 24 hours.

11. Do my children get the "Plus" benefits too?
Yes, Up to $300 additional for Intensive Care; up to $300 Nursing Home Care. Cost-of-Living Raises bring children's $300 benefits to $375 after 5 years.

12. What if I have other insurance?
Extra Cash/Plus pays in addition to your group coverage, Workmen's Comp, Medicare, Blue Cross, and any other company's policies.

13. Who gets the cash?

14. All mine? No taxes?
No taxes.

15. Just who can get Extra Cash/Plus?
You and your wife—Each, who has not been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years, are eligible. All of your children under 19 are eligible even if they have been hospitalized.

Here's Why—National-Ben Franklin Extra Cash/Plus Policy is Your Best Protection for the Lowest Cost.

16. Why is Extra Cash/Plus so attractive to Senior Citizens? What features in Extra Cash/Plus are designed to serve those over age 65?

At age 65 Extra Cash/Plus pays you up to $14,400 . . . for up to 25 months (over 2 years!) for each hospital benefit period. $300/month, first 2 months; $600/month for 23 months more. The $600 benefit means more money when you need it most—when your Medicare stops.

17. Do we get the "Intensive Care" feature?

Yes, 65 or over, $10 a day for 30 days, up to $300, is added to your hospital income payment.

18. What is our Total Cost-of-Living Raise for age 65 or over?

Your original benefits will increase up to a total of $375 for each of the first two months and $750 a month thereafter.

19. What am I paid for less than a month?

You're paid 1/30 of your monthly benefits for each day of confinement from the 1st day.

20. How often can I be hospitalized and still collect my full Extra Cash/Plus benefits?

As often as necessary for as many different injuries and ailments as occur. Later confinements for the same condition will be treated as continuations of the original confinement—then, after 12 months free of hospital or convalescent confinement for that condition, you will again be entitled to a new full 25 month benefit period.

21. Can my premiums be changed or can my policy be cancelled?

Your policy can never be singled out for change or cancellation because of claims or poor health. Rate schedule changes or cancellation could only occur for all policies like yours in your class and state upon proper notice; nothing of the sort is foreseen. You're Safe with Extra Cash/Plus.

22. Will I receive my money promptly?

Yes. Your claim will be handled promptly and your tax-free extra cash will be sent directly to you to use any way you wish!

23. What About "pre-Existing" conditions?

*Washington and Montana Residents: 1 year.

24. What few exclusions are there?

Only a few—to help keep your rates low. They are conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement† in any federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured.

25. How much does my first month cost? How much do I pay after that?

You pay only $1 for your first full month's coverage regardless of how old you are or the size of your family. After that you pay only the small monthly premium for your age group.

26. Whom should I list on the Enrollment Form?

We recommend you include every eligible member of your family. Remember, though, at least one parent must be covered to include any number of your children under their low rate offered during this Enrollment Period. The premium for family coverage is so low you can't afford not to have the added protection.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—Many of us who no longer smoke have a lot of glass ash trays on hand. I have found they make neat and practical spoon rests on the stove. They are easier to wash than a smeared-up stove top.—MRS. C. A.

© 1972 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY—An empty dish detergent container (particularly a round one) makes a great holder for storing half-used scouring pads. Cut about two inches from the top and three inches from the bottom, discard the middle section and then the top should fit over the extra inch of the bottom to make your container.—MIM.

DEAR POLLY—Use a saucer as a pattern for cutting a circle out of the upper portion of a worn-out rubber glove, and have a wonderful "assist" for opening those overly sealed jar lids. —MRS. M. B.

DEAR POLLY—When taking a sick person, especially a child, to the doctor it is well to carry along a few plastic food bags just in case the person should feel queasy and an "accident" seems imminent, but without time to reach a restroom. This bag can be held to the mouth and then fastened and disposed of later. This is not a very pleasant subject, but it IS practical and others may find it as useful as I have.—MRS. A. M.

DEAR POLLY—After bathing my poodle I take her outside to groom her in front of the central air-conditioning unit. It blows her dry as I brush. The warm air prevents a cold because she dries in such a short time this way.—MRS. C. M.

DEAR POLLY—Containers that strawberries or oatmeal come in can often be put to good use. The woven strawberry baskets make excellent frogs for flower arrangements. They are also handy containers for candy, popcorn or prizes to be given to children. Thread yarn or ribbon through the holes and attach a ribbon handle. Small oatmeal boxes make great candy containers for children, as they can be easily covered with leftover strips of gift-wrapping paper and yarn or ribbon handles attached. —RUTH

DEAR POLLY—An old broom or mop stick cut to the required length works very well as a sliding-door safety bar. When the door is closed, place stick in the inside track. The door can't be forced open from either the inside or the outside.—MRS. J. E. C.

DEAR POLLY—When my nylon and elasticized fabric girdles and panty girdles become limp and lose their firmness after many washings, I add a small amount of cold starch to the final rinse water. Afterward, they fit as well as when new.—ROXIE
